BOTH M'NAMARAS PLEAD GUILTY TO SAVE NECKS

Arch-Conspirator Serves Nine Years and is Restored to Union Office; Darrow Charged With Bribery

This is the eighteenth of a series of articles on the Los Angeles open-shop war. Others will follow daily.

On the morning of December 1, 1911, shortly after Judge Bordwell's court had resumed the long and weary task of getting a jury to try James B. McNamara for murder, the defendant and his brother, John J. McNamara, halted the proceedings and struck their thousands of adherents throughout the country dumb with chagrined amazement by rising before the bar of justice and pleading guilty—James to the dynamiting of The Times building, which resulted in the loss of twenty lives, and John to the blowing up of the Llewellyn Iron Works, the second most important crime committed within the jurisdiction of the court by the destroyers of the International Union of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. As has been seen, it was McManigal who really dynamited the Llewellyn plant. J. J's plea was a sort of technical one of general guilt.

Why the McNamaras confessed—or, rather, admitted as much of their criminality as would satisfy the minimum demands of the law—is no particular mystery. None knew better than themselves the damning character of the evidence against them. The confession of Ortie McManigal, their co-conspirator, who had turned State's evidence and who, as a witness for the prosecution, was about to take the stand and lay bare the whole story of their crimes, they knew to be so completely corroborated by independent evidence as to render conviction by any unprejudiced jury a moral certainty. They had no choice; they were driven to seize the crumb of mercy accorded the confessor, and they made the best deal with the authorities they could. From their standpoint they made a good bargain. James B. McNamara was to get life imprisonment for the Times murders; John W. McNamara, the brains of the dynamite conspiracy, the executive and "big man" of the union, was to be let off with a fifteen-year sentence.

BEFORE TESTIMONY BEGAN

Nor is it difficult to guess why they chose that particular moment to make their shameful plea. There were ten jurors in the box, eight permanent and two more passed for cause. Within a short time the jury would be complete and the State's evidence would begin. That evidence, as the McNamaras and a score of other high union officials knew, was likely to lay bare the whole conspiracy and smash many more than the McNamaras in the toils of justice. If it could be kept from becoming public there was a chance—remote but still a chance—that some of the others might escape. They preferred on their own account to admit the minimum to having the maximum proven on the witness stand.

Again, Bert Franklin, chief "investigator" for the defense, had just been arrested on a charge of attempting to bribe a McNamara juror, and the State had absolute evidence of a willful effort at corruption. The defense was crumbling under him and Clarence Dar-

BINGHAM ON GRIDIRON

Senator Quizzed About Lobby

Admits 'Borrowing' Bankers' Expert to Help Write Tariff Bill

Aide Put on Federal Pay Roll and Taken to Sessions of Committee

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—Under Senatorial examination frequently punctuated by savage exchanges, Senator Hiram Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, told the lobby investigating committee today of his "borrowing" an officer of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association to assist him in his share of writing the tariff bill.

Appearing voluntarily to make a statement, he was questioned for more than an hour as severely as any Senator has been at a hearing before his colleagues in recent years. Time and again the witness expressed "resentment" at the questions but every time the inquisitors bluntly demanded answers.

He said it was "possibly a mistake" to have borrowed Charles L. Eyanson, assistant to the president of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association, but insisted "no impropriety" was involved. Bingham is a member of the Senate Finance Committee, which revamped the tariff measure as passed by the House.

PUT ON PAY ROLL

Eyanson was paid by the Connecticut association during the two months he worked for Bingham. He was put on the government pay roll as secretary to the Senator at the time Bingham took Eyanson with him into the secret sessions of the Republicans of the Finance Committee when they began to write the rate schedules of the tariff legislation.

After a short time in the secret sessions, Bingham said he was asked by Chairman Smoot of the committee not to permit Eyanson there any more. Later, all secretaries of Senators on the committee were denied admittance to the sessions.

Eyanson—who also appeared today—drew the government pay as a secretary for a month, turning it over to Bingham's regular secretary whom he had displaced on the government pay roll.

Asked why he put Eyanson on the government pay roll if he did not intend that he should receive the money, Senator Bingham insisted it was in order to subject his

Fourteen Injured as Blaze Traps Sleeping Patrons in Seattle Hotel

Suspect Seen Running from Doorway After Soaking Stairway With Oil

SEATTLE, Oct. 17. (AP)—The blaze which swept through the Portland Hotel, in the oldest section of the city this morning, burning eight men to death and causing injury to fourteen other persons, was definitely established tonight as the work of a firebug.

Fire Marshal Laing declared he believes the fire, one of the worst in the history of the city, was started by the same pyromaniac who set off a number of other suspicious fires below Yesler Way during the past few months.

After a thorough investigation it was disclosed that one witness had seen a man rush out of the lodging-house carrying a bottle, and a few moments after this incident several witnesses saw a wall of flames shoot out of the narrow hotel entrance, which leads directly to the second floor, as though a furnace door had been opened, and with the suddenness of an explosion.

STAIRS OIL SOAKED

The suspect had soaked both flights of stairs in the three-story building with gasoline and kerosene, trapping the score of people asleep in the building, firemen declared.

As the hotel was operated by Japanese for itinerant white laborers, and as some of the victims were burned beyond recognition, difficulty was encountered in identifying the victims. After study of the charred hotel register and discovery of personal identifications, the Coroner has given out a list of six of the dead, as follows:

John Brink, Seattle; Harold George, Los Angeles; James Liddle, Seattle; James Mandzik, Seattle; Thomas O'Meeley, Seattle, and William A. Martin, Seattle.

There were two unidentified dead.

FOUR MAY DIE

Four so severely burned that hospital attendants doubt their recovery, are: Robert Elms, 19, Gig Harbor, Wash.; Henry Marsh, 60; John Miller, 58, and Chester A. Moore, 22, Seattle.

In addition to six other men tenants, the managers of the hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Mayeda, and two firemen were less seriously injured.

The stairway served as a flue, sending the fire raging through the hotel. Firemen had to kick in locked doors to reach many of the tenants.

A Coroner's inquest will be conducted as soon as the victims are able to testify.

MIDDLE AGE CAPABILITY UNDER TEST

Stanford University Will Study Status of Men Past 40 Years as Employees

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—The capabilities of men beyond 40 years of age will be studied by the department of psychology here in an effort to determine where middle age ends and old age begins and if men past 40 years are satisfactory employees, it was announced by Profs. Lewis M. Terman and Walter R. Miles.

Pointing out that heretofore most psychological tests have involved youth, Prof. Miles said:

"Statistics show the span of life is increasing constantly and we propose to discover whether the span of youthfulness and capability is not lengthening also. It is possible the real psychological difference between youth and age lies not in their respective capabilities but in their motivation or enthusiasm."

The research has been made possible by a grant of $10,000 by the Carnegie Foundation. The work is to continue indefinitely.

EAST GETS ITS FIRST SNOWFALL

New York and Several Other Cities Struck by Wintry Weather

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—Wintry weather struck the Northeastern States today, bringing this city, Newark, Philadelphia, Buffalo and other places the first snow of the season, borne along on a chill northwest wind that made many people don their heavy winter overcoats.

In New York as in other communities the snowfall was a mere flurry, lasting but a minute or two and leaving no trace behind, but this city escaped easier than Scranton, Pa., and Norwalk, Ct., which were visited by sleet and hail.

The northwest wind, which reached a maximum of fifty-six miles an hour here at 3:45 p.m., claimed at least one casualty. John Rosier, 77, of North Bergen, N. J., was carried off his feet by the wind whistling through the canyons of the downtown district, at Vesey and West streets. He suffered a lacerated left eye and a fractured left shoulder and was taken to the Beekman-street Hospital.

The lowest temperature recorded here during the day was 38 deg. above zero—six degrees above freezing—at 8 o'clock tonight. The highest temperature was 55 deg.

Auto Accident Kills Angeleno

OAKLAND, Oct. 17. (AP)—Mrs. Mattie Pfiefer, 55 years of age of Los Angeles, was injured fatally here tonight when she was crushed against the rear of a parked car as she was crossing Fourteenth street during a heavy traffic hour. She died at a hospital soon afterward.

Jack Gagan, 43, Oakland watchman and driver of the machine which struck Mrs. Pfiefer, will be charged with manslaughter, police declared. Officers said Gagan, who has only one arm, was intoxicated.

RUSSIAN FLYERS' HOP TO OAKLAND DELAYED

SEATTLE, Oct. 17. (AP)—Broken control wires, discovered just as the Russian flyers were preparing to take off from Sand Point Field here, caused postponement of the projected flight to Oakland today, S. A. Shestakov, chief pilot announced.

Heiress Quits Actress Role When Identified

CHICAGO, Oct. 17. (AP)—An heiress to $7,000,000 quit a Chicago stage today because the public found out who she was.

Laura Harding, 23-year-old daughter of the late J. Horace Harding, New York banker and chairman of the American Railway Express Company, had had a three-day debut in a $40-a-week role when her identity became known.

She picked up a telephone, expressed her displeasure to the theatrical press agent she supposed had given her away and announced that she would not appear in the cast tonight. She said she would return to New York.

Strangest Will on Sacramento Records Filed

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—Captioned by the words, "This is what you're looking for," one of the strangest wills on record here was filed today for probate. Although it makes no bequests, the document was admitted as the last testament of F. H. Chenoweth.

"In case of my demise," reads the missive, "plant me as cheaply as possible, without song, prayer or preacher."

Bruce Beaten in Australia

MELBOURNE (Australia) Oct. 17. (AP)—Today's counting of the delayed returns from the voting in Flinders constituency definitely established the defeat of Prime Minister Stanley Bruce in last week's election. With all the second preferences for the third candidate, a Liberal, allocated between Mr. Bruce and Mr. Holloway, Labor candidate, Holloway is 221 votes ahead and is expected to have a majority of about 200 in the final result.

Premier Bruce will resign Saturday, his party having been defeated in the general elections.

New Signboard Curb Proposed

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17. (AP)—A model ordinance regulating signboards, refreshment stands and other roadside structures will be drafted within the next few weeks by a committee appointed by the supervisors' unit at the ninth annual convention of the Redwood Empire Association here today.

The proposed ordinance would make it unlawful for any person to erect a structure along highways in any of the nine counties comprising the association without the consent of the board of supervisors of that county.

Capital Bureau Project of Bar

MEMPHIS (Tenn.) Oct. 17. (AP)—The American Bar Association would operate a bureau in Washington under plans of the committee of jurisdiction and law reform, to be submitted to the convention when it meets here.

The committee recommends that the association "maintain a properly equipped office in Washington for the purpose of keeping members of the association and its committees duly advised with reference to all matters pertaining to legislation in which the association may be interested."

RUM BRINGS MILLIONS

Ring's Business Staggering

Seven Accounts Seized in New York and New Jersey by Federal Agents

Government Men Seek Truth of Reported Spy System Within Coast Guard

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (Exclusive) With government agents on the trail of banks which financed the $30,000,000 rum ring raided yesterday, and with United States attorneys running down lawyers who aided its vast bootlegging operations, hirelings and higher-ups in the gigantic Atlantic Coast liquor network tonight are scurrying to cover.

At the same time the government forces, sweeping along the Atlantic Coast, unearthed more and more of the remarkable, up-to-date business machinery by which the rum empire maintained itself in defiance of all organized authority.

BANKS ASSISTED

Seven metropolitan banks assisted the liquor magnates in their enormous dealings, Federal agents disclosed, as today they seized seven accounts, three in New York City, three in New Jersey, and one in Long Island. At least some of these honored institutions not only carried the accounts of the liquor barons, and gave them the usual banking accommodations in foreign and domestic traffic, but supplied heavy financial backing as well, it is charged.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Watts revealed that two of the New Jersey banks are known to have advanced funds when the powerful liquor syndicate needed ready cash to finance illicit deals. The ring's business at times ran to as much as $1,000,000 weekly, its financial accounts disclosed, and it made a profit of more than $2,000,000 in the last six months.

SPIES REPORT TRACED

Tonight Federal agents were investigating a report that the remarkable efficiency of the rum syndicate was in part due to spies in the United States Coast Guard itself, planted by the rum ring many months ago. These men are said to be rum runners in disguise—enlisted as Coast Guardsmen and carrying on their dangerous task of informing their employers of Coast Guard operations with as much brazenness and skill as any spy in war time.

The government also heard of a secret signal station, looking out upon the Atlantic, which was able to command a liquor fleet of great proportions.

RADIO UNDER GUARD

Tonight approximately 150 men are under arrest, and $1,000,000 worth of rare liquors was in government custody, as a result of the dry forces' coup. The mansion at Atlantic Highlands, capitol of the ambitious rum empire, where an unlicensed radio was found in actual operation, has been under heavy guard since the raid.

Although Federal forces today coped energetically with the great pirate band, scores of men are still at large, including the real princes of the industry, it is admitted.

Notable among these, according to enforcement officials, are the Lillien brothers—Al and Bill—who are under Federal indictment but eluded apprehension and are said now to be in Montreal. Federal officers said this pair had a penthouse at Asbury Park, from which they conducted their part of the business.

FOURTEEN ARRAIGNED

Harold Lindaur, another important figure in the industry, was arraigned at Trenton, N. J., on charges of conspiring to violate the prohibition law and of operating an unlicensed radio station. He was held in $25,000 bail on the two charges.

With him were arraigned thirteen other men variously charged with conspiracy and with violation of radio operations.

Malcolm McMaster, a radio operator who is said to be unnaturalized, was held in $30,000 bail. There still was plenty of money in the rum camp, apparently, for by 5 o'clock this afternoon, all those ar-

CORSET LAUDED BY DOCTOR

Famous Surgeon Declares Low Models Really Beneficial But High Ones Not So Good

CHICAGO, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—Corsets—which seem to be decreed for fall fashions—received impressive medical approval today at the convention of the American College of Surgeons here.

Dr. Edward Martin of Philadelphia, professor of surgical physiology at the University of Pennsylvania, was the authority who gave the approval. It was an enthusiastic commendation on his part—but not a blanket one, of course. He pointed out that there are corsets and corsets, and that many of them are bad. The low and narrow ones were the ones he defended.

Princess models with their fitted lines and the return of the "normal waist" have caused some little worry on the part of women who went to be handsome and at the same time healthy. Such gowns hardly can be worn advantageously from the standpoint of good looks without corsets unless the wearer has a figure of the go-called boyish type to an unusual degree. And an impression has gone abroad to many that all corsets are bad for the health.

According to Dr. Martin, such worries are groundless — provided again, that the corsets in question are sane.

"Corsets properly applied to the lower part of the abdomen are not only all right but they are generally beneficial," he said.

But warning against higher corsets, Dr. Martin said:

"If they are carried too high they defeat their useful ends. For one thing, they interfere with respiration."

ALCOHOL ADVOCATED

Dr. Martin, who is 70 years of age, also said moderate use of alcohol during or after middle age prolongs life and adds to its joys.

Liquor should be taken for health, not for pleasure, he said. He de-

STOCKS REBOUNDING AGAIN

Strong Buying Movement Near Close of Trading Brings Upturn on New York Exchanges

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—Stocks rebounded sharply in the last half-hour of trading today from the low levels reached in the severe reaction on the New York Stock and Curb exchanges yesterday. Trading was dull and price movements were uncertain until late in the session, when powerful traders launched a strong buying movement, which drove shorts to cover their commitments in haste.

Leading issues closed from $5 to $17 higher. The Standard Statistics Company-Associated Press index of fifty industrials is regained 4.3 points of yesterday's drop of 7.1 points, the index of twenty utilities regained 4.5 of the previous day's drop of 19.7, and that of twenty rails regained one-half of a point of a loss of 2.1 points.

The short covering was hastened by uneasiness lest the weekly Federal Reserve brokers' loan figures, released after the close, should show another decrease and inspire a vigorous upturn.

The loan figures, however, were a disappointment, showing an increase of $68,000,000, practically canceling last week's decline of $91,000,000 and carrying the total to $6,541,000,000, or within $3,000,000 of the high record reached a fortnight ago, and $2,137,000,000 above the total of a year ago.

Air Reduction was a higher flyer, closing with a gain of about $17, and Auburn sold up 16. Corn Products and International Paper advanced $5 each to record high prices for the year.

Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, Oct. 17. [To the Editor of The Times:] Been reading in the papers today about the big bootlegging combine they said they had captured in the East. They had their own broadcasting station just to keep their salesmen informed on changes of prices and what the opposition was doing. They had enough guns on all their various boats that if they are not invited to the next disarmament conference it will be on account of jealousy.

You know what will happen when the whole thing goes through the courts. Why, two truck drivers will be sent to jail, the radio announcer will have his gold membership card canceled for six months, and the leaders will go into vaudeville till they can make new mergers and then open "bigger and better than ever."

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

MOSCOW, Oct. 17. (AP)—The soviet government today declined a proposal put forward by Germany that the two parties to the Manchurian dispute cease arresting each other's citizens. The proposal was made with the idea of removing one of the many causes of the charges and counter-charges that have been exchanging ever since the Chinese seized the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Russia based her refusal of the German proposal on the ground that the Nanking government has failed to keep its pledges and obligations and thus far has declined to show any good will or readiness to adhere to existing agreements.

WHY M'NAMARAS PLEADED GUILTY

And Why State, With Sure Case, Made Bargain

row himself advised the McNamaras to take the best way out. If anyone, in the general sauve qui peut, had any thought of the thousands of honest believers in the McNamaras' innocence who had subscribed that $300,000 defense fund out of their wages, it did not deter him.

Why the State, with an ironclad and literally bombproof case against the McNamaras, should have consented to bargain with them and should have accepted their minimum pleas, has been the subject of much argument. Not more than six men know all the facts and they have kept the secret well. The reason, however, is not difficult to conjecture. If the McNamaras, or either of them, had been hanged as a result of the jury's verdict, on no matter what convincing evidence, they would have been martyrs forever in the eyes of a multitude of sympathizers of the type which pays little attention to evidence. The prospective arrests, trials and convictions of the higher-ups in the conspiracy would have been made infinitely more difficult. The feeling of the country was already so high that no man could foresee the outcome of the bitter controversy over the guilt or innocence of the accused men were it not definitely settled forever by their own voluntary confessions. It was better, in the view of the State, for them to proclaim their guilt with their own lips, even though they cheat the full letter of the Mosaic law, than for the question always to remain in doubt.

On December 5 the McNamara brothers appeared before Judge Bordwell and received the sentences agreed upon—life imprisonment for James and fifteen years for John. Immediately thereafter they were taken to San Quentin prison, where James still is. His brother, the typical "model prisoner," got five years and seven months off his sentence for good behavior, and was released after serving a little more than nine years!

RESTORED TO OFFICE

Here appears one of the most extraordinary incidents of the entire history. To all fair-minded, law-abiding citizens it would appear that the heinous record of this man would have made him an outcast to those of his former associates who had not shared his guilt. Something of the peculiar workings of the official unionistic mind is shown by the fact that, so far from being shunned and repelled by the Bridge and Structural Ironworkers' Union which he had brought to disrepute and to the verge of dissolution, he was welcomed back on his release from the penitentiary, and was rewarded with the responsible office of business agent for the union's local in Indianapolis, the city where he had hatched his plots and dispatched his dynamiters but a few years before!

The leopard does not change his spots, however. Two years later John J. McNamara was again afoul of the law as a result of official criminality in connection with his work for the union. He was indicted on charges of blacklisting growing out of acts of vandalism and sabotage committed when the new Indianapolis Elks' Club Building was under open-shop construction in 1923. He was found guilty by a Marion county (Indiana) jury on September 25, 1923, was sentenced to serve an indeterminate sentence of from one to five years in the Indiana State prison and fined $1000. An appeal was taken to the Indiana State Supreme Court, and at this writing, four years later, McNamara is still at liberty on bond.

DARROW INDICTED

The sentencing of the McNamara brothers in Los Angeles in 1911 by no means scotched the evil spell of the dynamite conspiracy. New sensations were to come. On January 30, 1912, less than two months after the departure of the McNamaras for San Quentin, Clarence Darrow, their chief counsel, was indicted for jury bribing in connection with the McNamara trial, which, so far as evidence was concerned, never even got started.

Two counts were contained in the true bill returned against the Chicago lawyer by the grand jury, one alleging the attempted corruption of George N. Lockwood, the other of Robert Bain, the former a prospective, the latter an actual juryman. Darrow put up $30,000 bond and the community prepared for another bitter and costly trial.

The case against Darrow was based chiefly on the confession of Bert Franklin, Darrow's head detective, who had been used largely to "investigate" prospective jurors. Franklin himself pleaded guilty and was fined $4000, with the understanding that he would be a State's witness. In his opening statement Dist.-Atty. Fredericks charged Darrow with attempting, through hired agents, to bribe not only jurors but State witnesses in the McNamara case, and to save his clients through the medium of a jury "hung" for pay. Evidence to show the sequestering of witnesses and the giving of false testimony before the grand jury was introduced. Detective Sergeant Guy Biddinger, one of the officers who arrested the McNamaras, swore he was given money to betray the prosecution's case and that he turned it over to the State.

Franklin, the State's star witness, told a sensational story. He said Darrow had talked with him about "fixing" the jury and had set a price of $5000 for each juror. He told of a special fund known as the "McNamara account," which was kept in the Riggs National Bank in Washington, and that the $4000 found on him when he was arrested came from President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor. Gompers denied it.

Admitting that Franklin had tried to bribe the jurors, the defense declared that it was his own doing and put witnesses on the stand who quoted Franklin as often saying that Darrow had no part in the attempted corruption. Darrow himself was a witness and made the principal closing speech in his own defense. The jury acquitted him in the first, the Lockwood case, after thirty minutes' deliberation. He was soon afterward brought to trial on the second count, charging the attempted bribery of Juror Bain. The evidence was similar to that in the first case but this time the jury disagreed after a long period of deliberation. It was reported that it stood 8 to 4 for conviction.

DARROW'S DEFENSE

Darrow charged in his own defense that his prosecution was part of a conspiracy on the part of eastern steel manufacturers to get him out of the way so that he could not act in behalf of labor organizations. He excused J. B. McNamara for the Times dynamiting, saying the "poor boy" thought he was doing good to the cause of humanity and helping the poor. The first Darrow trial began on May 15, 1912, and ended August 17. In addition to himself he was defended by Earl Rogers as chief counsel, Horace Appel and Cyrus McNutt. The prosecution was conducted by Dist.-Atty. Fredericks, Asst. Dist.-Atty. Ford and Deputy Arthur Keetch.

The second trial of Darrow began January 20, 1913, and concluded March 8. Earl Rogers was again chief defense counsel, assisted by Darrow, O. W. Powers, H. J. Geisler and W. H. Dehm. For the prosecution, in addition to Fredericks and Ford, ex-Judge Wheaton A. Gray appeared as special prosecutor.

After the disagreement in the second trial the case was dismissed by Dist.-Atty. Fredericks rather than put the county to the expense of another trial.

In the meantime the spotlight of public interest had turned from Los Angeles to Indianapolis, where fifty-four men, including the president and other officers of the International Union of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers had been indicted and arrested by the Federal government as dynamite conspirators. Tomorrow's article will deal with the Indianapolis cases and the fate of Schmidt and Caplan.

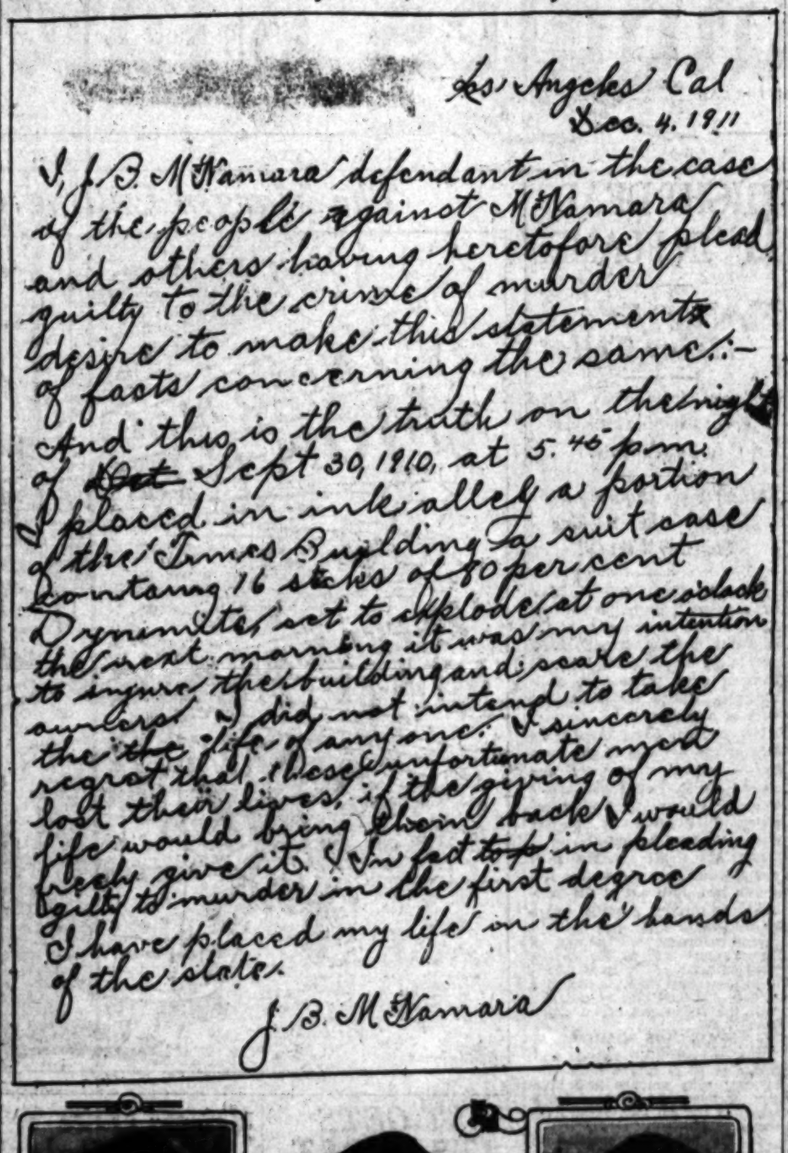
J. B. McNamara's Confession, Written by His Own Hand



Los Angeles Cal
Dec. 4. 1911

I, J B McNamara defendant in the case of the people against McNamara and others having heretofore pleaded guilty to the crime of murder desire to make this statements of facts concerning the same:-

And this is the truth on the night of ~~Oct~~ Sept 30, 1910, at 5.45 p.m. I placed in ink alley a portion of the Times Building a suit case containg 16 sticks of 60 per cent Dynamite set to explode at one o'clock the next morning it was my intention to injure the building and scare the owners I did not intend to take the life of any one. I sincerely regret that those unfortunate most lost their lives. if the giving of my life would bring them back I would freely give it. I was fool to plead guilty to murder in the first degree I have placed my life in the hands of the state.

J B McNamara

A Hitherto Unpublished Document and the Principals in Its Making

At the top is a facsimile of James B. McNamara's confession that he blew up The Times Building and killed twenty men, written and signed by himself the day before he went into court to be sentenced. Left to right, below, are the men who were present when the document was written and signed—James B. McNamara, Clarence Darrow, his chief counsel, and Capt. John D. Fredericks, then District Attorney of Los Angeles county and chief prosecuter of the dynamiters. The purpose of the statement, which McNamara wrote voluntarily, was forever to remove any doubt as to the actual authorship of the crime, which even now is denied in some quarters on the theory that the McNamaras were in some manner coerced into confessing. It will be noted that McNamara says he only meant to "injure the building and scare the owners" and that he "did not intend to take the life of anyone." This plea, made in the hope of mitigating the crime and his own sentence, is contradicted by McNamara's admitted act in setting the clock-bomb to explode at 1 a.m., the time when he, as a printer, knew would find the greatest number of open-shop printers at work in a morning newspaper office and when he was certain, from many nights of observation, that Harry Chandler would be in his office next to Ink Alley. He says he put only sixteen sticks of dynamite in the suit case, though all the evidence, including the statements of co-conspirators, is that there were at least forty. An interesting and significant fact in connection with this written confession is that vigorous and persistent efforts have been made to get it back from the authorities and so remove it from the permanent records of the case.

DUCE ACCUSED AS WAR MAKER

Jugo-Slavian Population in Wild Demonstrations

Italy Declared Backing Macedonian Raids

BELGRADE, Oct. 17. (Exclusive) That seeds of a new world war are being sown by Premier Mussolini with his Istrian and Dalmatian policies is the opinion of Jugo-Slavian political leaders. They were admittedly worried tonight over the new turn the Italian-Jugo-Slavian conflicts have taken with the Pola trial and the execution by a firing squad at daybreak this morning of Vladimir Gorton, Slovene student convicted of killing a Fascist during the June elections in Istria.

The anti-Italian demonstrations which have been carried on without interruption for the last few days reached a new pitch of fury this afternoon when the news of the execution broke through the heavy Italian censorship.

POLICE MOBILIZED

Parades and manifestations were held in all parts of the country this afternoon, while all the nation's police were called out tonight to quell riots, which are feared inevitable. In an attempt to prevent the organization of students, the rector of Zagreb University closed the doors of the institution this morning and managers of most of the country's theaters called off tonight's performances.

It is generally believed here that Italy is giving financial support to the Macedonian bands on the southern and eastern frontiers of Jugo-Slavia and that, through the Nettuno treaty, Italians are buying up the land along the Dalmatian coast.

This latter action has been watched with alarm for sometime by Jugo-Slavs, who contend that if Premier Mussolini has given full backing to the annexation policy of the Dalmatian heel he will precipitate a new world catastrophe.

PLEA TO LEAGUE

The report that Gorton was shot in the back as a traitor by the firing squad, has not helped matters. It is asserted by Slovenes that the student band at Pola fired a volley of shots into the air instead of into Fascist ranks. Zagreb students today sent a request to the League of Nations to intervene, while the Belgrade students had addressed a note to all of the foreign diplomatic representatives in Jugo-Slavia to appeal to their countries to save the condemned man.

IDAHO FAGAN KIDNAPER TO SERVE TIME

Man Who Stole Children in Hollywood and Taught Them to Steal Sentenced

POCATELLO (Idaho) Oct. 17. (AP) Herschall Hammond, 31 years of age, must serve four years in McNeil Island penitentiary, Washington, after conviction of kidnaping two children in California, transporting them to this State and teaching them to steal for him.

United States District Judge Cavanagh, in passing sentence, declared the case one of the worst he ever had heard. Hammond was arrested here with a 16-year-old boy and a 13-year-old girl.

Hammond kidnaped the children at Hollywood and was arrested at Idaho Falls.

FALL BORDERS ON COLLAPSE

Lawyers Row Over Whether Recess be Taken

Doheny and Wife on Stand Today in Bribe Trial

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—The condition of Albert B. Fall's health led to disagreement between opposing counsel today as to whether and how his bribery trial should continue, with the result that the ailing defendant ultimately sat through the afternoon session while presentation of testimony on his behalf went on.

Defense attorneys asked at a noon conference with Justice Hitz that the former Interior Secretary be excused from the session because of a setback in his illness. Government counsel insisted, however, that if Fall was too ill to be in court the case should be recessed until tomorrow.

FALL REFUSES OFFER

Fall refused to take advantage of this offer and appeared at the afternoon session. Frank Hogan, chief of defense counsel, announced that Fall had been on a "verge of collapse" during the afternoon and had been kept up by strychnine injections administered by his physician, Dr. H. T. Safford. Members of Fall's family said they will bring him to court again tomorrow.

Much of the time today was occupied by reading to the jury testimony by the late Edwin Denby, Secretary of the Navy in the Harding Cabinet, an dthe late Edward L. Doheny, Jr., given at the Fall-Doheny conspiracy trial here three years ago. Denby in his testimony took responsibility for letting the Pearl Harbor contract, for which the government charges Fall accepted a bribe of $100,000 from Edward L. Doheny.

DOHENYS TO TESTIFY

The testimony of young Doheny described bringing $100,000 to Fall in Washington November 30, 1921.

The defense also called several prominent residents of New Mexico, who testified that Fall had a reputation for integrity in the community in which he resides.

Hogan announced after adjournment that Edward L. Doheny and Mrs. Doheny will be called tomorrow. The slow progress of the trial today made it improbable that the case would reach the jury before late next Monday or on Tuesday.

BRITISH ALLIANCE SCORES LIQUOR BOARD

LONDON, Oct. 17. (AP)—The United Kingdom Alliance, the largest temperance association in this country, has announced its disapproval of the appointments to the governmental licensing commission, which will investigate the liquor laws in England. Several commissioners have strong financial interests in maintaining the liquor trade, the alliance asserts, "while representatives of the alliance and of other temperance organizations, which have made the question their own, are excluded."

STAGE FUNNY LADY WINS MIDAS SMILES

Vaudeville Headliner and Authoress Left $500,000 as Sole Heir of Uncle

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (Exclusive) Irene Franklin, actress, vaudeville headliner and author, at present appearing as the funny lady in "Sweet Adeline," today announced she has inherited $500,000 from an uncle, Richard Haley, who died October 5 in Sydney, Australia.

The uncle, who has left Miss Franklin his fortune, left Cork, Ireland, as a young man to seek his fortune in Australia. His sister—Miss Franklin's mother—came to America and married. The uncle started herding sheep, prospered and became owner of a sheep ranch. This ranch is included in the legacy to Miss Franklin, who is his only living relative.

The actress frequently visited her uncle and only six months ago while on a vaudeville tour of the world passed some time at his ranch.

PAY ROLLS IN ARMORED CAR STOLEN

Total of $63,200 Gone and Truck Abandoned; Chauffeur Sought

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—An abandoned armored truck, from which police say $63,200 in pay-roll money had been stolen, was found by police tonight on the Lower West Side. Police sent out a general alarm for the chauffeur, Raymond A. Gallagher, whom they charge with the theft. One pay roll of $500 was left in the truck.

Police say Gallagher was locked in the car when it stopped in front of a bank where a messenger and a guard made a deposit. The truck had disappeared when the two men emerged from the bank a few minutes later.

Police later found the truck abandoned in Greenwich street, near a police station. The $500 pay roll left in the car was that of the International Harvester Company of the Bronx.

Two hours after the truck disappeared a messenger boy delivered a package of empty pay-roll envelopes, which had contained $63,200, to the offices of Brink's Express Company, owners of the truck.

AL SMITH SILENT ON POLITICS

Refuses to Say Whether He Will Run for Senate or Seek Renomination

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (Exclusive) The Democratic Presidential nomination in 1932 is not a closed book for Alfred E. Smith. Mr. Smith, the defeated Democratic standard bearer in last year's national contest with Herbert Hoover, broke his silence of a year just long enough to furnish a definite indication as to his attitude toward the much-discussed question:

"What does Al Smith plan to do in 1932?"

"Governor," he was asked, "is it true that you will seek to enter the Senate in 1934?"

Mr. Smith declined to answer.

"Have you determined not to run for President again?"

Mr. Smith did answer that question, and this is what he said:

"A man never gets anywhere or accomplishes much if he makes his plans too far in advance.

"You cannot tell what is going to happen in the future; what may occur in between times. And to count on what you will do at some distant time is, to me, silly."

Defense Inquiry to be Instigated

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—Looking toward a revision of the National Defense Act and the drafting of a new army air expansion program, acting Chairman James plans to institute investigations of those projects by the House Military Committee at the December session of Congress.

James expressed confidence today that evidence gathered at hearings before the committee on the Defense Act and the air program will result in a redrafting of the former and an expansion of the latter to meet conditions which have developed since they were adopted.

ITALY SEEKING FRENCH ACCORD

Pre-London Parley on Navy Cut Broached

Rome Outlines Demands to Go Before Conference

Parity With Paris Program Will be Insisted

ROME, Oct. 17. (AP)—Believing that a Franco-Italian agreement on naval disarmament will assure the success of the forthcoming five-power naval conference in London, Italy has broached with France the idea of reaching a preliminary understanding between themselves similar in scope to that reached by England and the United States.

An Italian government spokesman stated today that Italy has sent a note to France proposing that they, the two chief Mediterranean powers, begin negotiations for an agreement on the strength of their navies.

AWAITING REPLY

Italy now is awaiting the French reply to this note, which was sent forward to Paris at the same time that the Italian acceptance of the British invitation to the conference was dispatched to London.

The note embraces three points. First: Italy demands parity with France, which has provided matter for controversy already, but injects a new element into the problem by offering to let France set whatever parity she wishes.

The Italian attitude is that France should declare how large an armament she feels is necessary for her and that Italy should then meet the figures. Italy still contends that she should be strong enough in the Mediterranean to face any combination of powers with Mediterranean aspirations.

ON TOTAL TONNAGE

Second, Italy feels that the agreement should be reached on the basis of total tonnage, and not on units of ships.

Third, the principle of interdependence of all branches of armaments should be established and adhered to, in order to arrive at limitation of army and air forces.

No meeting place for the conference is suggested in the note.

Italy declares she will make concessions on the second and third points, in order to reach an agreement, but will insist on the first.

FRANCE PREPARED FOR PRELIMINARY DISCUSSION

PARIS, Oct. 17. (AP)—France, it quite prepared to have preliminary conversations on naval disarmament with Italy or any of the other powers concerned in the conference at London next January.

It was stated, however, that it had been thought here that these conversations could best be held through regular diplomatic channels, rather than by means of a separate conference, suc has Italy has proposed. Nevertheless it was deemed conceivable that France might consent to participate in such a conference with Italy if this prove dthe most feasible manner of reaching an agreement on outstanding issues.

Naval parity between the two countries is one of these issues. Another is the problem of distributing tonnage into categories of warships.

SHOW MEN UNITE TO BUY FILMS

Theater Owners Expect to Handle Distribution and Realize Profits

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—Frank J. Rembusch, Indianapolis theater owner, today announced the incorporation in Delaware of the Motion-Picture Congress of America, the purpose of which he said is to "buy pictures from producers and to handle all distribution of the same among its exhibitor members on the basis of a new profit-sharing franchise."

Rembusch is president of the new organization. In his announcement he calls attention to a decision Tuesday by Federal Judge Thacher here upholding the government's demand for an injunction restraining forty-three defendants, including leading producers and film boards of trade, from unlawful enforcement of uniform lease contracts and arbitration agreements relating to motion-picture distribution and display.

Rembusch said the newly formed congress will endeavor "to correct the evils of the present system" and that one of its objects will be to get pictures for the theater owners "on fair terms."

STIMSON HEADS NAVAL ENVOYS

Secretary Named by Hoover for London Mission

Impression Prevails He Will be Sole Delegate

Gibson and Jones Likely to be His Advisers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State, has been determined upon by President Hoover as head of the American delegation to the London naval limitations conference in January.

HENRY L. STIMSON.

Whether Mr. Stimson will be the sole American delegate remains for future determination, but there seems to be a strong impression in some official circles that such will be the case.

Should Mr. Stimson be the only delegate, he undoubtedly will have as his chief advisers Hugh S. Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium, and Rear Admiral Hilary Jones, U.S.N., retired, who were the American delegates to the tripartite naval limitations conference held at Geneva in 1927 by call of President Coolidge.

CANADA AND OTHER DOMINIONS REPRESENTED

OTTAWA, Oct. 17. (AP)—Canada and the other members of the British commonwealth of nations will be represented at the five-power naval limitations conference in London in January, Ramsay MacDonald said today after his arrival from Toronto for conferences with Premier MacKenzie King.

The Prime Minister of Great Britain said that no arrangements which would be binding on Canada would be entered into without the knowledge and consent of this dominion. Final arrangements with respect to the disarmament problem rest with the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy.

In an interview with the press he said the purpose of his visit to the United States and Canada is not agreements, but to create an atmosphere favorable to a further conference on the naval question. The question embraces much more than the attitude of two powers, he said, adding that the Labor government of Great Britain wants "a world agreement on disarmament which is going to result in world pacification."

Mr. MacDonald was asked why he had gone to the United States to discuss the disarmament rather than approaching one of the other great powers. He replied that until Great Britain could obtain some assurance of agreement on disarmament with the United States there was no use calling a general conference.

"WHY ARENT THOS. HEATH CLOTHES MORE EXPENSIVE?"

Answer: The makers of Thos. Heath have adhered, through the years, to a certain well-defined policy—the policy of making extraordinarily fine clothes for a moderate consideration. Almost, one would say they are a little old-fashioned in their attitude. They are concerned, of course, with how much they can get for their clothes. But they are even more concerned with how much hand work, personal supervision, and endless fussing with details they can put into them.

Was Almost a Physical Wreck, Says L. A. Woman

"It's wonderful to feel well and strong again, like I am now since taking Sargon, and I can't think of enough good things to say about this splendid medicine," said Mrs. William Har, of 3271 Romona Blvd., Los Angeles.

Time and time again this thought is expressed in the statements of thousands of sufferers, from all walks of life, who testify that they found new health and strength through Sargon's amazing powers. Read Mrs. Har's interesting experience given below, then put Sargon to the test in your own case and judge for yourself as to its superlative merit. She said:

"I suffered for two years with so many ailments, I was almost a physical wreck. An inactive liver made me subject to constipation and biliousness and being forced to take strong cathartics nearly every day, simply kept my stomach in a constant turmoil. Nothing I ate seemed to agree with me and I'd have gas pains and dyspepsia after almost every meal. My kidneys and gall bladder were out of order and there was an awful pain in the small of my back. Many a night I'd wake up suffering so terribly, I'd have to get up and walk the floor. I hardly knew what it was to get a good night's sleep and I'd be as tired in the mornings as when I went to bed. In spite of all the medicines I tried, I didn't seem to get any better and I began to think I never would recover my health and strength.

"But six bottles of this marvelous, new Sargon made me feel like an entirely different woman! It seemed to act on my whole system and strengthened me wonderfully from the very first. There's not a trace of that old pain in my back now and my kidneys and gall bladder seem to be functioning properly. One of the greatest blessings is that I'm not constipated in the least, nor subject to bilious attacks. Sargon stimulated my liver to a normal, healthy action and it certainly is a relief not to have to always be taking laxatives. My stomach is soothed, I have a marvelous appetite and eat anything I want without a sign of gas pains or dyspepsia. I sleep like a child and am so much stronger, I can work hard around the house all day without tiring.

"I don't believe there's a medicine on earth to compare with Sargon and I expect to always keep a bottle on hand."

The Sargon Man is at the Owl Drug Store, 6th & Broadway, where he is meeting the public and explaining the merits of this celebrated new scientific product. Sargon may be obtained at all Owl Drug Stores in Los Angeles and other cities.—[Advertisement.]

OLD DAM ISSUE REVIVED BY CITY

Government Requested to Install Equipment

Question Rehashed With Wilbur and Mead

Nevada Stays on War Path in Fight for Third

BY LAWRENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—Representatives of the city of Los Angeles and the Metropolitan Water District today revived the old proposition that the government install the power plant equipment at Boulder Dam, rather than leave that to the purchasers of power, as proposed by the Interior Department.

They took up the point with Secretary Wilbur, and Dr. Elwood Mead, Reclamation Commissioner, in informal conference this afternoon. Their argument was that it will be cheaper and more efficient for the government to equip the plant at the same time the powerhouse is built, under a single construction contract and with the use of low-interest government money.

Figuring a total cost for power machinery of approximately $20,000,000, the spokesmen for Los Angeles presented figures purporting to show that government installation will mean a saving of something like $760,000 a year, this being made up mainly through the difference in interest rates the government will have to pay, the higher rate municipalities will have to pay, and the still higher charge private power companies will have to bear.

STATEMENTS WITHHELD

No statement was forthcoming as to the reaction the appeal made on Secretary Wilbur and Commissioner Mead, but indications are they are standing firmly on the administration's policy of ending the government's function with the building of the dam and power plant.

Reference to past statements on the subject seems to show that President Hoover and Interior Department officials are not inclined to regard such a saving as the representatives of the city of Los Angeles pointed out, as a genuine saving; but look upon it more as increasing the burden on the taxpayers just to make a book-keeping showing. There is little expectation that Secretary Wilbur will yield on a principle he apparently settled definitely at the Las Vegas conference last summer.

There was no formal conference today, the second meeting between bidders and Secretary Wilbur on allocation of power being called off a third time in as many days because some groups, including the city of Los Angeles, still were unprepared to talk in formal manner. However, informal meetings between the various groups continued, and additional progress was reported all the way around.

NEVADA STILL FIGHTS

For one thing, it is reported that the city and the private power companies are in substantial agreement to the effect that the estimated 200,000 firm horsepower which Los Angeles ultimately will need to pump domestic water from the dam, should be split up for marketing purposes until it is needed for the water project.

Nevada remained on the war path today with its demand for a full one-third share of all the power from the dam, and spokesmen for the State argued at length with officials of the reclamation service that they have a legal right to power to be sold outside the State. The firm opinion of attorneys at the department is that the Swing-Johnson Act confers no such right.

RADIO LYRIC HONORS WON BY PUGILIST

'Kid Nick' of New Mexico Knocks Judges Cuckoo With Spanish Melodies

SANTA FE (N. M.) Oct. 17. (AP)—A New Mexico pugilist with a clear lyric tenor voice is the New Mexico winner of the national radio audition.

Nicholas Escajeda, whose melodies of Spain and Old Mexico won the hearts of judges and the radio audience in State contests broadcast over station KOB, today was learned to be "Kid Nick" of the New Mexico prize ring.

"Kid Nick" packs a punch in either fist and in recent months his ring record shows one draw, one decision and a knockout, although he took the count of ten himself recently in a bout with Dave Jackson, Little Rock, Ark. He fights at 118 pounds.

In November he will represent New Mexico in the southwestern district radio contests at Dallas, Tex.

Hoover Sends Senate List of Appointments

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—The White House announced today that Charles C. Hart of Oregon, at present Minister to Albania, had been appointed Minister to Persia.

The President also nominated Smedley D. Butler to be a permanent major-general of marines. Butler was appointed a temporary major-general some weeks ago.

Along with these nominations were sent those of Benjamin H. Littleton of Tennessee to fill the Democratic vacancy on the Court of Claims, and Thomas S. Williams of Illinois to fill the Republican vacancy.

Richard J. Hopkins of Kansas, whose appointment as a district judge for Kansas was announced this morning, also was submitted to the Senate for confirmation.

KING'S RELIGION UNDER FIRE

Irish Free State Objects to Constitutional Declaration of Protestantism by Monarch

[Copyright, 1929, by the Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—Under the new status given King George three years ago by the imperial conference, which makes him monarch of the seven countries of the commonwealth, all on an equal basis, the question of the King's religion has arisen. Important representations have been made by Catholic Irish Free State citizens about the requirement of the King in the coronation declaration, where he must proclaim himself a "faithful Protestant."

Other dominions as well as the Irish are said to be interested in this question. It is not likely to be brought up by the present experts in the imperial conference now meeting in London, but is to be broached at the full imperial conference next year.

The Irish, who wish to have the religious declaration removed from the coronation declaration, point out that the position of the King of England in relation to the commonwealth has been completely altered in the past three years, and that King George is the link between Great Britain and the other commonwealth nations, and, in fact, the King of each country.

They declare that under Art. VIII of the Free State constitution, the free profession and practice of religion is guaranteed, and this is inconsistent with the act passed some centuries ago in England requiring the monarch to proclaim allegiance to Protestantism. As the present system works out, declare the Irish, the only person in the Irish Free State who is denied freedom of conscience is King George.

The question also is being discussed in England, and high constitutional authorities believe that under the allied authority within the commonwealth the objection to the coronation declaration of "faithfulness to Protestantism" can be legladly sustainable by the Free State under its constitution.

BANK CURB WON BY AMERICANS

International Institution Will be Subject to Veto Clause

BADEN-BADEN (Germany) Oct. 17. (AP)—The American delegation to the bank of international settlements conference, led by M. A. Traylor of Chicago, today won its fight for the adoption of a veto clause having particular bearing on the position of the Federal Reserve Bank.

The clause places the Federal Reserve Bank in the position of never having to assent to any international bank operation or of having to dissent unless it so wishes, and yet prevents the bank from doing anything contrary to Federal Reserve policies.

TEST ON LIQUOR PURCHASE ASKED

Atty.-Gen. Mitchell Favors Supreme Court Ruling

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—Atty.-Gen. Mitchell said today a determination of the liability to arrest of the purchaser of bootleg liquor could be obtained only through the arrest and conviction for actual purchase and then carrying the case to the Supreme Court.

He expressed belief that no pending case will provide a proper test and that since the recently discussed Philadelphia case, in which the Circuit Court of Appeals held the buyer not liable, was based on conspiracy to violate the law through buying, it did not constitute a thorough test.

PAINS DEFEATED BY ANESTHETICS

Life is Continual Torture Works to Aid World

Nervous Disorders Soothed by Artificial Sleep

Gas and Drugs Restore Sanity, Tests Show

CHICAGO, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—A man who never has been free from pain, since delivering arthritis attacked him fifteen years ago, is giving his life in a tireless effort to relieve pain from the world, so that it will be possible, and it is in this connection that he is conducting from headquarters at the eighth annual convention of anesthetists meeting in the Drake Hotel here.

Dr. F. H. McMechan, Avondale, general secretary of the congress and editor of the journal of the American Anesthesia Research Society, Clinical Research in Anesthesia, had done more than any other man to spread the gospel of pain relief throughout the world, before attending the convention.

CAN'T MOVE MUSCLE

Unable to move a muscle in his body, Dr. McMechan nevertheless directed extensively, helping organize conventions of anesthetists. He returned with his wife a week ago from the first session on anesthesia of the Australasian medical congress in Sydney, Australia.

He is of the third generation of a line of medical men, all of whom graduated from the University of Cincinnati. Dr. McMechan studied anesthesia when it was in its preliminary stages. Of late he has opened up a new field which promises to be of tremendous importance in treating nervous diseases by putting patients to sleep, Dr. McMechan said.

Through some mysterious action which science cannot yet explain, marvels have been accomplished by the action of anesthetics on the nervous system, he explained.

Patients with dementia praecox, some of whom had been mute for years, talked rationally for periods of about fifteen minutes under the anesthetic, composed of carbon dioxide and oxygen, it was revealed by Dr. Mary E. Botsford, anethetist of San Francisco, in a paper read before the congress.

CAN BE CURED

"It is so new a thing we cannot tell how far it will go, but we hope that through daily or even thrice daily treatments, repeated over a long period, dementia praecox may be entirely cured," Dr. McMechan explained.

Other doctors in the conference told of restoring dementia praecox patients to temporary sanity for brief periods under carbon dioxide, which affects the respiratory center of the brain and raises blood pressure.

Carbon dioxide has been found to be invaluable in the treatment of persons poisoned from alcohol and narcotics, Dr. McMechan said.

A combination of drugs and gases used in some hospitals has rendered childbirth entirely painless without ill effect to the mother or child, and has cut down child and mother fatalities 25 per cent, Dr. McMechan said.

ALFONSO'S HEALTH LAID TO LACK OF REGULARITY

CHICAGO, Oct. 17. (AP)—King Alfonso of Spain is in "beautiful health," his personal physician, Viscount Aguilar, said today, because "he never has been a man of regular habits." Viscount Aguilar is attending the American College of Surgeons.

"My sovereign never has been a slave to regular diet, regular sleep, regular exercises, or regular anything else. He is not so stupid," the physician said. "Consequently at 43 years of age he is in beautiful health, and he never has had a serious illness in his life.

"The only worry he causes me arises from the fact he is so busy he does not get enough sleep—in my opinion. Even kings should sleep eight hours, but he only gets about six and a half.

"Perhaps it is his moderation in eating and drinking which counteracts the bad effects of insufficient sleep. He eats less than half the amount the average man does, and he drinks very lightly."

Stunt Man Not in Pathe Employ

CHICAGO, Oct. 17. (AP)—The Associated Press herewith corrects a dispatch carried the 15th inst., in which it was stated that Rudy Camenti, New York daredevil, who plunged twenty stories to his death from the new Civic Opera Building during a rope-sliding stunt, had been engaged by the Pathe company.

Investigation has shown that Camenti was not employed by the Pathe company, and the Associated Press regrets having carried the erroneous reference.

End of Forced-Landing Peril Seen Within Five Years

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the silent man of the air, today talked on the only subject which will make him loquacious—aviation and its future.

"In five years we will have planes—we must have them—that simply won't land when you don't want them to," he said. "They just won't come down in forced landings.

"We must be able to take off in fog in New York, for instance, and land in fog in Chicago. They will come. Radio will help immensely."

Air Smuggler's Whisky Seized

WINDSOR (Ont.) Oct. 17. (AP)—United States customs inspectors who arrested five men unloading liquor from an airplane at Nine Mile Road, near Detroit, said today that the machine had been operating the past week or ten days out of La Salle, one of Essex county's down-river export centers.

The pilot escaped in his airplane as he noted the approach of the Federal men, who captured an automobile and ten cases of whisky which they said had been removed from the air smuggler's machine.

Farm Board Makes Request to Secretary Hyde

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—The Federal Farm Board announced today that it has requested Secretary Hyde "to indicate to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics the need of prompt enlargement of its crop reporting and agricultural outlook service in the foreign field."

The action was taken after a conference of the board with Department of Agriculture officials at which a report from a committee on the development and extension of a foreign agricultural marketing and outlook service was discussed. It emphasized that the present foreign agricultural information service is inadequate.

J. R. GARFIELD TO HEAD BOARD

Secretary Under Roosevelt Honored by Hoover

Conservation Expert Will Study Water Supply

Post Erroneously Stated as Going to His Brother

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (Special)—James R. Garfield, Secretary of Interior in the Roosevelt administration, was designated today by President Hoover to be chairman of the commission on conservation and management of the public domain.

JAMES R. GARFIELD

Mr. Garfield was one of the leaders in the conservation movement under the Roosevelt administration. It had first been indicated that the chairman would be his brother, Dr. Harry A. Garfield of Williams College, but this was said at the White House to have been an erroneous implication.

Before the week is out the President expects to make public the names of the remainder of the commission.

The commission will be charged with inquiring into the conservation of the water supply, ranges, oil and mineral lands and forests. It also will seek to determine what part the States should play in the management of the public domain and what part should be governed by Federal authorities.

President Hoover has discussed the question of public domain and the work of the commission with several Congressmen, and it was said at the White House they have assured him they will support an appropriation to carry on the commission's work.

BINGHAM USES BANKERS' AIDE

aid to "Senate discipline" while he was in attendance at the secret sessions during which the rates were being fixed.

DISAPPROVES LANGUAGE

"Surely you didn't approve of the falsification of the government records, did you?" asked Senator Robinson, Republican, Indiana, and from then on Bingham and the four committee members had frequent verbal clashes.

"I don't like the word 'falsification,'" the Senator replied, again explaining the circumstances of Eyanson going on the government pay roll.

At the conclusion of the hearing, which will be resumed tomorrow with Eyanson again on the stand, Chairman Caraway of the committee said he did not contemplate going any further with the matter than to air it.

Senator Bingham is the tallest member of the Senate and he towered above the committee as he arose to make his statement. Sitting down during the cross-examination, he slouched deep in the witness chair, dangling one leg over the other but straightening up every few minutes to answer the inquisitors.

When Caraway asked Bingham if he ever told any one, even after publication of the story about employment of Eyanson, that Eyanson was paid all the time by the Connecticut manufacturers, Bingham said he had not "blasoned it forth."

Bingham told Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, it was "unfair" to say that Eyanson was "serving two masters."

CLASH WITH WALSH

While Walsh was inquiring about the various rate increases provided for Connecticut industries in the tariff bill, Bingham declared, "If the Senator will not be so sarcastic and will permit me to answer I will appreciate it."

Walsh thereupon demanded a direct answer to a question as to whether the Senate Finance Committee did not cut down the House rate on wool to the existing rate. Several times Bingham started to reply by giving the reasons for the rate.

"Well, you needn't answer if you won't answer directly, as requested," the Montanan said after seeking to stop Bingham's explanatory reply several times.

"The answer is yes," shouted Bingham, "as the Senator well knows what the rate is. I object to his manner of examination."

"Why is the Senator asking about these tariff rates," Bingham pursued.

"I want to find out how effective Mr. Eyanson's work has been," replied Walsh.

"Does the Senator imply the lobbying, so-called, of Mr. Eyanson was improper?"

"I am not under inquiry and I don't know the facts. I am now trying to learn them," said Walsh.

Called to the stand after Bingham, Eyanson said he received $10,000 annually as assistant to the president of the Connecticut association. He disclosed also that Bingham had sent him a check for $1000 after he had concluded his work with the Senator and returned to Connecticut. He has not cashed that check, but intends to return it, he said, because he felt he was not entitled to it.

Newsies Exempt From Law Curb

MEMPHIS (Tenn.) Oct. 17. (AP)—Boys from 9 to 14 years of age still can cry "extra" as loudly as their lungs will permit without violating the uniform child labor law being drafted here by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws.

Exemption of newsboys from the provisions of the law was voted today after two southern attorneys, Gen. Peter W. Maldrim, Savannah, Ga., Civil War veteran, and Judge James B. Caton of Alexandria, Va., made a spirited defense of selling papers as a start in life.

CANADA ASKS EXPLANATION

Firing on Ship Shawnee, Reputed Liquor Vessel, by Coast Guard, Subject of Correspondence

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—The firing by the Coast Guard last month on the Canadian ship Shawnee, which was mentioned by Assistant Secretary Lowman as a member of the smuggling fleet of the liquor ring uncovered by raids along the Atlantic Coast last night, has become the subject of diplomatic correspondence between the United States and Canada.

Acting on instructions from Ottawa, the Canadian legation here has asked the State Department for a report on firing September 11, by patrol boat No. 145, on the Shawnee off New York Harbor. The legation also submitted to the department the version of the incident as furnished to the Canadian government by Capt. John MacLeod of the Shawnee.

WITHOUT LIGHTS

Assistant Treasury Secretary Lowman in charge of prohibition enforcement, said the Shawnee was a member of the smuggling fleet, the heads of which were the object of raids extending from New York to Atlantic City, N. J. He said it had been sighted off Ambrose light running without lights on the occasion of the firing.

The affidavit of Capt. MacLeod alleged the Shawnee was fired upon seventeen miles off the American coast, after he had replied to the challenge of the Coast Guard vessel by hoisting a British flag, the further said he had never been able to make more than twelve knots an hour with his vessel and that he was therefore outside the "one hour's sailing distance" from shore provided in the rum-smuggling treaty as the boundary for Coast Guard operations with suspected vessels.

SHIP NOT SEIZED

In its report to Assistant Secretary Lowman, the Coast Guard said the ship was running without lights and that two live shells fired at the vessel were used only after three blank charges had been exploded.

The Canadian Legation requested today that the matter be investigated thoroughly and that the details be furnished to Minister Massey here for transmission to Ottawa.

Neither the MacLeod nor the Coast Guard version mentioned whether the Shawnee carried liquor. The vessel was not seized at the time, but proceeded to Halifax, where MacLeod made its statement of facts to the authorities.

HOOVER READY TO DROP TARIFF

views regarding the present muddled tariff legislation situation.

Meanwhile in the Senate, Senator Smoot gave notice that he intends to press for night sessions to speed the legislation, and Senator Johnson of California charged that Republican administration leaders themselves were deliberately causing its delay.

Senator Johnson hurled the filibustering accusation in passing judgement on the fact that the Senate had spent five hours on a Democratic amendment which was adopted ultimately by an overwhelming vote. He contended the managers of the bill knew what the outcome of the ballot was going to be and could have saved the whole day by agreeing at the outset.

PLANS NEW JOB

The amendment approved today by a vote of 68 to 11 will set up in the Tariff Commission another government agency to be known as the office of consumers' counsel, with a $10,000 four-year term attorney at its head. He will have authority to represent the general consuming public before the commission in all rate applications.

Thirty-three Republicans joined thirty-five Democrats for the amendment, while all eleven opponents were old guard Republicans, those voting in the negative being Senators Allen, Dale, Edge, Fess, Goldsborough, Hastings, Hebert, Moses, Phipps, Smoot and Warren.

CALLS OFFICE USELESS

Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, just before the roll call, said he was about to cast a "cynical" ballot for it. He said the new office will be useless, but he was not going to throw himself open to the inevitable accusation that he was opposed to the interests of the consumer.

Johnson said the only deduction he could draw from the "spectacle," as he termed the debate, was that the managers of the measure, excluding Chairman Smoot of the Finance Committee, were trying to filibuster.

Smoot had called attention to the time spent on the amendment and was urging a little more haste when Johnson, jumping to his feet in a rage, said it was the fault of the bill's proponents because they knew when the Senate met today that the proposal could not be defeated.

JOHNSON OBJECTS

After Smoot said he was going to propose night sessions, Johnson served notice he will not vote for night meetings in view of "such spectacles as this." Previously both Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, and Senator Borah had said they disapproved night sessions on the bill.

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, protested against the attempt to hasten passage of the bill.

"What industry is suffering?" he asked, "that hasn't suffered in the last seven years and had the opportunity to appeal to the Tariff Commission for relief under flexible clause?"

"Let's proceed in due haste," he added, "but let's at least have full and complete debate."

Another cause for worry on the part of administration leaders that developed during the day was seen in the decision of the full membership of the Finance Committee to have printed and turned over to each Senator a copy of the data gleaned by the Treasury from tax returns and submitted to the committee in response to a Senate resolution.

FEAR PUBLICITY

The information was sought for use in consideration of the tariff bill and after the meeting Chairman Smoot expressed concern over the possibility of the information becoming public in violation of what he believes to be the spirit of the resolution. Both Republican and Democratic leaders expressed the off-hand opinion that this will not be a violation of law.

The Senate adopted without record votes two other amendments before quitting for the day. One, by Senator Bratton, Democrat, New Mexico, will require a manufacturer or producer seeking to have an article excluded from entry post a bond to answer for all damages and costs suffered in event their complaints are rejected by the courts as unfounded.

The other amendment was sponsored by Senator King, Democrat, Utah. It will make it unlawful for any person to prevent or attempt to prevent in any manner any member or employee of the tariff commission from exercising the functions imposed on them by law.

SON-IN-LAW OF FAMED SURGEON MEETS DEATH

CHICAGO, Oct. 17. (AP)—Julius Benedict, son-in-law of the late Dr. John B. Murphy and well known in Chicago society and club life, was killed by a hit-and-run motorist late last night. His woman companion, Mrs. Wava Rex Hyde, a divorcee, was severely injured.

EX-CONVICT RELEASED

Mannie Kessler, Atlanta ex-convict, bootlegger king, and Morris Sweetwood, two of the men taken into custody in New Jersey last night on suspicion of being the "master minds" of the rum trust, were released today after the Federal authorities had questioned them, the investigators asserting they are satisfied they had no connection with the syndicate.

The rum smuggling trust made a profit of more than $3,000,000 in the last six months and paid weekly dividends of from 7 to 23 per cent, according to data found in a "little black book" among the various other details discovered.

OFFICIALS PAID

Prohibition Administrator Calhoun of New Jersey made this announcement this afternoon and also declared that papers seized by his men disclosed "the apparent payment of large sums to public officials."

The "little black book" further showed, listed under expenditures for March, 1929, expenses of $700,000 under the heading "ships, purchases of merchandise and operating expenses."

During the month, Calhoun added, an item of $200,000 was entered under the heading "Montreal" and during another month $70,000 under the same heading. These figures are believed to represent the purchase of liquor in the Canadian city.

FORTY MEN SOUGHT

The Federal authorities tonight still are seeking some forty more men who were on the pay roll of the liquor ring, while destroyers and other government vessels continued searching Long Island Sound for one of the syndicate's rum-running freighters with 5000 cases of liquor on board.

It was disclosed today that the code messages sent out by the syndicate's secret wireless station near Highlands, to its ships at sea, which led to the discovery of the conspiracy ten months ago, were deciphered by a 21-year-old girl in the Department of Commerce at Washington. The thirty-five simultaneous raids yesterday afternoon, were the culmination of an investigation which has been going on since.

Dr. C. Jeff Miller of New Orleans was elected president of the College of Surgeons for the year 1931. He will succeed Maj.-Gen. Merritt W. Ireland, surgeon-general of the United States Army, who was installed as president for the coming year during the present congress.

Dr. Miller declared that as president he will urge continued efforts toward solving the great questions before the body, particularly its program to standardize hospitals and to cut their cost to the man of moderate means.

EDUCATE PUBLIC

"At the same time," he said, "we will carry out our campaign of educating the public in certain diseases, teach them to know the symptoms and teach them the great value of annual or biennial careful physical examinations.

"We can discover and cure many cases of disease which often are fatal when caught later.

"Take cancer. Cancer caught soon enough, is curable. So are many other dangerous diseases. We can catch them only if we can get the public to take periodical examinations and we are right now wrestling with the problem of exactly how to place those examinations within the reach and within the means of every man, woman and child in the land."

Mrs. Chaplin to Make Sure of Being in Love

CEDAR RAPIDS (Iowa) Oct. 17. (AP)—When Lita Gray Chaplin marries again she wants to make sure that it will be a lasting love between herself and husband. Through her manager, the divorced wife of Charles Chaplin said here today that "while Phil Baker and I are very fond of each other, we have agreed to wait six months. If at the end of that time we still are in love, we will make more definite plans for the future."

This was the first comment by Mrs. Chaplin on her reported engagement to Baker.

ESKIMOS' PEAK DAYS REVEALED

New Chapter in 'Golden Age' of Culture Added

Artificial "Mesa" of Refuse Yields Rich Material

Alaskan Ruins Give Up High Grade of Artifacts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—Another chapter in present-day knowledge of a "golden age" of Eskimo culture, more than 1000 years ago, but newly discovered, was added today by Henry B. Collins, Jr., Smithsonian scientist, on his return from a five months' exploration of Northern Alaska.

Buried in an artificial "mesa," of refuse, built up twenty feet in the centuries of existence of a thriving village in the southeast end of St. Lawrence Island, he found rich material of the most ancient and highly developed Eskimo culture known.

Thousands of specimens of ivory and bone implements, weapons, ornaments, pottery and wooden artifacts also were found.

ONCE FLAT BEACH

Centuries ago a village had been reared on the flat tundra of the beach, he said, and as kitchen refuse accumulated old dwellings were abandoned and new ones raised on the artificial foundation.

How long the process kept up no one knows. The "mesa," now frozen solidly for its total depth, grew higher until, in 1878 and 1879, famine and epidemic wiped out the native population.

OLDEST ALSO RICHEST

"It is a peculiar and rich culture," Collins said. "Strange, because the farther back we drive the richer it gets. Modern Eskimo art in contrast, is in a degenerated state.

"The ancient materials suggest strongly that the original home of all Eskimo culture lies in the West, in Alaska or Northeastern Siberia. The culture is distinctly older than the oldest found in Canada and Greenland, a significant fact.

"We are after the ultimate origin of the ancient art. There is no explanation for its fading out except, perhaps, the introduction of the use of iron, with which the later and more mechanical ornamentation has been fashioned."

UTILITIES WANT SLASH IN LEVIES

Assessments Too High, They Tell Tax Committee

Huge Inequalities Charged in Present State System

Spokesmen Insist Changes Must be Constructive

BY FLOYD J. HEALEY
"Times" Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—Members of the State legislative tax investigating committee were told today by representatives of utilities operating in all parts of California that reductions should be made in assessments and that gross inequalities exist in present taxation systems, but they want to know what the substitutes are going to be for the present system before they commit themselves to their terms.

Although they picked numerous flaws in the present plan of State taxation of public utilities, spokesmen for steam railroads, short-line railroads, electric lines, railway express companies and light, power and gas companies indicated plainly they want to be sure recommendations to be made to the 1931 Legislature are more constructive than present conditions before they will be willing to abandon the present system, inequitable as it appears to them.

SEVERAL ASK CUTS

Pleas for reductions in the present system of taxing gross revenues of public utilities were made on behalf of short-line railroads, electric lines, railway express companies and utilities engaged in the gas business.

Some of the representatives charged rates now in operation force utilities to a higher tax burden than is assessed on common property.

Representatives of the Southern Pacific, Western Pacific, Pacific Gas and Electric Company, Southern California Gas Company, the Pullman Company, the Railway Express Agency, the California Electric Railway Association, the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, Southern Counties Gas Company and the California short-line railroads were heard at today's session.

The hearing will be resumed tomorrow.

Representatives of the various utilities were cautious in their statements in view of the fact that no definite set of recommendations, other than those contained in the report of the last tax commission, is before the legislators.

NO CHANGE NEEDED

Eustace Cullinan, representing the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, declared he sees no immediate need for a change in the taxation system since the present plan is "producing sufficient revenue for State purposes." Cullinan declared he believes the committee might well devote itself to the question of public expenditures as well as "the question of the extraction of taxes from existing or new sources of supply."

Three months in each year the Pacific Gas and Electric Company is working for the State and national government and not for its stockholders," Cullinan declared in pointing out what he termed the heavy increase in taxes.

Will F. Fischer, representing the Southern California Edison Company, declared his company "is content to go along with the present system."

He said the existing rates are high enough.

BURDEN TOO HIGH

P. J. Reynolds, representing the gas companies, declared their tax burden is "heavier than that of the electric companies." He asked for a reduction in rates.

W. V. Hill, manager of the California Electric Railway Association, pleaded for a lowering of the taxes on electric roads, which he asserted "are paying 53 per cent of their net revenue in taxes."

Hill averred the burden of paying within the cities in which electric lines operate is "constantly increasing" and asked the committee to support the proposed State constitutional amendment to reduce the taxes of electric railways from 5 1-4 to 4 1-2 per cent of gross receipts.

Speaking for the executive committee of the California short line railways, Clarence M. Oddie declared these roads are against any increase in rates.

CUT IN HALF ASKED

A cut of one-half in the rates now assessed against the railway express companies must be lopped off before there will be equalities in the present system as far as that industry is concerned, Eugene M. Prince declared. Charles Adams of the Union Pacific said "38 per cent of the net earnings of his lines is spent for taxes in the United States."

Appearing for the Southern Pacific and the Western Pacific railroads were D. V. Cowden and Judge Frank M. Angellotti, respectively. Neither made any definite commitments on the tax problem but agreed with the other railroad representatives to submit briefs to the committee before January 1.

Cowden admitted the present taxation plan "appears to be reaching a limit for producing revenue." He declared in favor of tax limit laws. Southern Pacific taxes, he said, reach 25 per cent of the net income of the road.

DEAD LANGUAGES OPPOSED

Let 'Em Rest in Peace and Teach New American Culture, Urges State Educator Kersey

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 17. (AP)—Latin and Greek, the nemesis of high-school students, are dead languages and should be left resting in peace, Vierling Kersey, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, said today.

Not that Kersey believes instruction in those languages is without value, but he believes the time of the average high school student can be devoted to much more profitable subjects. And as a substitute Kersey offers subjects dealing with the basis of what he terms the new "American culture"—the essences of American democracy, the new sciences, the new vocabulary, commerce and how to buy on the installment plan;" he prefers to have it known as "consumers' credit."

"Regardless of the merits of the practice," said Kersey, the fact remains that it is here and that 'consumers' credit' is fairly universal in its usage. It should be wise and practical, therefore, to inform the students in the principles of the system, so they may use the privilege intelligently."

"American culture has not yet been developed," said Kersey. "It is still a bit vague, perhaps, and is in a metamorphic state. But in view of the public-mindedness of its presence, even if a bit uncertain, it is bound to be developed."

Kersey denies that this new culture is that of "Babbit," but at the same time he does not recognize Sinclair Lewis as representing the new culture in literature.

MYSTERY DEATH AT SEA SOLVED

Mrs. Roegge Died by Poison, Coroner Reports

Hollywood Widow Found Lifeless on Liner

Case Held Probable Suicide at New York Autopsy

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—Poisoning caused the death of Mrs. Ruby Roegge, 37-year-old Los Angeles widow, aboard the liner Mongolia, at sea last Monday, an autopsy revealed today.

The ship's surgeon and a physician who was among the passengers both having refused to sign a death certificate, the body of Mrs. Roegge was taken to the morgue after the ship docked here from the Pacific Coast and Panama Canal ports yesterday.

Mrs. Roegge was found unconscious in her cabin late Monday afternoon only a short time after a steward had seen her, apparently in excellent health.

Although Dr. Thomas A. Gonsales, deputy chief medical examiner who performed the autopsy, said that death was due to a poison, he hesitated to conjecture as to how the poison was administered and marked the case "probable suicide."

The ship's officers and other investigators were puzzled by the fact that no container with any trace of the poison was found in Mrs. Roegge's cabin. A porthole was open, however, they said, and she might have tossed the bottle containing the poison out into the sea.

Mrs. Roegge, whose address on the ship's passenger list was given as "747 North Orange Grove, Los Angeles," wore a wedding ring, a $3000 diamond ring, and expensive clothing. Her body remained at the morgue tonight, unclaimed.

DO-X to Carry 150 Passengers

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—The record number of 150 passengers will be carried by the giant seaplane DO-X when it skims over Lake Constance and takes the air tomorrow afternoon, the Dornier works announced today. Workers of the Dornier plants will be given the preference as passengers on this test flight, together with thirty newspapermen.

While the DO-X was being groomed for its record flight its neighbor across the lake, the Graf Zep, was fighting its way back to the home port over Czecho-Slovakia, Austria and southern Germany. The Graf started on a Balkan tour Tuesday night and flew as far as Rumania.

EMPRESS OF CANADA TO KEEP ON SCHEDULE

MONTREAL, Oct. 17. (AP)—The steamship Empress of Canada will be ready to undertake the inauguration of the new Canada-Honolulu service scheduled for this season, officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway announced today. The liner recently grounded on rocks off the Victoria (B. C.) coast, but was refloated and towed to Esquimault, B. C. for repairs. A survey of the damage shows the ship will be able to sail for Hongkong from Victoria November 4.

A MUSICAL GARDEN

Forest Lawn's fortieth radio broadcast — bringing to you interpretations in melody and song of Nature's flowers and foliage — "Always something new and interesting in a Forest Lawn program" —

KHJ 8 TO 9 TONIGHT

Much of the famed beauty of Forest Lawn Memorial-Park is contributed by its profusion of many-hued flowers and green-clothed shrubs. Here is the "Little Church of the Flowers," which derives its name from the mass of blossoms which fill its cloistered recesses. This beautiful little edifice was inspired by a visit of the architect to the old church in Stoke Poges, England, which formed the subject of the poet Gray's immortal "Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard." A companion to the "Little Church of the Flowers" is the recently dedicated "Wee Kirk o' the Heather," a replica of Annie Laurie's church in Scotland, which is situated in a sheltered nook in Forest Lawn, surrounded by a mass of Scottish heather.

A beautifully illustrated Art Book, "Glimpses" descriptive of the works of art in Forest Lawn may be obtained by sending 25 cents to pay daily cover printing cost. A very frank booklet, "The Truth About Burial Customs and Cost," will be sent free on request.

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

W.C.T.U. HEADS REMAIN SAME

Mrs. Wheeler, President, and Others Re-elected

Recommendations Made by Long-time Leader

State Convention to Close Today With Luncheon

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 17.—The election of new officers at the forty-seventh annual convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, held in the First Baptist Church, resulted in a landslide in favor of the present executives. Those elected and their previous terms of service, are as follows: President, Mrs. Eva Wheeler, eight years; vice-president, Mrs. Laura McGlurken, two years; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Anna Hall, four years; recording secretary, Mrs. Hattie Young, nineteen and one-half years; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. Elisabeth Warren, eight years; treasurer, Mrs. Bertha Brinker, two years.

Gifts presented during the session included a pearl pin in the form of a white ribbon, the gift of the Board of County Presidents to the State president, and a bouquet with crystal heads presented to Mrs. Hall, the corresponding secretary. A gold wrist watch was presented by the San Diego county unions to their president, Mrs. E. L. Miller.

Among other recommendations presented by the president were items indorsing Federal supervision of motion pictures before production, observance of Armistice Day through international education meetings, the creation of a new department of the national W.C.T.U., known as the department of non-alcoholic fruit products, and the setting apart of a "day of self-denial" to create a reserve fund for the defense of the prohibition enforcement laws.

Reports delivered today covered the San Diego Home Center, the official publication and the Frances Willard Home for Girls.

Tomorrow's program opens at 8:30 a.m. with the usual evangelistic hour. The report of the resolutions committee is awaited with considerable interest. The election of members of the executive council and the award of prizes will complete the business of the convention which closes with a "back-the-president" luncheon tomorrow noon.

Redlands Ban on Wine Tonics Said to be Strictest

REDLANDS, Oct. 17.—The City Council of Redlands has just adopted what is said to be the most severe ordinance for the curtailing of the sale of wine tonics in the south. Wine tonics are described in the statute as "any tonic whether medicated or not or any medical preparation containing one half of 1 per cent or more of alcohol by volume which is capable of being used as a beverage." But the measure also bans any other preparation that contains alcohol and can be consumed as a drink.

In this respect it goes further than other municipal ordinances of its kind and makes illegal the sale and possession of alcoholic lemon extract and such liquids. The ordinance, which passed first reading without dissenting comment provided that "it shall be unlawful for any person within the city of Redlands to manufacture have, keep, store, sell, barter, transport, deliver, furnish, possess or have it in his possession, any such goods."

Unlike the ordinance passed by the Board of Supervisors the Redlands ordinance applies also to drug stores and prevents them from dispensing wine tonics.

BRIDE'S "FINE HOME" PROVES TO BE SHACK

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 17.—Because Joseph Hodgson promised his bride a fine home and only provided a "shack in the mountains" and, according to her complaint, treated her in a "cruel and inhuman manner" Gertrude Hodgson filed suit for divorce in Superior Court today. For two years she lived in the shack with him. She also charges Hodgson with failure to support her, claiming she had provided for the home at times.

LIVINGSTON POLICE HEAD

California Association of Highway Patrolmen Elects Officers; Next Convention at Monterey

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 17.—The California Association of Highway Patrolmen, closing its tenth annual convention here today, selected Monterey as the 1930 convention city by acclamation, failing to consider any other possible invitations.

The report of the by-laws committee was accepted, increasing the sum payable to the beneficiary of a member officer from $500 to $1000 and raising the personal assessment upon each member, payable upon receipt of notice of such death, to $2. The clause requiring that the death be incurred in the line of duty was stricken from the by-laws. The 1930 budget was adopted and made mandatory upon the officers of the association. Items call for convention, $1600; secretary, $1200; executive committee meetings $400; general expenses, $200.

New officers of the association announced today at the final business session of the convention being held here are as follows: President, Capt. H. H. Livingston, Salinas; first vice-president, Capt. Charles Goff, San Francisco; second vice-president, Capt. J. A. McCaleb, Hollywood; third vice-president, Capt. Mines Carter, Red Bluff; Fourth vice-president, Capt. Otto Langer, San Diego; secretary-treasurer, Officer John Sansome, San Jose; sergeant-at-arms, Capt. C. J. Boone, San Bernardino.

It will be recalled that since June 15 the association has been organized as a corporation with a board of nine directors. The officers, supplemented by Capt. Frank J. Duncan, Merced, retiring president, and Officer H. D. Cloughley, Sacramento, make up the governing board.

Complications May Develop in Justice Courts

SANTA ANA, Oct. 17.—That a serious situation will develop in the Santa Ana justice court after the Federal census, when the tribunal will be required to hear civil cases involving sums up to $1000 was apparent today following an outline of the expected condition by Justice Kenneth Morrison. Morrison brought the matter to the attention of the Board of Supervisors yesterday.

Additional assistance and equipment will be necessary, for the justice court work will be practically doubled, Morrison declared, unless the Legislature passes an emergency measure creating an additional court.

One of the needs which will have to be taken care of first will be a set of law reference books, said Morrison, pointing out that at present it is necessary to take time to go to one of the Superior courts or to the county law library in case a reference is needed.

Approximately seven-ninths of the justice court work of Orange county was handled in the Santa Ana court last year and the year before, according to Morrison.

Yesterday the Board of Supervisors approved the purchase of a new set of jury chairs for the justice court to replace those now in use, which are of the plain straight-backed variety.

Talk on Newton at Caltech to be This Evening

PASADENA, Oct. 17.—The subject of the Friday evening demonstration lecture this week at the California Institute of Technology will be "Sir Isaac Newton and the Formal Enunciation of the Fundamental Laws of Mechanics." Prof. E. C. Watson will be the speaker.

The whole of the science of dynamics is based upon three great experimental laws first clearly stated in 1687 by Sir Isaac Newton, by universal consent the greatest name in the roll call of science. These laws suffice to explain all motions from those of the planets to those of the electrons within the atoms. No machine that moves can be designed without them. Upon them is erected the whole of our mechanical civilization. Prof. Watson will make the meaning of these laws clear and will illustrate them by means of a number of interesting pulley, elevator and ballistic experiments. The famous monkey and cocoanut problem will be shown and explained.

The lecture will be given as usual in the Lecture Hall of the Noorman Bridge Laboratory of Physics, from 7 to 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. It will be open to the public without charge.

SUPERVISORS TO CONFER

Riverside and Orange County Supervisors to Decide Upon Third Member for Elsinore Road District

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 17.—Forecasting final steps in formation of a joint highway district for construction of the Elsinore-to-the-Sea road with combined county and State funds, Chairman F. C. Jameson of the Board of Supervisors, this county's representative in the district work, will meet on the 23rd inst., with Supervisor Jeffries of Orange county, he announced today.

The conference will be held in Jameson's home at Corona and out of the meeting is expected to come a decision as to the third member of the joint district's organization. The third person can not be a member of either of the boards of Supervisors, it is understood, but can be from either county.

Chairman Jameson today declined to divulge details of his visit with B. B. Meek, Director of Public Works for the State, with whom he conferred while in Sacramento a week ago.

"I will say, however," he declared, "that director Meek spoke favorably of the project. It is best for the present that details of the discussion be kept confidential. Supervisor Jefferies and I will consider them here and after that it may be possible to make public the status of the situation."

Chairman Jameson questioned Meek, who has charge of the highway division, regarding a probable appropriation from the State joint highway fund to the Elsinore-Capistrano Road. Advocates of the project recently claimed that the State would produce sufficient money to cut the Riverside county construction cost to a much lower figure than County Surveyor Fulmor's preliminary estimate of about $250,000. Riverside county's portion of the work would be twelve miles.

Orange county already has begun construction of its part of the route which links the two counties over a mountain range southwest of Elsinore.

FOUR BOYS CONFESS TO BURGLARIES

Glendale Police Say Two Other Youths Implicated in Series of Thefts

GLENDALE, Oct. 17.—Arrest of four boys by the Glendale police is said to have cleared up a number of burgaries, purse snatchings and petty thefts on which detectives have been working for several weeks past, and the confessions that the four 17-year-old youths are said to have made have implicated two other boys who are now being sought.

The activities of the gang are declared to have covered Glendale, Venice and Santa Monica, and the detectives working on the case have recovered a large quantity of goods that are held awaiting identification by the owners.

Prisoner Who Aided Jailor Gets Parole

SANTA ANA, Oct. 17.—Reese Fitzpatrick, County Jail prisoner, who led an attempt to break jail, yesterday received a sentence of from one to ten years for his attack upon Head Jailer George Boyd, and Jack Rinser, jail trusty, who came to the aid of Boyd, was granted parole as a reward for his courageous act.

Fitzpatrick, who had been sentenced last Monday to a term of from five years to life for robbery, will start serving his second term at Folsom when his first term is completed at San Quentin, Judge Allen ordered.

It required but fifteen minutes to run Fitzpatrick's case through the courts yesterday. He was charged with assault with a deadly weapon and appeared before Justice K. E. Morrison to waive preliminary hearing. Immediately he was brought before Judge Allen and pleaded guilty.

No second complaint was filed against his confederate, Fred Dietman, who participated in the attack upon Boyd. Investigation showed that Fitzpatrick was responsible for the episode and he was the one who struck Jailor Boyd with a heavy aluminum cup, which floored the jailer. Dieman was sentenced last Monday to a term of from one to fifteen years at San Quentin for burglary.

Kinser, who knocked Dietman down and saved Boyd from serious injury at the time of the attempted jail break, was granted his liberty after serving approximately eight months of a sentence of ten months.

Second Pipe Line Petition on File

INGLEWOOD, Oct. 17.—The second petition within two weeks asking for a franchise to construct and maintain oil pipe lines in this city was received last night by the Inglewood City Council. The most recent applicant is the Associated Oil Company. It asks for a forty-year franchise for not more than three lines.

The previous franchise petition was from the Richfield Oil Company, which sought a twenty-one-year franchise. Both bequests have been referred to City Engineer Willis S. Peffer for checking and report.

Having a direct bearing, it is pointed out by the petitioners, on the present movement for conservation of natural gas in Southern California oil fields, is the petition of the J. A. Campbell Company of Long Beach for permission to erect an absorption plant on three lots on Nutwood street west of Prairie avenue.

"By giving your consent," the letter accompanying the application says, "it will be possible to have the natural gas treated and devoted to a useful purpose, instead of going to waste.

"Recent developments" the letter continues, "indicate that the field will extend further southward. Moreover, the Potrero Country Club, directly opposite, on Prairie avenue, is under lease to the Associated Oil Company."

The petition was taken under advisement until the oil company can show signatures of property owners within 600 feet in all directions from the proposed site in favor of the project.

Negligence Held Nonsuit Cause

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 17.—Declaring that a pedestrian can be guilty of contributory negligence if he or she does not see a vehicle approaching at a normal speed and is struck by the same, Judge A. C. Finney, after hearing some two days of testimony, yesterday in Superior Court granted a motion for a nonsuit in the $25,000 damage case of Loraine Besondy against the defunct Santa Barbara and Suburban Railway. Attorney W. G. Griffith, representing the railway company, made the motion for nonsuit at the conclusion of the testimony late yesterday.

The plaintiff was severely injured on August 20, 1928, when she was crossing State street at Figueroa, it was brought out in the testimony. "Despite the fact that if the plaintiff did look up and down the street and failed to see the car which was moving at five or six or seven miles an hour, it must be considered as if she did not look at all," the judge said.

FIREMAN HAS "MASTER MIND"

Ingenious Smoke-eater Evolves Successful and Also Painless Method of Rescuing Canary From Tree; Bird Soaked Until Can't Fly, Then Flops

GLENDALE, Oct. 17.—Harry McCluskey, a fireman attached to the Glendale department, has proven his right to be regarded as one of the master minds of the organization, ever since he discovered a way to bring down a fugitive canary from a tree without hurting the bird. The firemen are constantly being asked to rescue cats, birds and children from perilous positions, and today when a householder called for help in recovering her pet canary McCluskey went into executive session with himself. He borrowed the garden hose and began throwing a fine spray over the bird, creating the impression in its mind that it was getting a shower bath. After the bird had been so soaked that it could not fly, McCluskey said "shoo," and the canary, when it tried to fly, simply flopped soggily into McClusky's waiting hands and was restored to its mistress.

BUGS A BIT EXPENSIVE

Ranchers in Orange County Spent $1,000,000 Last Year for Pest Control

SANTA ANA, Oct. 17.—Orange county farmers spent more than $1,000,000 last year in controlling plant pests, it was revealed today in the annual report of Horticultural Commissioner A. A. Brock, filed with the Board of Supervisors.

The total cost of pest control as listed in Brock's report, and including expenses of the commissioner's office and operation cost of the insectary in Anaheim, amounted to $1,431,512.28.

Fumigation figures reported to Brock's office showed that $676,698.99 was expended in Orange county on this method of control. A total of 2,051,543 trees were fumigated, with 618,617 pounds of gas being used in the process.

Spraying costs amounted to $567,775.93, according to the summary which said that 1,947,553 citrus trees had been sprayed, 1613 deciduous trees and 31,740 walnut trees.

Dusting cost county growers $29,865.81, with 280,367 citrus trees and 53,227 walnut trees receiving treatment. Tree doctoring expense totaled $35,982.27. Operation costs for the insectary amounted to $38,967.63 and the expense listed for the commissioner's office was $82,221.65.

During the last year the insectary produced 23,682,440 cryptolaemus ladybirds, for control of mealybug, which were liberated in 3219 groves. Other parasites to the extent of 14,012,828 were produced and liberated in 401 groves.

Truce Declared in Imperial War for Supervisor

IMPERIAL, Oct. 17.—Truce was declared today in the political warfare which was started here ten days ago when the announcement that Ben Hulse had resigned as Imperial member of the County Board of Supervisors precipitated a bitter contest over the appointment of a successor.

J. F. Hallawell, local service-station operator whose candidacy was supported by the American Legion and other groups, issued a signed statement today announcing his withdrawal from the contest in favor of Andy Preble, his leading opponent, who recently received the indorsement of the Imperial City Council.

It was stated by leaders of the Hallawell and Preble forces that they would now make a combined canvass of the district to secure signatures for the Preble petition which is to be forwarded to Gov. Young.

Several other candidates are reported to have been seeking the office, one of them being sponsored by the Imperial Irrigation District political machine which has tried unsuccessfully for several years to control the Board of Supervisors. The consolidation of the Preble and Hallawell groups, according to supporters of the two men, will give Preble an overwhelming support and will practically eliminate other contestants.

Early Burglar Chokes Woman

LONG BEACH, Oct. 17.—Return to Long Beach of the early morning burglar who has terrorized a score of Los Angeles citizens within the last month, was featured early today by an attack on Mrs. Etta Parker, 35 years of age, nurse residing at 1600 Locust avenue. Mrs. Parker was awakened at 4:40 a.m. by a burglar working in her home. She screamed and the burglar choked her to silence the alarm, and then succeeded in making his escape.

The same burglar or his confederate, robbed three other residences while victims were sleeping, including a house across the street from the Parker residence. Working intermittently here, the burglars have had several narrow escapes. Police reports throughout the county indicate the changing operations of early morning burglars who have not been identified. A few days ago police in one city in the county obtained a shoe left by one of the gang when a dog grabbed the intruder by the leg.

WEIGLE CHOSEN SANTA BARBARA POST HEAD

VENTURA, Oct. 17.—The Ventura Post of the American Legion last night elected its officers for the coming term. Ray Weigle was chosen commander, Dave Darling first vice-commander, J. Burch Mead, second vice-commander; C. O. Scott, adjutant; Fred Newcombe, chaplain; Jay Blackstone, sergeant-at-arms, and Lyal Wells, historian. On the advisory board were named Fred Merker, Dr. G. C. Coffey and J. C. Lovejoy.

A joint installation with the county post was set for Wednesday, the 23rd inst.

Department Commander Clarence E. Kincaid of Los Angeles will officiate at the installation, which will be open to the public.

IMPERIAL IN APPEAL TO PRESIDENT

Calexico Chamber Urges Hoover to Appoint Body for Labor Famine Quiz

CALEXICO, Oct. 17.—Declaring that Imperial Valley is confronted with a critical labor shortage as a result of the deportation of alien workers from this district members of the local Chamber of Commerce today addressed a resolution to President Hoover asking for the appointment of a commission to investigate the labor situation over the entire Southwest for the purpose of determining relief measures.

According to the resolution, local business men are opposed to the bringing in of Filipino and negro workers as has been suggested by ranching interests. Mexicans make more desirable laborers, it was stated.

The Calexico organization has asked the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Imperial Valley to join in the appeal to the President for relief.

Three Cities in Celebration of Street Opening

SOUTH GATE, Oct. 17.—Completion of State street through Huntington Park and South Gate and into the city of Lynwood was celebrated last night with a parade, speaking and street dancing, with several thousand persons in attendance. The parade, which was a mile in length, was formed on Randolph and State streets in Huntington Park and passed through that city, then through South Gate and to Norton street, Lynwood, where it countermarched and ended at State and Santa Ana streets in this city, where the celebration took place.

State Senator Frank Merriam of Long Beach delivered a short address and then introduced other speakers, who gave short talks, among them being Mayor Otto R. Benedict of Huntington Park; Acting Mayor Guy Nevill of this city, Mayor A. L. Clarkson of Bell, Mayor H. M. Murray of Lynwood was unable to be present but sent a representative. Other short talks were made by Assemblyman Jerome V. Scofield of Huntington Park, who is also a member of the City Council of that city, all the Huntington Park Councilmen being present and introduced. South Gate's Councilmen were also introduced. Hugh Pomeroy of the Los Angeles County Regional Planning Commission and Fred T. Beaty, Supervisor of the First District, were also in attendance, each giving short addresses.

Following this part of the program several hundred persons took part in the street dance.

The newly improved street is a stretch of four miles, the improvement beginning on the north side of Randolph street in Huntington Park, passing through this city and ending at Norton street in Lynwood. The improvement, consisting of paving, widening and an ornamental lighting system, involves a cost of about $750,000, it is estimated.

EXTENSION IS SOUGHT FOR VALLEY BUS LINE

VAN NUYS, Oct. 17.—The Bay Cities Transit Company, which operates a bus line between here and the new university at Westwood, to carry students between here and the college, will be asked to extend the line so it will make regular trips between Van Nuys and the Metropolitan Airport, several miles northwest of here. J. E. Anderson, head of the transit company, will be in Van Nuys tomorrow.

BOND PETITIONS READY

HUNTINGTON PARK, Oct. 17.—City Attorney Areh G. McLay has just prepared three petitions which are to be circulated and if sufficient signatures are secured bond elections will be called. One is for an issue of $39,000 to complete a water system on seven streets; another is for the increasing of the city's water storage supply at four plants here, the amount being for $143,881, and the third being for $15,000 to complete the sewer system on five different streets.

NEW SUBDIVISION PLANNED

LONG BEACH, Oct. 17.—Plans to develop 1000 acres of the Bixby property in the vicinity of the Virginia Country Club into a high-class residential district were announced today by Jotham W. Bixby.

BOARD WOULD BEGIN ANEW

Complete Reorganization of Glendale Realty Group Sought Because of Body's Financial Problems

GLENDALE, Oct. 17.—Plans for the complete reorganization of the Glendale Realty Board were formed last night at a meeting called by the president, L. H. Wilson, who appointed a special committee to investigate the question of whether the present board shall be disbanded entirely and a few organization formed, or whether the present board shall continue to operate under a revised constitution and by-laws, with a change in the executive officers.

Wilson traced the troubles that have fallen on the board back to the time when the members undertook, four years ago, to build and operate their own building. The financial burden that was assumed, together with the details incident to the management of the board's building, he declared, had forced the organization to undertake a vast amount of work that was foreign to the duties that the members should have been performing to promote the interests of the realty men in Glendale. Suit has been filed to foreclose on the Glendale Realty Board Building, 117 South Kenwood street, by W. L. Truitt, who holds the paper.

A committee of three last night recommended that the board's personnel be changed to do away with the directorate of eleven members and to substitute an executive body of five, a president, two vice-presidents, a secretary and a treasurer. It was also recommended that the dues be lowered from their present figure of $60 yearly to $36, with provision for admitting the salesmen employed by the board members.

An effort is to be made to secure the remittances of money due the California Real Estate Association and the National Association of Real Estate Boards, for dues, and if this fails it is intimated that the present board may be dissolved and a new organization formed that will confine itself exclusively to real estate problems, quite apart from any extraneous business.

Second Gillett Trial Opens With Woman on Stand

EL CENTRO, Oct. 17.—After the attorneys had spent all morning arguing over various stipulations, Mrs. Ida B. Robinson, former book-keeper in the Sheriff's office, was put on the stand this afternoon as the first prosecution witness in the trial of Sheriff Charles L. Gillett, accused by the Imperial county grand jury of theft and misappropriation of public funds amounting to $20,000.

Mrs. Robinson spent the afternoon identifying records which are to be introduced in the case and testifying as to the accounts kept in the Sheriff's office.

The jury box was filled just before the adjournment of the session yesterday afternoon, the men, two women and one alternate being selected to hear the case. The jurors named were Harvey Kenyon, L. W. Knapp, Herbert Lowdermilk, Pat Glasgow and Mattie Hunt of El Centro; Nicholas Finn, T. H. Shepherd and Mrs. Elsie Brick of Calexico; J. P. Casey and George Heckler of Brawley, and Martin J. Munson and McCoy Carey of Holtville. J. P. Hart of Imperial was named as alternate.

Judge Patrick Parker of Mono county is presiding.

King's Request is Passed Up by McGroarty

TUJUNGA, Oct. 17.—Before he could make his talk at the celebration of the dedication of a new boulevard here, John Steven McGroarty, eminent historian and publicist of Southern California, was forced to telegraph the King of Spain and formally break another speaking date that conflicted with the local affair.

McGroarty had been asked by the King and his state officials to make the principal talk at the dedication of the bell at Santa Clara Mission. Unfortunately, this dedication was fixed to take place at the time of the address scheduled here.

According to friends, Mr. McGroarty decided his paramount duty was to serve the home folks first, and the wire to his Spanish Majesty followed.

LETTUCE DAMAGED BY CABBAGE WORM

RESEDA, Oct. 17.—The cabbage worm, for the first time in the history of lettuce growing in San Fernando Valley, is bothering the fall crop, it is reported by growers here and in other parts of the valley area. Some growers have reported a damage of about 35 per cent. The worm has been most active in the Owensmouth district, in the western part of the valley. Growers state the cabbage worm is infesting the lettuce because much less cabbage and cauliflower is being grown in the valley this season. The yellow and white butterflies that lay the eggs that become worms, in search of a "host" plant, have turned to lettuce in lieu of the other plants. There are about 2000 acres planted to lettuce. Harvesting will start about the second week in November.

WOMAN CHOKES TO DEATH EATING CORN

LONG BEACH, Oct. 17.—Mrs. Florence Pero, 65 years of age, a nurse at the General Hospital, Los Angeles, choked to death after eating sweet corn at the home of her friend, Mrs. John Batcheller, of 65 Crescent street, while visiting here today. The fire department inhalator crew failed to revive her. Mrs. Pero and Mrs. Batcheller were friends at Standish, Mich., before coming here. Mrs. Pero, on her day off from her duties at the General Hospital, was spending the day at the Batcheller home. The body was ordered to the Sudden and Bonwell parlors by Deputy Coroner Donlin.

LETTER HELD IN CONTEMPT

Mrs. Crane-Corn Bench Warrant

Asserted Attempt to Influence Jury

Missive Sent to Yucaipa Court

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 17.—Contempt of court proceedings filed today by Deputy District Attorney Frank Burke, counsel for the Indian National Committee of Altadena, whose latest cause of Contempt is the writing by him during the past week, and which, in direct attempt to influence judgment in the case of Communists who were found guilty in its case.

A warrant for the woman was issued according to Deputy Sheriff Allison.

Judge Allison says he was knowingly, wilfully, fully written for the unlawfully influencing and prejudicing the jury in its decision.

This letter, which was received by Deputy District Attorney Isador Bachman, Mrs. Bella Mintz, Jessie Emma Schoolcraft, guilty in Judge Allison's court, Communistic charges.

They were arrested and conducted by Deputy District Attorney Johnson to a "jail" in Yucaipa, Jolin in which they were arrested, but Mrs. Sarah Cutler were released.

Mrs. Crane-Corn told Deputy Allison that it "was a privilege to believers in justice to help young Communists who are guilty in your court" and that the people who take up cases as their enemies feel that there is plenty of room in hell for the many shortcomings of present order of society."

"Couldn't you tell us more about it?" asked Deputy Allison.

"No," replied Mrs. Crane-Corn.

Yetta Bloomberg, a Los Angeles university student, who was a young woman of 21 years of age, and Mrs. Garis in her letter, stated with whom they were not easy with these young women.

The sentencing of the defendants has been delayed pending for a new trial which is argued before Judge Allison Tuesday.

TEN YEARS PROBATION FOR MARTIN

Twelvemonth in County's Road Camp Included for Man Causing Two Deaths

LONG BEACH, Oct. 17.—Walter Martin, who was charged with two counts of manslaughter for the deaths of his wife, Ermia Martin, and Earl Mallette, passengers in the car he was driving when it crashed into another machine north of Wilmington, May 11, was today granted probation for ten years on one count of manslaughter to which he pleaded guilty.

Judge Desmond, in granting probation in Department A of the Superior Court this morning, ordered Martin to serve one year on the county road camp and during the remaining nine years of his probation to pay one-fifth of his salary to J. E. Driscoll, driver of the other car, who suffered injury and property damage.

Francis M. Munsker, who shot Harold Boardman in a North Long Beach triangle case on August 13, was ordered committed to San Quentin Prison for the statutory period on his plea of guilty to the charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Harold A. Zuckike, charged with stealing a car and clothing of a sailor friend living in Long Beach, was fined $1000 by Judge Desmond.

Augustin O'Farrell of San Pedro, the first defendant charged in local courts with a felony for operating a still, was granted probation for three years and ordered to return to Mexico. Paul Neighbors, convicted last night of a felony morals charge, will be sentenced the 31st inst.

Montrose Not in Favor of Check Dam Proposition

MONTROSE, Oct. 17.—Property owners of Montrose, meeting last night with the local Chamber of Commerce, refused to indorse the plans that have been proposed for the construction of a storm drain for the Pickens Canyon area. It was contended that check dams now in use have held back the flood waters and that the construction of three additional dams would serve to protect the district at much less cost than that of the storm drain. The proposed assessment area would include 850 acres, it was stated, and the assessment would range from $1.33 to $3.76 per $100 valuation, depending on the location and zoning of the property. Representatives of the county flood control and of the County Surveyor's office, who were present, outlined the plans for the storm drain, and while they held that the installation of the drain is not compulsory at this time, it is advisable that it be constructed as soon as possible in the face of rising costs.

YOUTH IS HELD ON BURGLARY CHARGES

VAN NUYS, Oct. 17.—Richard Haver of Oakland was bound over to the Los Angeles Superior Court on two counts of burglary after a preliminary hearing here in the Municipal Court. Bail was fixed at $2500. The youth is charged with having robbed gas service stations operated by L. W. Killion and O. L. Bailey at North Hollywood.

Police here report he has confessed to other burglaries. Haver, police report, not long ago was released from the Preston Industrial School where he had served a term of eighteen months.

Experts' Testimony to Result in Continued Study at Pasadena Laboratory by Carnegie Institution

PASADENA, Oct. 17.—Records of earth vibrations made during the last three years at the Carnegie Institution's Southern California quarters for seismological research, located at 220 South Hill avenue, were praised today by a group of American and European mechanical experts who have spent a week in studying the local records.

As a result of the experts' testimony, the Carnegie Institution will continue to support its extensive seismological research in Southern California, Dr. Arthur L. Day, presiding officer at the conferences, revealed this afternoon.

In summing up the experts' findings, Dr. Day said: "The Carnegie Institution's committee has recommended a continuation of the operations of the Seismological Laboratory. The experts have assured the committee that the instruments developed here are as competent as any in the world for the purpose and that very satisfactory records are being obtained from them."

Eight years ago Carnegie Institution started a systematic study of earth disturbances with headquarters on Mt. Wilson. Three years ago the laboratory building was constructed here with the co-operation of the California Institute of Technology.

While the central research station is located in this city, there are four secondary stations situated at La Jolla, Santa Barbara, Riverside and Mt. Wilson.

It is hoped eventually that all

GRIEF MENDS BROKEN BOND

Wife Reweds First Husband Following Death of Second

OSWEGO (N.Y.) Oct. 17. (AP) Word was received here today that Mrs. William, Fox, 68 years of age, of Scriba, had been married Monday in Jerome, Idaho, to Edward Dedman, the husband she divorced more than thirty years ago. The reconciliation came about when Dedman wrote a letter of condolence to his former wife upon the loss of her second husband, who died about two years ago.

several other speakers. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, said he believes "such a council would be a splendid thing and render a public service of great benefit."

Secretary of War Good termed the completed lock system in the Ohio typical of the "living spirit of service, that animates a progressive people."

The Secretary said the presence of railroad presidents at the banquet "is sufficient proof, if any are needed, to establish the fact that railway and waterway transportation are co-operative and are not competitive; that water transportation will only supplement what the railroad cannot give."

The Cabinet members at the dinner included Secretary of War Good, Secretary Lamont, A. W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury; Charles F. Adams of the Navy, and James J. Davis of the Labor Department.

GROWERS URGED TO HOLD GRAPES

Eastern Markets Reported Overloaded With Fruit

Railroads Also Need Time to Collect More Cars

Smaller Shipments Needed to Restore Prices

FRESNO, Oct. 17. — With huge quantities of California grapes accumulated in eastern market centers, and a car shortage looming due to delay in return of the empty cars to this State, growers and shippers today were warned by E. W. Stilwell, head of the clearing-house of the California Vineyardists' Association, to hold shipments to the lowest possible minimum.

His recommended that growers keep the grapes on the vines as long as possible without depreciating the quality of the fruit, in order to give the markets a chance to clear, and to permit the railroads to accumulate sufficient cars to handle the later shipments.

The markets are rapidly recovering from the effect of artificial conditions which caused price slumps and oversupplies of fruit, and lighter shipments for a short time will be reflected in better demand and prices, he predicted.

Reports to the C.V.A. today said that there were 4300 cars of grapes on the tracks in twenty-six eastern distributing centers today, or from 10 to 20 per cent more than on a comparable date last year.

THAW CASE NEARLY HAS SENSATION

Defendant All But Sits Down by Club Hostess Suing Him for Damages

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—Harry K. Thaw caused a mild sensation today in court when at the trial of the suit for $100,000 brought against him by Mairia Estradus, night club hostess, who charges he attacked her, he inadvertently almost sat down beside her.

A stir among the jury and spectators that followed upon Thaw's entrance halted procedure of the trial for a few minutes.

Thaw's appearance had not been announced by his counsel. When he entered the courtroom about fifteen minutes before court adjourned, he went to the wrong side of the counsel table. Miss Estardus, in tears, seemed quite upset at his approach. Her counsel summoned him to the defense side of the table before he could sit down.

E. Morgan Pendleton, Thaw's secretary, who was on the witness stand, continued his testimony when order was restored. Pendleton denied Miss Estardus's story that Thaw had attacked and beaten her at a party in Thaw's apartment on New Year's Eve, 1926.

The secretary testified he was in the company of Miss Estardus all the time she was with Thaw in the apartment and that at no time did his employer attack her.

Earlier in the day, Miss Estardus on the stand denied the inference of Isidor M. Shapiro, Thaw's attorney, that she had rehearsed her story and had forgotten some of the lines.

STAGE TIE-UP WILL REACH OVER NATION

Musicians and Hands in all Shubert and Erlanger Houses Out Tomorrow

CHICAGO, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—Heads of the Federation of International Musicians and the International Stage Hands' Union declared a strike today against all Shubert and Erlanger theaters in the United States, effective after Friday night's performances. Five Shubert houses in Chicago are affected and will close Saturday night unless, as appears unlikely, the dispute is settled within twenty-four hours. James C. Petrillo, local head of the musicians, was requested by the Shubert interests to arbitrate the Philadelphia dispute, over which the strike was called. He declined. Petrillo estimates 150 musicians and approximately 160 stage hands will walk out after the curtain falls Saturday night. George Browne, president of the stage hands' local, was attending the convention of the American Federation of Labor in Toronto and could not be reached for a statement. Petrillo, however, confirmed the report that the stage hands will walk out as a gesture of sympathy for the Philadelphia musicians whose demand for a 40 per cent increase was rejected by the Shubert and Erlangers before the season opened.

Eight Philadelphia houses have been dark since Labor Day, when a strike was declared.

THIS JOYKILLER AIMS AT SANTA

He Wants to Slay Childhood's Fondest Dream

Fears Shock to Young Minds on Learning Truth

All Born With Yellow Streak Another Discovery

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—And now, with December in the offing and the reindeer all fattened up and raring to go, along comes Dr. William S. Sadler of Chicago sternly decreeing that all the 5-year-olds in America be told the devastating truth about Santa Claus.

It would be better, says the doctor—who is by vocation a surgeon and by avocation a writer about mental complexes and phobias—had the children known the distressing fact from the start.

"However," he said today with a smile, "I could hardly expect to have public opinion with me on that point.

LET PARENTS TELL

"Well, if there must be the Santa Claus business, let it be conducted with discretion. Let the child be disillusioned before he leaves the nursery. And, above all, let him hear the truth from his own parents and no one else."

It's of sonny's own sensibilities the doctor is thinking and in a purely altruistic fashion:

If sonny hears the truth from the other kids, he's going to realize that his parents are—well, not always quite truthful. And it's going to be an awful shock. Just think back, yourself.

And there that impression will remain, says the doctor, in that mental stomach crammed with all sorts of undigestible stuff—which is called "the subconscious mind."

The anti-Santa Claus propaganda is set forth in a book which Dr. Sadler has just had published and on which he elaborated conversationally today. The book he describes as "an anti-neurotic serum."

BABY'S FIRST WEEK

Dr. Sadler bases his theory on the amount of mischief bad impressions given an infant can raise in its self-conscious mind as it grows up.

"Did you know, for instance," he said, "that the first week of a baby's life can determine whether he's going to be a quitter or a go-getter?

"We are all born with a yellow streak. That's our primitive nature. And we're all born lazy—with an unconscious but firmly implanted desire to get things without working for them and to go away from things we don't like.

"The first sensation a new-born baby experiences is one of discomfort. He's cold. He lets out a yowl. They wrap him in a warm blanket.

"A few hours later his little stomach contracts. He's hungry. He lets out another yowl. He is fed. About that time in his little subconscious mind is born the idea: *

"So that's the way you get what you want in this strange world. Just open your mouth and make a noise. Well, it's not very comfortable here, and I don't like it much, but I guess I've found the secret of getting by."

LET OUT YELPS

"And if they don't quit giving him what he wants whenever he yowls, he's going to grow up with the idea that all he's got to do to get by is to let out a yelp, and that no unpleasant sensation is ever to be endured if he can get out of it. He'll be a quitter.

"Suppose the baby is a girl. Well, if she has a fine nervous breakdown after she grows up, don't blame her, but her parents. She got the idea in her subconscious mind right there in the cradle.

"It's all of us," the doctor said, "the desire to get what we want by some magic. But the world is not that way.

"Some of us grow up, still clinging to our belief in magic. We become dreamers, drifters, loafers, sometimes criminals. Therefore, the sooner we learn to face reality, the better for us.

"My own son never believed in Santa Claus. When he was at the Santa Claus age I bought him a little red suit and had him come right in and help me trim the Christmas tree. He was Santa Claus, Jr.

"And he had a whale of a good time at it, too."

Woman's Body Found in Weeds

GREENSBURG (N. Y.) Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—Lying in a bed of goldenrod and other weeds that hid it from discovery for more than six months, the decapitated body of a woman was found last night about fifty feet off the Sprain road here, it was revealed today.

This is the third murder of a woman in Greenburg since last April, when Dorothy Peacox was burned beside the lonely Ardsley road. About six weeks ago Mrs. Elsa Marshall, young wife of a butler on a near-by estate, was attacked and murdered in a thicket not a mile from the Sprain-road murder scene.

MONJAR AGAIN UNDER FIRE

Former Head of Decimo Club Being Investigated by Government After New Venture

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—U. S. Atty. Tuttle today announced he has instructed an assistant to inquire into asserted activities of Hugh B. Monjar, one time San Francisco accountant, as head of an organization said to be designed to aid worthy young men toward success at a cost of $10 down and $3 a month to each "member."

Mr. Tuttle said that he does not want it understood he has pre-judged heads of the enterprise, but that he has instructed George J. Minster, his assistant in charge of the criminal division, to "look into activities of the organization in view of the possibility that the mails had been used in connection with it."

Monjar, founder and head of the Decimo Club, which went out of existence some time ago after investigation by the State Attorney-General's fraud bureau, is said to be head of the new organization, which has offices in New York and Newark, N. J., and has an estimated membership throughout the country of 10,000.

The object of the enterprise is described as aiding worthy men between 21 and 40 years of age to attain success through the establishment of proper contacts and otherwise. Members of the organization are sworn to hold in confidence all the information imparted to them. John Fenton Jones is said to be a branch manager for Monjar and also an instructor of the members.

First Program Will Begin at 10:30 a.m. Today

Radio and Music Trades Effect Merger

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

The Times Forum, which is to be a regular daily feature, except Sundays, at KHJ, the Don Lee station, will be inaugurated at 10:30 a.m. today, with Edgar A. Guest, beloved poet of the masses, as guest of honor.

This half-hour period has been assigned to The Times by KHJ for the purpose of presenting well-known writers of The Times, leading men and women of the community, distinguished visitors to the city and matters of public interest to Los Angeles and the Pacific slope. It will be handled by "Uncle John."

The initial program will present a man who has written so many thousand poems that he could not even estimate the number when seen at the Ambassador yesterday.

INVITES FRIENDS

Don Lee has extended an invitation to friends of Mr. Guest to be present at the KHJ studios, Seventh and Bixel, tomorrow morning to meet this writer of human thought and incident, particularly children who have committed many of his poems to memory and who have learned to love them. It is urged, however, that guests arrive prior to 10:30 a.m.

"I am not a poet, I am just a newspaper man," said Mr. Guest, who has been on the staff of the Detroit Free Press for forty-one years.

"How did you begin writing poetry?" I asked.

"My shift, years ago, was from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until 3 in the morning and there was very little to do after midnight," he answered. "I had seen newspaper men grow old in the service with little to leave behind and I wondered if that was to be my lot in life and so I began using those three hours in the dead of night, just jotting down in rhyme thoughts about the common things in life.

"I had served on the crime beat, in fact on almost every beat of the paper, but the former taught me more about humanity, people and life than any other detail I ever had. Newspaper work is a great educator and the part it can play in the development of a nation is seldom understood or appreciated by the masses. From it all, I have learned that the sunshine of the day and the helping hand are the greatest things in this world of ours."

Mr. Guest will present a half-hour of his writings tomorrow and greet many friends who have known him long, but who have never seen him.

The features of The Times Forum period will be announced each time one day in advance.

RADIO AND MUSIC UNITE

The amalgamation of the Radio Trades Association of Southern California and the Music Trades Association of Southern California was effected yesterday morning at the annual meeting of the former organization, which was held at the Breakfast Club. By unanimous vote the board of directors was authorized to incorporate under the name Radio and Music Trade Association of Southern California.

The annual report indicated the splendid progress that has been made in the checking and elimination of "man-made interference" by the association, co-operating with the public utility corporations of light, telephone and power, the latter contributing a total of $385 per month to the fund. Between May 1 and September 30, 851 complaints were investigated and 268 complaints are now pending.

"We find that a large percentage of the complaints are due to improper installation of radio sets, particularly with relation to antenna and ground wires," said President H. E. Sherman, Jr.

LOS ANGELES TRAIN HURTS TWO IN CRASH

SALINAS, Oct. 17. (AP)—Two persons were injured, one probably fatally, in a collision between the Southern Pacific Daylight Limited, en route from Los Angeles to San Francisco, and an automobile at the Main-street crossing here today. Lawrence Rojer of Salinas, driver of the machine, suffered a fractured skull and other injuries which are expected to prove fatal. Miss Meta Gambo, 19 years of age, his companion, received a broken leg and bruises. The car was demolished.

JAIL MAY NOT HOLD BRIDE

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 17.—Marriage is to gain jail freedom for Frances Dolores Valencia if the county probation board agrees, it was learned when she and Jose L. Romero made application to wed. Miss Valencia was sentenced to forty days in the County Jail last week for petty theft. She pleaded guilty to taking a few things from a home where she worked. If the members of the probation board all agree, the couple will be married next week.

"SPEEDY" BABBS SETS UNIQUE WORLD MARK

UPLAND, Oct. 17. — Now that "Speedy" Babbs, Upland daredevil, has set a world endurance record he doesn't know what to do about it.

Babbs rode his motorcycle for three hours and two minutes on the perpendicular wall of a barrel-like motordrome recently. During his flight Babbs had to refuel once. This was done by lowering a one-gallon can of gasoline from above and while his motorbike roared around the wall Babbs drove it with one hand and poured the gasoline with the other.

Babbs some time ago hurled a defi at gravity by leaping from an airplane. His parachute failed to open according to rules, and Babbs spent several months in a hospital.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 17.—Granting to the Motor Coach Company of a permit to operate stages from Long Beach to San Francisco will result in the development of a new network of stage lines serving the Pacific Coast and the Southwest, D. D. Bush, manager of the concern which is affiliated with the Lang Transportation Company, operators of local buses, announced today.

HORSE FEATHERS NO JOKE TO LAD

Youngster Tickles Equine's Nose and Gets Fingers Badly Chewed

Tickling a horse with a feather yesterday sent Gerald McCann, 4½ years of age, of 223½ South Beaudry street, to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital with a chewed index finger. Gerald had heard older boys use the term horse feathers, so when he found a feather yesterday he tried to feed it to a milk-wagon horse standing near his home. The horse had no appetite for feathers. Dr. Spear sewed Gerald's finger back and sent him home.

Rum Guard Tale on Shots Scored

DETROIT, Oct. 17. (AP)—A report of Coast Guard officials on the firing by Coast Guardsmen on pleasure craft was described by Representative Clancy of Michigan as a "silly white wash." Mr. Clancy received the report today from Washington.

The Representative said he will wire Rear-Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the Coast Guard, asking a thorough investigation.

The story of Archie Sinclair, wireless operator of the British armed trawler, "Sea Ranger" (1915).

"If you had spent a couple o' years chasing German U boats through the North Sea, you'd mind o' the Brandes headset that stood between you and Davey Jones himsel'. I'll ne'er forget one day in 1915. I was the only operator in a unit of four trawlers. A submarine came up suddenly and shelled the 'Cameo.' The 'Cameo' replied, damaging the fo'castle of the U boat. She couldna' submerge. A' the while I was signalling the U boat's position to the Grand Fleet at Scapa Flow. Destroyers were sent out and they captured her. My Brandes headset won us a' some prize money that day! And now in my ain hame in New York, it's verra nice to hae a radio made by the same company! Man, Brandes is a braw set!"

A.F.O.L. RETAINS GREEN AS CHIEF

Others of Official Staff Also Re-elected at Toronto

Conclave Fails to Dispose of Injunction Problem

Boston Selected as Place for Next Convention

TORONTO (Ont.) Oct. 17. (AP)—Protracted debate over legislative proposals intended to advance union labor's campaign against use of the injunction in industrial strife left the American Federation of Labor convention with unfinished business at tonight's adjournment. Before adjourning, however, the federation re-elected all its officers without contest and selected Boston as the place of its 1930 gathering.

The injunction problem was left for termination tomorrow, with most of its issues defined in the tensely worded discussion of the day.

GREEN SPEAKS

William Green, accepting re-election for a sixth year as president, promised to "give my best thought" and said, "I don't know whether I can keep up the pace set in the last five years since Samuel Gompers died."

To carry forward the long fight of trades unions against court injunctions in union labor disputes, the resolutions committee proposed that the executive council be authorized to present to Congress "a measure having for its purpose the amending or repealing of the Sherman, Clayton, or like restrictive laws, or parts thereof."

NEW LAW PROPOSED

It declared necessary the enactment of another measure "to prevent the misuse of restraining orders and injunctions in labor disputes," and brought in the text of such a bill. Andrew Furuseth, president of the Seamen's Union, said the proposed bill would arm the Equity Courts with more power to restrict union action and added that the Supreme Court would declare such an act unconstitutional in the very sections labor would most desire.

Matthew Woll, chairman of the Resolutions Committee, said the question is of great complexity, but pleaded that "We are only weakening our position by arguing among ourselves." He declared the measure advanced "the best thing that has come to the minds and judgments of those who have studied the matter longest."

REINDEER WILL GET NEW VALET

Commissioner of Education to Let Alaska's Governor Handle Herds Now

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—The role of "valet to Santa Claus" is to be dropped by the Commissioner of Education.

Commissioner Cooper in a report today to Secretary Wilbur recommended that, effective November 1, next, the Governor of Alaska be given the responsibility of supervising the millions of reindeer in that territory.

The Education Bureau assumed the responsibility forty years ago when it obtained sixteen reindeer in an experiment designed to furnish meat for Eskimos because their supply of walrus and whale meat had been cut off by hunters from the south. The herd now has grown into more than 1,000,000.

CAROLINA HOPES TO HALT UNREST

Conditions Causing Textile Strikes to be Studied

Governor Says Pay Too Low and Hours Too Long

Labor Surplus Believed Due in Part to Farm Slump

RALEIGH (N. C.) Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—With the last of the summer's textile strikes apparently settled, business leaders of the State are taking under serious consideration the industrial conditions which brought about these strikes and which, if not remedied, seem likely to place North Carolina in an unfavorable light before the world. When Gov. Gardner recently declared hours too long and wages too low in the cotton mills, he voiced the feeling of many thoughtful people. It was a frank admission that the efforts of Communist agitators were not really an important factor in the strikes, which were based on well-founded discontent.

In a nutshell, these conditions comprise an oversabundance of labor, willing and even anxious to be employed on any terms the mills are willing to grant, at an average wage of $12 to $14 weekly for a twelve-hour day. This meager wage is mitigated to some extent by cheap housing supplied by the companies, and by low cost food, but at the best the cotton-mill workers are able to eke out a miserable existence. The American standard of living does not exist in these very American communities that surround the textile mills.

FARMS DESERTED

This labor surplus is due in part to agricultural depression. According to Gov. Gardner, 34,000 farm workers were forced into the cities and mill towns in 1926 and 1927 to seek employment in competition with the workers already there, and since little skill or experience is required in the textile mills it was these rather than the State's other industries that were asked to absorb them.

This condition is not confined to North Carolina. It is general in the Piedmont plateau, which extends into South Carolina and other States. This plateau, from 500 to 1500 feet above sea level, provides industrial sites that are almost ideal, lacking the humidity that makes work onerous at lower levels, and cut by rivers that supply cheap power. Transportation facilities are good and raw material close at hand. Industrial development in this section, destroyed during the Civil War, began to revive about thirty years ago, and expansion has been rapid only during the past decade. But it has by no means caught up with the possibilities.

PERCENTAGE LOW

There are in North Carolina only 3.73 industrial workers per square mile of area, in South Carolina only 3.28, while Rhode Island has 112.8 and Massachusetts, 73.7. The development is by no means confined to cotton mills. Those in South Carolina made about 65 per cent of the State's industrial production, but in this State only 27 per cent.

Such conditions, plus abundant and cheap labor, were the attractions that brought many textile mills from New England and caused the establishment of new ones. The antiquated labor laws, which permitted child labor and long hours for women, also were a factor.

There are few aliens in the Carolinas. Most of the labor comes from stock that has been American for generations; much is drawn from the mountains. These people are intense individualists and under normal circumstances have nothing in common with Communist philosophy.

AVERAGE INCOME LOW

Whether the mills, in any case, set out deliberately to recruit more workers than they could give employment to has not been established, but many of the mills employ workers on a part-time basis so that they always have a reservoir to fall back on in case of need. The effect is the same as if the recruiting of the oversupply were deliberate. This practice means that the average income of the cotton-mill workers is in many cases below the average pay of $12 to $14 for a full week and their prospects only a little less hopeless than if they were wholly unemployed.

Gov. Gardner declares that in his view the only way out is for "capital, labor and the State itself to cooperate in the maintenance and promotion of industrial growth. We cannot," he says, "build a prosperous citizenship on low wages. We cannot build an efficient labor force on extremely long hours. A wise, sensible regulation of the hours of labor, required and permitted, especially with regard to women workers and immature workers, is, I think, essential."

FEW PLANTS AFFECTED

The strikes of the past summer have affected only a small proportion of the plants—ten of the 208 in South Carolina and five of the 440 in North Carolina. Because of the surplus labor situation, they were hopeless from the start, but they were none the less bitter. The last strike, that at Marion, was taken part in by only a handful and was not promoted or advised by union labor organizers. It ended after four strikers had been shot and killed by a Sheriff's posse. In the Marion mills hereafter there will be a fifty-five-hour week, with no increase in the piece rate, which means that the cost of the time-concession comes out of the pay envelope.

Marion was the only point at which the American Federation of Labor attempted any organizing; the strikes at Gastonia were under the partial direction of the United Textile Workers, a Communist union. The federation contributed no funds for strike relief, sending word that North Carolina would have to finance its own strike. Most of the strikes, in the opinion of disinterested observers, have been almost spontaneous in their origin, agitators appearing after rather than before the start of the trouble.

Getting the industry of the Piedmont district organized on a better basis on the lines suggested by Gov. Gardner is a big job, requiring the co-operation of the manufacturers and the legislators and executives of several States. Gov. Gardner seems to think it can and must be accomplished; he will bend his energies to that end.

WANTED: ONE LAMPLIGHTER

Character From Past Sought for Role at Edison Lamp Ceremony

DETROIT, Oct. 17. (AP)—A lamplighter who half a century or more ago went about the streets of Detroit with a torch, leaving a feeble light at each corner, is being sought by the committee arranging for the celebration here next Monday of Thomas A. Edison's invention of the incandescent lamp.

If one can be found he is to be given a conspicuous part in the ceremonies that will be featured by the presence of President Hoover and Mr. Edison's re-creation of the original lamp.

GERMANY'S ORATOR IN WASHINGTON

East Prussian Second of Nine World Finalists to Arrive at Capital

"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—Herbert Schaumann, Germany's entry in the Fourth International Oratorical Contest finals here the 26th inst. reached Washington today as the second of the nine contenders for the world high-school speaking championship to arrive in the capital. Roberto Ortiz Gris, Mexican spokesman, was the first to come.

Particular interest has been attached to Schaumann's activity in the contest because he is a resident of East Prussia, the territory actually separated from Germany, which has been regarded with some doubt as to its desires to remain under the dominion of Germany. In the contest, Schaumann is speaking for and about the Weimar constitution of Germany, and is stressing its significance to the youth of all Germany.

Lis Torsleff, the Danish girl who will represent the Scandinavian and upper European group of nations in the contest, landed in New York several days ago, and is still in that city.

Ford Chooses Name for His Historic Town

DETROIT, Oct. 17. (AP)—The historical village which Henry Ford has created near his estate at Dearborn, just outside of Detroit, is to be named Greenfield, taking the name of the little country village the automobile manufacturer and Mrs. Ford knew in their youth. The original Greenfield was destroyed by the expansion of the Detroit metropolitan area.

Mr. Ford was quoted as saying that if practical the new village made of historical buildings gathered from many places will be incorporated with self-government.

"The Town Hall will be the seat of government," he said. "The church will be open to all, of whatever doctrinal persuasion."

Waste Picked for Memorial Medal Award

BERKELEY, Oct. 17. (Exclusive) William H. Waste, chief justice of the California Supreme Court, is Berkeley's most useful citizen but he is not supposed to know it for a few weeks.

Service clubs that picked him for the Benjamin Ide Wheeler Memorial Medal planned not to announce the fact until dedication ceremonies several days hence, but the California Monthly, alumni magazine, got the story for release in its current issue, so it would be timely, and the issue came off the press before the bestowal ceremony.

Militia Force Slated to Leave Borger Today

BORGER (Tex.) Oct. 17. (AP)—Borger will bid farewell to Texas National Guardsmen tomorrow at 3:50 p.m., Brig.-Gen. Jacob F. Wolters announced today.

At that hour, their "Mission accomplished," eighty-four enlisted men and fourteen officers will board a train taking them back to their homes, Gen. Wolters declared.

Martial law was declared here September 30, last, seventeen days after the assassination of Dist.-Atty. John A. Holmes.

Slur on Realty Men Censored

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—A Sacramento playhouse was asked today by the State Real Estate Commissioner to get a better laugh in its current show than calling real estate salesmen "Hars."

The line the commissioner objects to is: "I had to lie like a real estate salesman."

ITALIAN ENDURANCE ACE FORCED TO LAND

MONTECELIO (Italy) Oct. 17. (AP) Maj. Maddalena, Italian ace, who started from the air field here at 7:22 a.m. (1:22 a.m. E.S.T.) to try for a new endurance flight record, was forced to land after nine hours in the air, owing to a break in the water pump of his engine.

DRY LEADER HAS FAITH IN YOUTH

National W.C.T.U. President Addresses Convention

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, said to delegates to the forty-ninth annual Northern California convention tonight, "I believe the large majority of young folks are too busy getting educations, making good on their jobs, or trying to get on in the world, to have much time to waste at night clubs."

It is reasonable to believe, she indicated, that some members of the rising generation are burning the candle at both ends, but she pointed out that it took fifty years to obtain passage of the Prohibition Act, and "naturally it will be a good many years before the full benefits of it will be obtained."

Only once did she make reference to organizations operating against the principles of the W.C.T.U., saying that a boast of 300 members obtained for an organization of women against prohibition was more than offset by an enrollment of 40,000 among the white ribboners in the same period of time. The W. C. T. U., she predicted, will enroll not less than 1,000,000 young men and women as backers of abstinence from liquor.

"They talk of social drinking," she said, "so we are making a study of non-alcoholic fruit juices and their combinations into drinks. Instead of wasting time answering the accusations of our antagonists, we are undertaking what we think are constructive counter movements."

DINNER COAT REMAINS WHITE HOUSE FAVORITE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—The dinner coat still is popular at the White House, even though the arbiters of fashion have decreed that it is passe for all except the most informal of occasions.

President Hoover, whose distaste for formal dress of any kind is well known to his friends, makes a concession when there is a State occasion such as a dinner for a Prime Minister or an Ambassador, otherwise he appears for dinner in a tuxedo.

And those who are invited to the White House for the rather large dinner gatherings of which the President and Mrs. Hoover are so fond are told beforehand that the "black tie" and the short coat are the things to wear.

TWO DIE AS RUNAWAY COAL CAR HITS HOTEL

ALTOONA (Pa.) Oct. 17. (AP)—Two persons were killed today by a loaded coal car that ran wild down the tracks on the Martin branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad and crashed into the Hotel Waldorf at Portage.

LOOK FOR GREAT THINGS IN KOLSTER

K-44 Console model, 7 tube tubes. Walnut cabinet of ... edge. Selector tuner of ... grid tubes. Resistance dynamic ... Push-pull amplification, 2 type 245 tubes. Price, less tubes ...

". . . but Mary, why take a chance with an ordinary set—why not get a Kolster? We can buy one now for $188!"

"Really?"

"Why, of course! Haven't you heard? The demand for Kolsters has been so tremendous, the Company is offering a new model at only $188!"

"Well, that settles that problem!"

Enjoy the Kolster Program every Wednesday evening at 7 P. M., Pacific Coast Time, over the nation-wide Columbia Chain.

—KR3—

That's an invitation—cordially given—and that's a promise, too! the minute you say to your dealer, "Show me the new Kolster 1930!" you're asking for a new experience in radio!—for ... tubes tested and proved by Kolster engineers!—for selectivity ... so true, every sound but the station you want is barred out completely —for a cabinet so handsome, so distinguished you're proud to display it in your home!

These are the things you actually see—and hear! Now ask a Kolster owner for his opinion! Now discover why neighbor after neighbor, wherever you go, says, "Kolster is a fine set!" And THEN you'll know why this year we say, "Look for great things!" For the Kolster of 1930 is the greatest of all of Kolster Radios!

SANTA MONICA

Cradle of Culture and Sport

One of the classically beautiful buildings on the U.C.L.A. Campus—a few miles from Santa Monica.

Below—A street of homes in Santa Monica—city of wholesome, dignified, cultured atmosphere.

. . is the logical STUDENTS' Dwelling Place

EVERY CAMPUS HAS ITS TOWN. Santa Monica is a logical campus town, as are Palo Alto and Berkeley. It is the logical home for faculty, students and Southland families in general who will become interested in Southland universities through matriculation of sons and daughters, either now or later.

Santa Monica is the most logical campus town, not only because of its geographical position, but because it is complete in a physical way, clean in civic spirit, wholesome in atmosphere and essentially cultural by history and tradition, as every college town should be.

Santa Monica is an established city, nearly 60 years old. It has become one of the most charming cities in the world because of natural advantages. Property values and rental values are governed by normal laws of supply and demand and not by ulterior promotional influences.

It is possible to rent homes and apartments in Greater Santa Monica most reasonably at this time of year. It is possible to purchase homes and vacant property at any season of the year at prices that are most appealing. Splendid transportation by motor bus and interurban lines, to the various schools, is available.

Santa Monica is the hub of the recreational and cultural side of Southern California. Within a few miles are most of the outstanding institutions of the Southland that appeal to all who are interested in education, sport, art and cultural diversions. For example: Several universities, colleges and academies, a score of country clubs and golf courses, several beach clubs, Clover Field Airport, California Botanical Gardens, Pacific Palisades Chautauqua, movie studios, amusement piers, fishing piers, polo fields, parks and bridle paths.

If you are now, or expect to be in the future, interested in any way with the rapidly developing educational area around Santa Monica, you are cordially urged to get in touch with the office below for disinterested assistance.

Facts About Santa Monica

Population 50,000.

17 miles from Los Angeles by wide boulevards through the Southland's proudest residential sections.

Climate 10 degrees cooler in summer and 10 degrees warmer in winter than downtown Los Angeles.

Clean wide street, beautiful parks.

Municipal airport.

Municipal golf links, tennis courts, archery field.

Twelve country clubs within a few miles. Polo fields.

Wonderful beaches, several beach and swimming clubs. Amusement piers.

Few minutes' ride to new universities.

Commission form of government.

Splendid schools, churches, stores and hotels.

Excellent women's clubs.

Various cultural and civic enterprises sponsored by a high type of citizenship.

—Glimpses of polo and golf, two of the many, many sport activities at Santa Monica.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

When Tarzan of the Apes realized that he was in the grip of the great jaws of a crocodile, he did not give up all hope and resign himself to his fate. Instead he filled his lungs with air before the huge reptile dragged him beneath the surface, and then, with all the might of his great muscles, fought bitterly for freedom. The monster dragged its prey swiftly through the water.

Soon the ape-man's lungs were bursting for air. He knew that he could survive but a moment more, and in the last paroxysm of his suffering he did what he could to avenge his own death. His body trailed out beside the slimy carcass of his captor, and into the tough armor Tarzan attempted to plunge his stone knife as he was borne to the creature's horrid den. His efforts merely accelerated the crocodile's speed.

Just as Tarzan realized he had reached the limit of his endurance he felt his body dragged to a muddy bed and his nostrils rise above the water's surface. All about him was the blackness of the pit. For a moment Tarzan lay gasping for breath upon the slimy, evil-smelling bed to which the animal had borne him. Close beside him he felt the cold, hard plates of the creature's hide.

Its chest was rising and falling as though with spasmodic efforts to breathe. For several moments the two lay thus, and then a sudden convulsion of the giant carcass at the man's side, a tremor, and a stiffening brought Tarzan to his knees beside the crocodile. To his utter amazement, he found that the beast was dead. The slim knife had found a vulnerable spot in the scaly armor.

BANK PICKS MOUNT FOR PRESIDENT

New Bank of Italy Head Wins Way to Top by Hard Work and Ability

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17. (AP)—As the Bank of Italy, one of the largest branch banks in the nation, reached its twenty-fifth birthday today, it inducted into office a new president, Arnold J. Mount. He succeeds J. A. Bacigalupi, whose retirement conforms to the five-year rotation plan for the executive office, established by the bank's founder, A. P. Giannini.

A.J. MOUNT

Like Mr. Giannini, Mount has climbed from obscurity to eminence through personal efforts. Singularly, too, like Giannini, his start was in Santa Clara county, and his parents were agriculturists. His forty-fifth birthday, ten days ago, gave incentive for the following synopsis of his career:

Schooled in Mayfield, printer's devil for Stanford University press, clerk in the Bank of Palo Alto, advanced gradually to assistant cashier, clerk in Oakland Central Bank, climbed to first vice-president, met Giannini, made manager of several East Bay branches of the Bank of Italy, made vice-president in head office, later cashier, and five years ago became senior vice-president in direct line for the post he occupies today. His home is in Berkeley.

Mr. Mount has held various honorary and social positions, including presidency of the California Bankers' Association, as well as other offices in that organization, and is a member of the Ashmes Temple, Mystic Shrine; Oakland, Athens, Sequoyah, Bohemian, Pacific Union and La Ronconada clubs. His business activities include offices in Transamerica Corporation and various subsidiaries.

Italo-McKeon Oil Deal Called Off

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—Italo Petroleum Corporation has been notified of the termination of merger negotiations by the McKeon Oil Company. The move was made by the bankers in view of the present state of litigation as inaugurated by the minority stockholders, who have asked for a temporary receivership.

Counsel for Italo Petroleum Corporation stated that it was probable that the court would hand down a decision this afternoon. In case of a favorable decision it is declared possible that negotiations can be resumed in time to go through with the merger on the 21st inst. as originally planned.

Rumor Revived of Bank Merger

CHICAGO, Oct. 17. (Exclusive) Sources well informed on affairs of the Central Trust and the National Bank of the Republic, were inclined today to take seriously revived rumors of a merger of the two institutions, and it was declared likely that an announcement might be forthcoming the first of next week. The name of A. P. Giannini has been coupled with the negotiations and has lent further credence to the renewed talk.

Central Trust responded to the reports with a 10-point advance during the morning to a bid level around 600, while Republic was firm.

Container Net Up in Quarter

CHICAGO, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—Container Corporation of America today reported for the September quarter net income of $301,138, equal to 47 cents a share on the A stock and 23 cents a share on the B stock after allowance for participation provisions, as compared with $383,248, or 38 cents a share on A and 19 cents a share on B stock in the similar 1928 period.

Net income for the first nine months of 1929 was $436,957, equal to 58 cents a share on A and 29 cents a share on B stock, as against $979,873, or $1.46 and 73 cents a share on A and B stocks, respectively, in 1928.

ST. CLAIR PREDICTS OIL CUT

Union Oil Officer Warns Industry to Expect Drastic Reduction Because of Failure to Co-operate

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Unless immediate curtailment in California oil production is placed in effect, the industry will receive an early announcement of drastic slashes in crude oil prices, L. P. St. Clair, executive vice-president of the Union Oil Company, predicted yesterday.

Mr. St. Clair's ominous prophecy is one of the few expressions ever made publicly on crude-oil prices by any oil executive. He decided on this departure after receiving a plea from the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association for his aid in bringing California operators into line on the side of curtailment.

On Wednesday the operators in the Mid-Continent States placed into operation a sweeping curtailment of crude-oil production. This program, according to the message to Mr. St. Clair, will be futile unless California does likewise.

ST. CLAIR'S ANSWER

His answer is a prediction for severe cuts in the price of California crude. Since all efforts at co-operative regulation in California seem to have failed, he explained, the industry can only allow economic forces to work their will. Available storage facilities for petroleum products are virtually exhausted in California, and the next step in the cycle is prices low enough to discourage surplus production and new drilling.

"Only by allowing the laws of economics free play," he said, "can the California operators do their part in stabilizing the industry in the United States. We hoped to obviate the necessity for lower prices through the working of the new gas wastage law, but apparently the industry, or at least a strong minority, is unwilling to stand behind the measure."

Mr. St. Clair refers in the foregoing statement to the opposition from smaller operators in Southern California to the temporary injunction sought by the State authorities against the wastage of gas. If the State is unopposed and the law subsequently is found constitutional, he asserts that the industry will straightway right itself and the need for lower crude prices will pass.

WILL AFFECT BUSINESS

Substantial lowering of the prices paid for oil will do the work, however, although the loss in revenue, this authority declared, will bear heavily on general business in the State, particularly in Southern California. The gas wastage law contemplates a curtailment of about 25 per cent in crude-oil output, but his opinion is that the expected cut in crude-oil prices will be much more severe.

Mr. St. Clair does not think that low prices for gasoline will follow reductions in crude-oil prices. The crude-oil cuts should come in those Southern California pools where surplus production is the largest, he believes, and should not be a State-wide affair. If it were State-wide then he would expect a general reduction in gasoline.

He looks, furthermore, for an early correction of the maladjustment in crude oil to follow the cut in prices. After the supply and the demand are brought back into line under the influence of price, then he believes that the return to healthy conditions will be immediately reflected by higher prices.

SECURITIES LOAN TOTAL IN ADVANCE

Borrowings of Brokers Gain $88,000,000 Over Previous Week

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending the 16th inst., were announced by the Federal Reserve Board today as $6,801,000,000 representing an increase of $88,000,000, over the preceding week.

The loans for the preceding week had recorded a $91,000,000 decrease. The $6,801,000,000 for the week ending the 16th inst. fell $3,000,000 short of the high record of $6,804,000,000 for the week ending the 2nd inst. The loans for the week ending October 17, 1928 were $4,694,000,000.

The detailed distribution of the loans over the three weeks dealt with in the board's report was:

Oct. 16, 1929	Oct. 9, 1929	Oct. 17, 1928
For own account:
$1,969,000,000	$ 973,000,000	$ 890,000,000
For account of out-of-town banks:
$1,831,000,000	$1,760,000,000	$1,743,000,000
For account of others:
$3,975,000,000	$3,941,000,000	$2,041,000,000

In totaling the divisions of loans the Federal Reserve Board adds or subtracts the odd thousands of dollars not shown in its report and the total arrived at by adding the columns may not always agree with the board's totals.

Comparative weekly totals with last year follow:

Jan. 2	$6,330,161,000	$3,617,973,000

International Engineering to Drop Dividend

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Directors of International Combustion Engineering Corporation today voted to omit the dividend on common stock of 50 cents a share, usually declared at this time.

The following statement was made after the meeting: "Directors at their regular monthly meeting, in view of large amount of work on its books and expansion of its business, passed the dividend on the common stock for the purpose of conserving its cash resources."

It was stated by an official of the company after the meeting that preferred dividend did not come up for discussion yesterday, since the next dividend on that class of stock is not due to be paid until around the first part of next year. Action on preferred will probably come up at the November meeting.

Magma Copper Profits Mount

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (Exclusive) Magma Copper Company reported today a net income for the September quarter of $788,801, after charges but before Federal income taxes, equal to $1.92 a share on 408,155 capital shares, against $813,737, or $1.99 a share, in the preceding quarter and $551,943, or $1.35 a share, in the September, 1928, quarter.

The net income for the nine months closed September 30, amounted to $2,502,575 before taxes, or $6.35 a share, against $1,521,830, or $3.73 a share, in the same period last year. In the last three months the company produced 9,864,574 pounds of refined copper at a cost of $9.79 a pound after deducting gold and silver values.

Congress Cigar Earnings Gain

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (Exclusive) Congress Cigar Company today reported for the quarter ended September 30, last, net income of $804,-620 after all charges and Federal taxes, equal to $2.30 a share on 350,000 shares outstanding, as against $785,636, or $2.24 a share in the 1928 quarter.

Consolidated net income for the first nine months of 1929 was $2,079,327, or $5.94 a share, as against $1,957,727, or $5.59 a share in the 1928 period.

PEOPLE'S GAS PROFITS HIGHER FOR QUARTER

CHICAGO, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—People's Gas, Light and Coke Company reported today a net income for the September quarter of $1,349,970 equal to $2.38 a share on 564,977 capital shares. This compares with $1,268,551 or $2.48 a share on 511,898 shares outstanding in the same quarter last year.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—Cotton showed further declines today, with prices for all months making new low records on the movement under continued southern selling and liquidation promoted by reports of favorable weather for the picking and marketing of cotton in the South. Considerable trade buying was reported, particularly as prices worked to the level for December contracts, but it appeared to be quite readily supplied and the market worked still lower with active months showing net declines of about 75 to 81 points during the middle of the afternoon.

STOCK TRADER GIVES VIEWS

Successful Cleveland Operator Discourages Policy of Buying for Profit on Turn

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1929, by North American Newspaper Alliance]

CLEVELAND, Oct. 16.—Harry W. Hosford, called by some people the "Arthur Cutten" of Cleveland, is a man of perhaps 40. He looks younger. He is easy to meet, pleasant to chat with, very frank in giving his judgment on conditions—a typical midwesterner.

"Yes, there will be market recessions in the future just as there have been in the past. Some people will pick the wrong stocks just as they have heretofore. But those who buy good, sound, substantial common stocks of the leading American corporations, and stay with them instead of trying to make a profit on the turn, will do as well in the future as that type of investor has in the past. He is not a speculator in the real sense."

Here the young Cleveland millionaire handed me a slip of paper upon which had been typewritten eight common stocks and the price of those stocks the day before.

"Now, I believe every one of these eight stocks is a basic stock, sound as a dollar, and an excellent purchase at the market. Whether the stock market goes up or down, these stocks should hold their own and eventually rise. There should be not an hour's worry for any investor buying them. There are others—many of them—in the same category."

"Then, in your opinion the conditions of the country, especially in the stock market, are not at all unhealthy?" I said.

"In a market where 1200 stocks are listed there are always some that are too high, and others too low. No man should be in the market who works on hunches and tips, without studying every stock he buys. If a man will purchase only the soundest stocks to the degree of his ability to carry them through every period of depression, he will succeed, because the future of the United States, so far as industry and business are concerned, will show a greater development than ever in the past."

Sound advice from a man whose profits are reported in seven figures in recent market operations.

"What does it mean when a reference is made to the Dow-Jones industrial average of stocks?" asks a reader of this column.

The D.-J. industrial average is a compilation of the common stocks of thirty very powerful American corporations. The companies are leaders in their lines. Such concerns as American Can, General Electric, International Nickel, Paramount Famous-Lasky Corporation, Radio, Texas Corporation and United States Steel are included.

The thirty companies have outstanding a total of 187,615,286 shares of common stock. The market value of all of these stocks, as of the last compilation, totaled $19,584,980,786. Now dividing the total number of shares by this value gives an average of $121 a share right through.

The annual dividend of these stocks averages $4.32. This gives the investor a current yield of 3.57 per cent. It is estimated that the earnings for 1929 on all of these stocks will average 7.06 per cent. So the common stocks are selling at 17.6 times the estimated earnings.

All averages are built up in the same way. But the average of these high-grade stocks is not a fair test of the condition of the market. For many of them have been used as leaders in a period of falling prices. In this case only thirty standard stocks are used, but there are more than 1200 stocks listed on the New York Exchange.

Cleveland's twenty banks have deposits of $1,004,000,000. Four of the banks are national, and sixteen are State. The two largest banks, the Union Trust Company and the Cleveland Trust Company, are both State institutions. Together they have more than half of the deposits in the city. Many business men believe these two banks will eventually join hands.

Cleveland has had branch banking for more than twenty years. All of the large banks have branches. The Cleveland Trust has fifty-eight; the Union Trust, twenty-three; the Guardian Trust, fourteen.

Consolidations in the banking field have been going on for years. In 1901 Cleveland had eighteen national banks and forty State banks. Today she has about one-third of that number.

Net Earnings of Caterpillar Tractor Drop

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—Net earnings of Caterpillar Tractor Company for the third quarter of 1929 were reported to stockholders today at $2,581,145 before Federal taxes. This is equivalent to $1.37 per share on the 1,882,240 shares of no-par stock outstanding as of September 30, last, and compares with $1.70 per share in the third quarter of 1928, at which time there were 1,625,000 shares outstanding.

Coincident with the release of the earnings figures, directors declared a cash dividend of 75 cents per share, payable on or before November 25, next, to stock of record on November 15.

For the first quarter of this year Caterpillar reported net earnings equivalent to $1.32 per share, $1.86 per share was shown for the second and today's $1.37 brings the total per share equivalent for the nine months' period to September 30 to approximately $4.55.

Net sales of the company for the quarter just concluded are given at $11,186,264, which amount, added to the $27,160,015 reported for the first half of the year gives net sales for the three quarters at $38,346,300. Compared with the same period in 1928, when net sales totalled $28,-736,860, an increase of more than 33 per cent is revealed.

Net earnings for the nine months were $8,580,517, which figure is against $7,061,944 for the same period last year. All sales and earnings figures for 1929 include those for Caterpillar tractors, combined harvesters and Caterpillar road machinery.

BAKERY CHAIN HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—At the regular annual meeting of Langendorf United Bakeries, Inc., today, S. S. Langendorf, A. B. Langendorf, Horace Brown, G. R. Kinsley and S. M. Ehiman were elected to the board of directors. S. S. Langendorf, president; A. B. Langendorf, vice-president, and S. S. Stevens, secretary, were all re-elected to their executive positions.

BEARS ROUTED IN LATE RALLY

Lively Half Hour of Buying Marks Drab Session

Substantial Gains Recorded in Covering Activity

Broker Loan Bogey Curtails Turnover for Day

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—Powerful traders indulged in the game of running in the shorts in the last half-hour of trading in today's stock market, sending prominent issues up 5 to 17 points, and lending color to an otherwise drab and uncertain session.

The rally was less vigorous than the rebound which came upon the heels of the break earlier in the month, but it was strong enough to regain nearly half of the ground lost in yesterday's collapse. Trading was in scant volume, held in check by uneasiness over the Federal reserve brokerage loan figures released after the close, and uncertainty as to whether the bottom had been reached in yesterday's break. Only 3,864,150 shares changed hands, as compared to 4,088,000 yesterday.

The brokerage loan figures again provided a shock, showing an increase of $88,000,000, which practically wiped out the decline of $91,000,000 the previous week, and brings the total to $6,801,000,000, or within $3,000,000 of its high record. In view of the swiftness of the rally from the low levels of the break early in the month, and the large amount of new financing to be taken up during the past week, close observers generally had predicted a sizeable upturn in loans.

The loan compilation disclosed that the midmonth interest and dividend requirements, and the lower and less attractive call loan rates, had resulted in a reduction of $68,000,000 in loans by corporations and individuals, and that the banks had been called upon to bear the burden of the upturn, New York and out-of-town institutions putting $154,000,000 into the market. The renewed upturn in loans was regarded as keenly disappointing in several quarters, as many traders have come to the conclusion that loans must be substantially reduced before any new and sustained rise in the stock market is likely.

MONEY EASES

Call money again renewed at 7 per cent, but sagged to 6, indicating the passing of the midmonth credit requirements. There was little change in time money, thirty-day funds moving slightly lower. The Federal reserve condition statements disclosed negligible change, although the reserve ratio for both the New York institution and the entire system sagged a little.

The day's business news was rather meager and not of a character to influence the market. Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads announced huge orders for rails, but these orders will not influence steel production in the near future. It was reported from the Youngstown area that buying of steel by the automobile industry had improved slightly, but still held at low levels.

Several earnings statements for the third quarter appeared, most of which were favorable. Bohn Aluminum, however, showed a substantial decline, reflecting the downturn in automobile manufacturing. General Motors reported Septem-

WHAT ABOUT BONDS?

Prices are down . . . Values are up

IN DISCUSSING the market, the most casual student will make these two statements: First, "Stock prices as a class are high, perhaps too high," and secondly, "Bond prices as a group are low, undoubtedly too low." It is true that there are occasional bargains to be found in common stocks but the prudent investor may well afford to purchase bonds, which as a class today are selling at bargain prices and some of them present outstanding opportunities.

The trend of bond prices during the past few years has been steadily downward as a result of high money rates and the withdrawal of funds from bonds for the purchase of stocks. At the same time the available supply of bonds has decreased and equities behind them have increased. It is now possible to get better values than two years ago with a return of ½ of 1% to 2% greater.

It is no wonder that shrewd investors have been following the advice of Secretary Mellon who said seven months ago: "Now is the time for prudent investors to buy bonds. Some stocks are good investments but others are too high. These stocks are all right but bonds are better at the present time for the average investor." In the past month the trend of bond prices, it appears, has again started to point upward. Among the exceptional bargains available in bonds today are:

HOLLYWOOD KNICKERBOCKER, INC.

First Mortgage 6½% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, due 1944

Price 100 and Interest, to yield 6.50%

A list of five outstanding bond opportunities, together with further information on this issue, will be sent upon request below.

General Firmness Underlies Local Stock Trading; Western Air Breaks Sharply

Prices on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday were little af- by the announcement at noon of a moderate increase in brokers' and while closing quotations were irregular, fluctuations were har- dicating that ready support was at hand to resist any signs of pressure.

ern Air Express, on rumors sharp cut in prices on its air- ntract, was the outstanding pot of the day. On sales of hares the stock abruptly sank nts to a new low mark at 34. buying brought quotations up a close at 36 1-2, off 7 1-2 points ct.

Farmers and Merchants' Bank jumped another 5 points, making an advance over the past two sessions of 10 points, which brought the stock up to the high level of the year at 495. All other price changes of the market were confined within a range of 1 1-2 points.

Southern California Edison, still leading the turnover, ranged between 77 1-4 and 74 7-8 and closed unchanged for the session at 75 1-2.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—Investment inquiry for bonds was extended today and in one of the most active sessions in several weeks the market displayed considerable strength under the leadership of the rails and numerous utilities. The latter had been lagging, but there was a noticeable improvement in most of the leading issues today.

Time money was again easier, but dealers are attributing the better demand for bonds to the unsettled condition of the stock market which, they say, is sending investors to the fixed-charge obligations, especially after such sharp declines as yesterday's money rates are hardly low enough to attract much buying from banks.

First grade rails have now risen more than a point, on the average, since the advance was started ten days ago. Secondary rails have gained about the same amount, while United States government securities have improved substantially, although they have been only moderately active. Industrials have moved rather slowly.

In the rail group, gains ran as high as 3 points, although the better grade issues held to fractional improvement. Atchison general 4s, Rock Island, Southern Pacific 4½s, Pennsylvania 4s, Southern Railway general 4s and St. Louis & San Francisco 4½s were up about half a point each. Larger advances appeared in Chicago, Minneapolis and St. Paul general 4½s and Erie issues. Union Pacific 4s, Missouri Kansas Texas prior lien 4s, Norfolk & Western general 4s, Louisville & Southern second 4s and numerous others.

Utilities participating in the upturn included American Telephone debenture 5s, Columbia Gas and Electric 5s, Detroit Edison 5s, Interstate Telephone & Telegraph 5s, Illinois Bell Telephone 5s, Pennsylvania Light and Traction 5s, Milwaukee Electric Railway 5s and Public Service Electric and Gas 4½s. Gains averaged well over a point.

Industrials were again rather quiet. Botany Mills 6½s converted an early rise into a 2-point net gain. Goodyear Tire and Rubber 5s and Lorillard debenture 5½s eased. Inland Steel 4½s gained.

Convertibles finished the day steady to higher. American Telephone 4½s and International Telephone 4½s made net advances of 4¼ and 2½, respectively, after early sessions. New Haven 6s again gave ground, yielding 2 points. Texas Corporation 5s, listed about a week ago closed at the new high of 102½ for a gain of nearly a point.

United States government bonds and Treasury certificates were dull but uniformly higher. The foreign list was irregular. German Republic 7s again showed activity and advanced a shade. Buenos Aires 6½s made a new low on a decline of 3¾.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in the dealings on the New York Stock Exchange. To expedite transmission, the cents are omitted where the same as the tens, and both low and offers are made as bids.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

General Firmness Underlies Local Stock Trading; Western Air Breaks Sharply

Prices on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday were little affected by the announcement at noon of a moderate increase in brokers' loans and while closing quotations were irregular, fluctuations were narrow, indicating that ready support was at hand to resist any signs of severe pressure.

Western Air Express, on rumors of a sharp cut in prices on its air-mail contract, was the outstanding soft spot of the day. On sales of 800 shares the stock abruptly sank 9 points to a new low mark at 34. Late buying brought quotations up to a close at 35 1-2, off 7 1-2 points net.

Farmers' and Merchants' Bank jumped another 5 points, making an advance over the past two sessions of 10 points, which brought the stock up to the high level of the year at 495. All other price changes of the market were confined within a range of 1 1-8 points.

Southern California Edison, still leading the turnover, ranged between 77 1-4 and 74 7-8 and closed unchanged for the session at 75 1-2.

Pacific Public Service slumped 1 1-4 points to 31.

Oil stocks were fractionally stronger throughout, excepting Rio Grande, which eased 1-8 to 27 3-8.

Seaboard National Securities, which, with Seaboard National Bank has shown signs of accumulation over the past month, swung up 1 point to another new high at 53 1-8. Security-First National Bank held firm at 135 on a turnover of 1000 shares. Transamerica, trading briskly, firmed fractionally to 63 7-8 and Pacific Finance, also extensively traded, added 1-2 to end at 150. Citizens' National Bank dropped 1 1-2 points to 127 1-2.

Byron Jackson fell 1 1-4 points to 30; Douglas Aircraft, 1 to 24 and Hydraulic Brake, 2 points to 40.

Sales totaled 23,085 shares valued at $1,158,347; previous day, 22,163 shares, valued at $1,409,430.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—A brisk covering movement in the last hour checked a sharp decline in today's curb market, but not all of the early losses were wiped out. Final quotations were decidedly mixed, although most of the recognized leaders closed higher. Trading was moderately heavy in volume, the day's sales running close to 1,800,000 shares.

Wall Street received another unpleasant surprise after the close when the weekly Federal Reserve statement disclosed an increase of $80,000,000 in brokers' loans, brinaing the total to within $3,000,000 of the record high. Some of the late buying was believed to represent short covering, based on the possibility of a small decrease in loans.

American and Foreign Power warrants led the rally in public utilities, soaring more than 11 points to 130 after having dipped to 115 in the early trading. Electric Bond and Share rallied from 139 to 145, where it was up 3 points on the day, and Electric Investors closed 5 points higher at 228½. Standard Power and Light, United Gas Improvement and Public Service of New Jersey also recorded moderate gains. Some of the early selling in the utilities was influenced by the report of a special committee of the Investment Bankers' Association of America urging careful discrimination in their purchases, and stating that many were overpriced.

Signs of heaviness appeared in some of the aviation issues, notably Curtiss Flying Service which declined 5½ points to a new low for the year. Other issues which sank into new low ground were Allied Aviation, Bellanca and Western Air Express, while Fokker lost 1½ points. An exception in this downward movement was Detroit Aircraft which rose 2¼ points.

Oils were mixed. Cosden touched another new high at 113⅛, but lost nearly all its gain. Ohio Oil ran up 7 points and Humble advanced 2, but Vacuum was heavy. Louisiana Land and Exploration touched a new low level for the year.

Standard Screw, which was weak yesterday, rallied 35 points. Aluminum Company of America and Dow Chemical preferred dropped 11 points. The latter touching a new low. Adams Express (new), Blue Ridge common, Shenandoah common, London Tin Syndicate and National Radio also sold at new low levels.

The closing price is quoted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

Strictly for PROTECTION

A BUSINESS man once said: "Why does not some strong old line Life Insurance Company get out a low rate Life Insurance Policy, strictly for protection to a man's family or business, leaving out frills, and selling it only to a select class of physical, moral, and financial risks? Such a policy will revolutionize the life insurance business."

Six Per Cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock, Series A, $100 par (this issue)		60,000,000
Common Stock, $10 par	35,000,000	22,500,000

The following information has been summarized by Mr. Harvey S. Firestone, President of The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, from his letter to the undersigned in regard to this issue:

The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, incorporated in Ohio in 1910 as successor to a West Virginia corporation incorporated in 1900, is one of the largest rubber tire manufacturers in the world, having efficient and economical plants for the manufacture of tires at Akron, Ohio, Los Angeles, California, Hamilton, Ontario, and London, England, with a present total capacity of 65,000 tires a day, which will be increased in 1930 to 80,000 in order to meet the increasing demand for the Company's products. The majority of all passenger car manufacturers, and over 90% of all automobile truck and bus manufacturers, use Firestone rims which are manufactured by a wholly owned subsidiary, Firestone Steel Products Company. Another subsidiary, Firestone Battery Company, has recently erected a plant in Akron for the manufacture of Firestone batteries. Firestone Footwear Company, with a factory at Hudson, Mass., manufactures rubber boots, shoes, and heels, and has a capacity of 30,000 pairs a day.

The Company secures its tire fabric requirements from a subsidiary, Firestone Cotton Mills, which has plants at Fall River, New Bedford, and Newburyport, Mass. These mills, with an aggregate of 201,900 spindles, have a yearly capacity of 45,000,000 pounds and enable the parent Company, through very low conversion costs, to obtain its tire fabric at minimum cost.

The Company owns and operates its own rubber preparation plant at Singapore, S. S., and maintains eight buying offices throughout the rubber growing districts of Malaya and Sumatra. In 1926, the Company through its subsidiary, Firestone Plantations Company, secured from the Republic of Liberia in West Africa a ninety-nine-year lease for a million acres of land suitable for rubber cultivation. Since that time 33,000 acres have been planted, and it is expected that by the end of 1930 over 50,000 acres will have been planted.

In cooperation with its extensive dealer organization, the Company plans to continue the development of One-stop Master Service Stores which provide complete service facilities of uniformly high standard. These service stores, of which the Company now owns or controls about two hundred widely distributed throughout the United States, sell gasoline, oil, tires, tubes, batteries, brake lining, and accessories, and also provide service such as tire and battery repairs, car greasing, brake testing, car washing, etc. They afford the Company the advantage of permanent retail outlets for its products.

The present financing program includes the sale of a substantial amount of Common Stock and the declaration and payment of a four hundred per cent. Common Stock dividend. The proceeds of this issue of Preferred Stock will be applied (1) to the retirement of the entire issues of Six Per Cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock and Seven Per Cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock now outstanding, (2) to the retirement of the entire issue of Ten Year 6½% Bonds of The Firestone Park Land Company, now outstanding, and (3) to the reimbursement of the Company for expenditures made from working capital for expansion of production and sales facilities and to the further expansion of such facilities.

The consolidated net income of the Company and its subsidiary companies in the United States, earned during each of the past seven fiscal years ending October 31, as certified by Messrs. Ernst & Ernst, and during the ten months ended August 31, 1929, as reported by the company, after all charges and available for preferred dividends, has been as follows: 1922, $7,348,421; 1923, $6,104,992; 1924, $7,116,689; 1925, $12,800,412; 1926, $6,122,340; 1927, $13,280,966; 1928, $7,072,014; ten months ended August 31, 1929, $6,016,527. During the foregoing period, the average annual consolidated net income amounted to 2.3 times the annual dividend requirement of this issue of Preferred Stock. The foregoing figures do not include any return on approximately $42,000,000 of new money which the present financing will provide over and above the amount to be used to retire securities now outstanding. Also, the foregoing figures for each of the last three fiscal years and for the ten months ended August 31, 1929, are after deduction of all expenditures made in connection with development of the Liberia rubber properties. Dividends are now being paid at the rate of $8 per share per annum on the Common Stock.

Based on current quotations on the New York Curb Exchange, the aggregate indicated market value of the Common Stock of the Company is approximately $100,000,000.

The Articles of Incorporation will be amended so as to provide for a retirement fund, commencing operation in the calendar year 1932, and designed to retire in each calendar year, from the profits of the next preceding fiscal year, 2% of the greatest par value of Cumulative Preferred Stock theretofore outstanding.

The executive staff of the Company is experienced, highly trained, and well organized, the greater part thereof having developed with the Company as a result of the latter's established policy of not only expanding and improving its manufacturing facilities but also of building man power and an organization of ability, energy and loyalty. Every employee is a holder of Common Stock. By reason of its facilities, experience and organization, the Company is fully entitled to share liberally in future developments in the field of automotive transportation.

The Company has agreed to make application to list the Six Per Cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock, Series A, and the Common Stock, on the New York Stock Exchange.

We offer this Preferred Stock if, as and when issued to and received by us, subject to Stockholders' approval and to the approval of all legal proceedings by our counsel. It is expected that delivery in the first instance will be made on or about October 30, 1929, in the form of temporary Preferred Stock certificates and Stock Purchase Warrants, exchangeable on or about February 15, 1930, for definitive Preferred Stock Certificates and Stock Purchase Warrants.

Price 99 per share and Accrued Dividend

Certificates of new outstanding Six Per Cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock and Seven Per Cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock will be accepted at 110 and accrued dividends in payment of subscriptions to this issue.

Erratic Tone Rules Trading on Wheat Mart

CHICAGO, Oct. 17. (AP)—Struggles for mastery of the wheat market brought about by trading today and fast changes in price, but the battle ended virtually a draw. Aggressive speculative selling, linked with broader wheat quotations at Liverpool, and continued letting go on the part of many holders, intent on avoiding losses, was matched against active new buying that arose largely from Argentine crop shortage estimates of sensational character. During one violent fluctuation, March delivery of wheat here and July delivery as well outbid the season's previous record.

Chicago closing prices for wheat were nearly steady, 1c to 2c net lower as compared, 1c to 1¼c advanced, oats unchanged to ¼c off, and provisions unchanged to 5c off.

By far the outstanding development of the day was a statement from Buenos Aires to the effect that a commission, appointed to make a definite estimate of Argentine wheat prospects, as distinguished from the official total, had placed the crop at 300,000,000 bushels, instead of the 280,000,000 bushels indicated by the official estimate.

The statement added that Cordoba Province, Argentina, will not harvest more than 50 per cent of last year's crop, Santa Fe, and Buenos Aires not more than 60 per cent, and Entre Rios not more than 80 per cent. Another important factor was word from Argentina that private crop reporters have found future deliveries today in heavy demand.

On the other hand, in spite of heavy buying here yesterday, the open interest in wheat here showed an increase of only 1,000 bushels, and the Liverpool wheat market today closed 2d to 2½d more strong, and Winnipeg at a price that represented a net loss of but little more than 1c per bushel. Moreover, reports have been pointing to a steadily increasing movement of Canadian wheat to the United States, and private estimates of North American wheat today were estimated at 750,000 bushels.

Corn prices were influenced by what was interpreted at times in the corn market, a firm tone to government reports of damage to corn recorded in many sections of the country, and reports of good offerings stated. Cash demand appeared from time to time here and there, but the market remained sluggish as a result of enlarged country offerings.

OIL NEWS

BY EDWARD G. KEGLEY

Contracts approaching $2,225,000 have been awarded for the construction of a twenty-inch natural-gas line from Kettleman Hills to the Rose Vista Hills terminal in the Buena Vista Hills oil field, near Taft, a distance of seventy miles.

The new line will have a capacity of 30,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day with an initial delivery of 100 pounds and makes available for the Los Angeles and Southern California cities.

According to officials of the Southern California Gas Company the delivery of gas and the line will be completed during January. It will aid in the present expansion program of the company by utilizing natural gas produced and leased by the Southern California Gas Company with the oil companies in the Kettleman Hills area.

Point Washout

Oil was discovered in the Latin Petroleum Oil Company's Upton No. 1 well in Sec. 31, 27-15, in San Luis Obispo county and has created considerable interest in that district. Many showings were encountered at 1,000 feet and the drill has continued to penetrate oil sand. For the last 50 feet the formation is reported to have been unusually porous. Yesterday the project was drilling below 2040 feet. The Upton interest has extensive holdings in the Los Chicos county. Its test is located twenty miles due east of the Bolsa.

Kettleman Yet

George F. Getty, Inc., does not consider development of two State Oil Company's project at Kettleman Hills. At least sixty days will elapse before any move is made to acquire a thirty-acre lease and the drilling. The property is a short distance from the Franklin No. 1 well, now suspended, and the Associated Oil Company's Bell No. 1, drilling below 6000 feet.

Ongoing Locations

Production is being prepared by George F. Getty, Inc., for Olil No. 1 well in Sec. 18, 15-16, in Madera county. Derrick pattern is being framed and assembled on the ground and work will be rapid in order to spud in within the next three days.

Up Five Days

The Standard Oil Company's San Joaquin No. 23 at Seal Ranch reportedly completed for 108 barrels of 36-deg. gravity oil per day from a depth of 3005 feet. It will be allowed a few days to clean up and endeavor to step up a 7 per cent cut. It was deepened.

Profits Dissected

The Western Gulf Oil Company's Gaviota No. 2 at the foot of Casitas Pass in Santa Barbara county is standing cemented with eight inches of 36-inch casing set to 1,000 feet. Oil sand was encountered slightly higher in this project than in the Hollister No. 1, 700 feet west, which was abandoned at more than 5000 feet several months ago after testing well.

Savings Continue

Oil still continues to be picked up in the California Ventura Oil Company's Chi-Ven No. 20 wildcat in Piedra Canyon north of the Ventura-Sespe field. A production test is now scheduled to be made a few weeks ago, but drilling was resumed and the hole now is below 4415 feet.

Preparing to Deepen

The Ring Petroleum Company is preparing No. 15 near the corner of Arroyo Seco and Pasadena streets at Highland Park and will resume drilling to a few days to deepen it into the lower formation. This project was originally a producer from a depth of less than 1,000 feet.

Oil Production

The Shell Oil Company's Slusher No. 19 at Santa Fe Springs was reported yesterday, the initial flow being estimated at 4000 barrels of 21.6-deg. gravity oil per day from a depth of 3000 feet. It is a direct offset producer and the 9-o'clock.

Notable Finding

The Union Oil Company's Bell No. 6 at Santa Fe Springs has started to flow for the first seven hours on 2700 barrels of oil from a depth of 3765 feet in the lower Pliocene sand. If the present rate of production holds it will settle down to at least 1500 barrels daily.

Pioneer Up

The Richfield Oil Company is drilling on Grim No. 1 and Hansen No. 1 adjacent to the Parker No. 1 pioneer of George F. Getty, Inc., on Inverted area at Pourero. Richfield has thirty-five acres under lease in that vicinity and as many more elsewhere in that district. In the Kern Front, Richfield's Kern No. 11 is ripping up, while Kern No. 10 has touched casing cement at 2216 feet. At Huntington Beach its Talbert No. 1 has thirteen and three-eighth-inch casing cemented at 6621 feet, bottom of the hole.

Richfield's Wardman No. 1 at Santa Fe Springs is nearing completion. Preparations are under way to set six-inch oil string to top of oil sand and will endeavor to complete this project at 7123 feet in the lower Clarke sand.

New Completion

The Lobo-Bell No. 9 of the Lobo Grande combination at Edwards is drilling ahead at 3,000 feet. Oil sand will be tapped in a few feet more or less and will then be given a production test. At present nearly 1,000 feet of oil sand is in evidence.

In Operation

The Pacific Western Oil Company's new casinghead gasoline plant at Signal Hill just been completed and placed in operation. Recently it received from the company's Hellman Permit No. 82 well, completed three weeks ago, is estimated at 2000 barrels daily. Recently completion at Signal is the first of a number of tideland projects drilling there. It now is flowing 4050 barrels of 38-deg. gravity oil per day from a depth of 3563 feet. The Goleta No. 1 offsets the tideland producer and is drilling below 1200 feet.

Suspends Project

The Globe Petroleum Corporation has suspended operations in Jameson-Estle No. 1 at Santa Fe Springs, failing to bring it in from the lower O'Connell sand at 6618 feet. Several months ago it started flowing at the rate of 1900 barrels of oil per day, with a slight cut, but was later killed to deepen.

Fitkin Forms Holding Unit

A. E. Fitkin & Co., developers of the Pacific Public Service Company, which was recently sold to the Standard Oil Company of California, has organized under the laws of Delaware a new $45,000,000 holding company, to be known as the United American Shares Corporation, with broad powers to engage in the buying, selling and operating of properties, it was learned yesterday.

While details have not yet been worked out, it is understood that the new company has three or four utility properties under option and it will begin operations with $15,000,000 cash. The company has an authorized capitalization of 1,500,000 shares of no par capital stock, the initial offering of which, it is understood, will be made to the public at $20.50 a share. A. E. Fitkin will be chairman of the board and the company will be supervised by the United States Engineering Corporation, a Fitkin subsidiary, which supervised Pacific Public Service, National Pacific Service and other utilities. Stock of the new company has been approved for listing by the Chicago Stock Exchange and application will be made to list on the Los Angeles, San Francisco and New York Curb exchanges.

Indemnity Unit to Split Stock

Stockholders of Pacific Indemnity Company yesterday ratified the proposal of the directors to split the present stock five for one and to reduce the par value from $50 to $10, which will result in an increase from 20,000 shares to 150,000 shares outstanding. The duration of the exchange period and dates for conversion of the old stock will be announced later, Lee A. Phillips, president, said. Dividends for the past three quarters on the old basis have been $1.50 a share.

The statement made no reference to what dividends will be paid on the new stock. The chief reason for the split-up was to insure a wider distribution of the stock and to place it within the reach of the small investor, according to a recent report issued by Mr. Phillips. The company is capitalized at $3,000,000, divided into $1,500,000 of paid-in capital and an equal amount in surplus.

Exchange Lists Stock Exchanges

Additional listings of 54,235 shares of the $25 par common stock of Pacific Finance Corporation and 2000 additional shares of the no par common stock of the Paraffine Company, Inc., were approved yesterday by the governors of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and will be called for trading immediately.

The additional for Pacific Finance brings that corporation's total listed common stock to 341,585 shares, while the additional for Paraffine Company brings its total listed stock to 466,290 shares.

T. C. DEANE WINS BANK PROMOTION

T. C. Deane, manager of the Fourth and Spring branch of the Bank of Italy National Trust and Savings Association has been appointed assistant vice-president and supervisor of the Los Angeles suburban branches to succeed J. P. Kennedy, vice-president, who will augment the official staff of the Pasadena main branch, Orra E. Monnette, vice-chairman of the board of directors, announced yesterday. Mr. Deane, who started in the bank as a clerk, will as district supervisor and head office representative supervise thirty branches outside of Los Angeles.

COAST COUNTIES GAS HEARING POSTPONED

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—Coast Counties Gas and Electric Company was granted an extension by the California Railroad Commission to November 26 on hearing of its application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity to construct natural gas transmission lines from Southern California oil fields into Contra Costa county. Attorney R. L. Vaughn, representing Coast Counties, stated the continuance was asked to permit the company to complete negotiations with Standard Oil Company of California for a contract for natural gas.

Se Confisca el Whisky de un Contrabandista Aéreo

WINDSOR (Ontario), Octubre 17. Los inspectores aduanales de los Estados Unidos que aprehendieron a cinco individuos que descargaban licor de un avión en Nine Mile Road, cerca de Detroit, han dicho hoy que el aparato aéreo había estado, durante ocho o diez días, haciendo viajes desde La Salle, uno de los centros de exportación de río abajo, en el condado de Essex.

El piloto pudo escapar en su aeroplano cuando advirtió que se aproximaban los agentes federales, quienes capturaron un auto y diez cajas de whisky, que aseguran fueron descargadas del avión contrabandista.

El Sindicato del Aguardiente Hace Negocios de Millones

NUEVA YORK, Octubre 17.—En sus operaciones, que abarcan buena parte de la costa del Atlántico, desde Maine hasta los cabos de Virginia, el gigantesco sindicato licorista, cuyas extensas propiedades de aquí y de Nueva Jersey fueron invadidas anoche por la policía, hizo negocios por $2,000,000 en un espacio de seis meses, según han revelado hoy las autoridades federales.

Hoy llevaron a William J. Calhoun, administrador prohibicionista de Nueva Jersey, una libretita negra recogida anoche en la mansión de Highland (Nueva Jersey), visitada por los agentes simultáneamente con otros treinta y un centros del sindicato, distribuidos entre Sandy Hook y Nueva York. En dicha libreta, constan las operaciones del sindicato, y se ve que alcanzan una cuantía de $2,000,000 en seis meses de negocios.

El Smoking Sigue Siendo de Rigor en la Casa Blanca

WASHINGTON, Octubre 17.—Sigue siendo popular el smoking en la Casa Blanca, por más que los árbitros de la moda hayan decretado que ya es anticuado, salvo en reuniones de entera confianza.

El presidente Hoover, cuyos amigos saben bien cuanto le desagrada el traje de etiqueta, se resigna a él en ocasiones excepcionales, tales como un banquete a un primer ministro o un embajador. Fuera de esos casos, siempre se presenta a la comida de smoking.

Y a los concurrentes a las frecuentes comidas de invitación en la Casa Blanca, que tanto agradan al presidente y a la señora Hoover, se les advierte de antemano que el traje que debe usarse en ellas es el smoking con corbata negra.

Hoover Manda al Senado una Lista de Nombramientos

WASHINGTON, Octubre 17.—Ha anunciado hoy la Casa Blanca que Charles C. Hart, de Oregon, actualmente ministro en Albania, ha sido nombrado ministro en Persia.

Ha dado el presidente despacho permanente de general de división de infantería de marina a Smedly D. Butler, que había sido provisionalmente promovido a ese grado hace algunas semanas.

Junto con esos nombramientos han sido enviados al senado los de Benjamin H. Littleton, de Tennessee, para cubrir la vacante democrática en el Tribunal de Reclamaciones, y de Thomas S. Williams, de Illinois, para cubrir la republicana.

Fue también al senado, para su confirmación, el nombramiento de Richard J. Hopkins, de Kansas, para juez de distrito en dicho Estado.

NOTAS LOCALES

No Ha Podido Encontrarse a la Aviadora Desaparecida

La misteriosa desaparición, ocurrida la semana pasada, de Peggy Paxson, de 17 años, aviadora que vive en el 1723 de la avenida de Longwood -y de Lucille Wallingford, de 25, residente en Redondo Beach, reclamó ayer la atención de la policía, pues la madre de la señorita Paxson ha notificado a las autoridades que las muchachas no habían sido halladas en Arizona, como se esperaba.

A solicitud de la señora Paxson, la Oficina de Prevención del Crimen ha librado instrucciones a las autoridades de inmigración de Calexico y a la policía de Kansas City para que se arreste a la señorita Paxson como fugitiva.

Detenido por Venderles Licor a los Chicos

Acusado de haber vendido licor a niños de escuela, Eusebio González, de 40 años, habitante en el 637 de la calle Imperial, fue aprehendido ayer por violación de la Ley de Wright.

El capitán Hagar, de la comisaría de Newton Street, ha recibido numerosas quejas de que ese individuo les ha estado vendiendo pintas y medias pintas de aguardiente a los niños de escuela. Un niño de 12 años se emborrachó últimamente con licor que le vendió González.

Visit Made to Brazil, Uruguay and Argentina

Trial Citrus Shipment First Fruit of Efforts

Inauguration of Westfal-Larsen's new express passenger-refrigeration service to the South American east coast today by the new motor liner Villanger, was afforded an effective prelude yesterday in the return from Uruguay, Brazil and the Argentine of two California trade scouts, Dudley Moulton and Van Bernard, aboard the Westfal-Larsen liner Brandanger.

Mr. Moulton is agricultural commissioner for San Francisco county, while Mr. Bernard is an Assemblyman from Butte City. As a result of their first reports on their South American survey to determine the possibilities of opening up new markets for California vegetables and fruits, the Sacramento Regional Citizens' Council has called a Pan-American reciprocal trade convention, to be held at Sacramento early in 1930. Representatives of all South American governments and commercial interests will be invited to attend.

First fruits of their expedition, however, is the large trial shipments of California citrus fruits which will go south tonight in the refrigeration chambers of the Villanger, having been ordered by a Buenos Aires importing firm.

The Villanger, departing tonight on the pathfinding tour to Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro, Santos and Montevideo, via the Canal, will be followed with the departure from this port on November 30 of the motorship Hindanger, second of the five fifteen-and-one-half-knot liners being built expressly for the trade. With all five vessels in operation, a twenty-day schedule will be maintained, it was announced yesterday by Capt. Harry H. Birkholm, district manager of the General Steamship Corporation, operating agent for the Westfal-Larsen Line.

The Villanger's passenger accommodations will also be filled to capacity tonight, among those embarking here being Capt. Flavio Machado of the Brazilian navy, with his wife and son, returning to Rio de Janeiro after spending the summer at Santa Barbara; Mrs. F. D. Kennedy, prominent in Honolulu society, en route to Buenos Aires with her son Fred; and Mr. and Mrs. Adolfo Breyer, prominent residents of Buenos Aires, returning home.

LINER YALE TO TRY OUT NEW FOG LIGHT

Efforts of the Lasco Line to improve navigation have prompted a try-out of a new fog light aboard the coastwise liner Yale, which had the new device, invention of a California man, on its trip down from San Francisco yesterday. Its effectiveness still is unknown, as the voyage down the coast was entirely without fog. The device, in size about the same as an auto spotlight, is equipped with amber lenses to afford greater penetration of rays. It is intended, not for the ship to see by, but to be seen by. One report is the ray will penetrate about a mile of fog.

Clint Tanner, secretary-treasurer for Tanner Brothers, Inc., ship suppliers at San Pedro, will leave today, accompanied by Mrs. Tanner, on a protracted business trip to the United Kingdom and the continent. They will sail from New York on the liner Majestic the 26th inst. and will visit cities in England, Scotland, France, Germany, Belgium, Norway, Sweden and Denmark. They expect to be gone a year.

The motorship West Honaker, second vessel in the new South African Dispatch Line, is due from New York tomorrow and after proceeding north will return in a month to sail direct for Capetown. She already is booked full in the north, as are all other ships of the line until January, according to Capt. A. R. Paulsen, agent. The West Cusseta inaugurated the service a month ago. A third ship, the West Gramma, will be taken over at New York in a few days. Four are assured for the run, and negotiations are reported for a fifth.

Maurice Levy, customs inspector in charge of destruction of condemned merchandise for the port of New York, arrived overland from El Paso yesterday for an informal study of local customs methods. He will be here four days.

Merritt, Chapman & Scott's new derrick barge will be built by the San Francisco plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation rather than by its local plants, it was decided yesterday. The craft will be of steel, 125 feet long, and will lift 100 tons. Delivery is set for March.

Another shipment of California grapes to the Orient, twenty-five carloads, will go out on the Barber Line motorship Tai Yang, in today to load. It is a new movement. The vessel also will take several cars of oranges, lemons and grapefruit for Shanghai and Manila. Dodwell & Co. are agents.

Eight thousand tons of clinker cement are due the 24th inst. from Belgium on the new Klaveness motorship Bonneville, which is on her maiden voyage, and will soon begin the new Klaveness trans-Pacific service, represented here by McCormick Steamship Company.

Attorney Shoots Self When Wife Won't Kiss Him

DENVER, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—William Bryan Quigly, 30-year-old New York attorney, tonight is in a local hospital wounded critically following a suicide attempt assertedly made after his estranged wife, Mrs. Virginia Coxe Quigly, refused to kiss him good-by.

Released from custody, the wife, her eyes red from hours of crying, said her husband had gone to the apartment to attempt a reconciliation and when that failed they had arranged a money settlement for her.

"Then he asked me to kiss him good-by," she said. "I refused."

Then he shot himself, she said. At the hospital he made a statement to the District Attorney in which he admitted he had shot himself because his wife had refused to kiss him good-by.

ROW BEGUN BY ATTACK ON EDISON

Students Defend Wizard as Rector Fights Naming School After Him

ELMIRA (N. Y.) Oct. 17. (AP)—Protest by Rev. Ernest L. Harvey, Elmira Heights Episcopal rector, against naming the high school of that suburb after Thomas A. Edison has aroused local admirers of Mr. Edison.

Mr. Harvey declared from the pulpit that Edison's name should not be given to a school because of the inventor's purported disbelief in the existence of God and in a life hereafter. William W. Jaynes, editor of the high school paper, in a letter to the Elmira Star Gazette, declared the students are proud to attend a school bearing Edison's name and that the world would be better off "if one third of the people lived up to their beliefs as Thomas A. Edison does."

Others said that Edison's position was not given correctly by the Episcopal rector and that in an article in a magazine (The Forum) in November, 1926, the inventor said: "I would not deny a supreme intelligence. Heaven forbid that I should diminish by a shade of one degree, let alone destroy, the faith or hope of any man or woman. Christianity, I think, is the most beautiful of all human conceptions."

DETOUR BRINGS PAIR TOGETHER

Brother and Sister Reunited After Forty-six Years of Separation

LEPANTO (Ark.) Oct. 17. A detour sign, the bane of the motorist, has brought about the reunion of a brother and sister after forty-six years of separation.

John Frisby left his home in St. Louis in 1883 and saw a lot of the world. He finally settled here. His family never heard from him.

His sister, Mrs. J. C. Polkinghorne, and her husband wer touring the South. On Highway 61 a sign told them to detour. They did and passed down Lepanto's main street. Mrs. Polkinghorne saw something familiar about a man she passed and asked him who he was. It was her brother.

WEALTHY FINANCIER FORGETS BUSINESS

E. H. Simmons

BROKER ON HONEYMOON STOPS HERE

President of New York Stock Exchange on Way to Honolulu With Bride

Edward Henry Harriman Simmons, 53-year-old scion of one of the East's wealthiest families and president of the New York Stock Exchange, arrived here yesterday via Southern Pacific in his private car, Chicago, with his bride of the 4th inst., Mrs. Meyer (Beatrice B. Bogert.)

"We are on our honeymoon," Simmons said, "and we wish to forget newspapers. We will sail Saturday for Honolulu and in about three weeks will return."

Simmons started out in life with the intention of becoming a doctor. He attended the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York City, but after leaving college clerked for some years in Guaranty Trust Company and other financial institutions. He bought a seat on the New York exchange in 1900. He became a governor of the exchange in 1909, vice-president in 1921-24 and then president, in which office he has continued.

Simmons is of the E. H. H. Simmons & Co., brokers; vice-president and director of Stock Clearing Corporation and director of Harriman National Bank. His mother was Cornelia Neilson Harriman before her marriage. Simmons's first wife, Catherine Comstock, died in 1920.

SANTA ANITA CANYON DAM NOT PERILED

Flood-Control Engineer Declares Seepage to be No Sign of Weakness

Moisture coming from a seam in the east embankment of the Santa Anita Canyon Dam, at a point fifteen feet from where the concrete structure contacts the rock, has caused rumors to be circulated in the valley below the dam, but is no indication of weakness, either in the dam or the foundation, it was declared in a statement issued from the office of E. C. Eaton, flood control engineer, yesterday.

"Pressure grouting" to stop the seepage is now being done by the flood-control district. All rock formations contain almost invisible cracks in which ground water circulates, it was pointed out, and to fill these minute fissures, holes are drilled in the rock under the dam, and in the bed of the lake behind it, and liquid cement forced in under heavy pressure, making the foundation absolutely water tight.

About 164 acre feet of water was left in the Santa Anita Dam this summer to keep alive the fish in the reservoir. Its capacity is 1350 acre feet. It is 225 feet high, and cost $1,250,000.

DAM PROJECT STUDY BEGINS

San Gabriel Site Visited by Engineers for State

Findings Withheld Pending Further Deliberations

Investigation Centers Chiefly on Inspection Facilities

The advisability of the State permitting any kind of a dam, high or low, at the forks site of the proposed $25,000,000 high dam on the San Gabriel River yesterday was taken under jurisdiction of State Engineer Hyatt and State Dam Engineer Hawley following a visit of the two officials to the site.

"We are here today," Hyatt said, "merely to see what sort of inspection facilities are at hand rather than to make an inspection itself. Of course, we would venture no opinion from what we have learned in a half-day of investigation. We will return to Sacramento tonight or tomorrow and there, in connection with other information, will determine what we will do next.

"I would not even speculate at this time as to whether we will be able to report on the situation from what we learned of the inspection facilities at the disposal of those who have inspected the site and passed on it or whether further inspection will be necessary on our part. All we could do today was to see what inspection facilities are here."

TUNNELS EXPLORED

In company with Supervisor Wright, County Flood Control Engineer Eaton, Geologist Robert T. Hill, Engineer Louis C. Hill and County Resident Engineer E. B. Davey, the two State officials went through the 483 feet of shafts and drifts that tunnel the west side of the canyon. It was on this side that the recent 200,000-cubic yard landslide occurred stopping further construction work after between $2,000,000 and $4,000,000 had been spent toward what was planned to be the highest dam in the world.

Nine hundred more feet of inspection tunnels are to be dug within the next sixty to ninety days, under the river from side to side of the canyon to provide further information as to what kind of a foundation exists, so that it may be determined whether even a low dam can be built if it meets with State approval, Davey told Wright.

EXPERTS WITH PARTY

The two Hills are members of a special committee of experts who were engaged by the Supervisors to examine the site after the big slide, September 17, last. The committee recommended specifically against further exploration to determine advisability of a low dam.

Chairman McClellan of the Board of Supervisors will have returned from a vacation in Minnesota by Monday, when the Supervisors will have their next meeting. At this time the situation will be discussed as to future plans.

When the board prosecuted a lawsuit to compel the building of a high (425-foot) dam it was decided that nothing but a major earth movement could change the plans of the dam. The new law passed at the last session of the Legislature, however, provides that the State engineer has the power to veto any dam plans.

QUESTION UNCONSIDERED

Whether the 200,000-yard landslide that directed attention of engineers to conditions of the foundation rock that would be under the west abutment of the dam should be considered as a major earth movement under the terms of the court order made by Superior Judge Anderson in 1928, has not been considered by the Supervisors. Flood Control Counsel Dowda, however, stated that by the terms of the court's order directing the high dam, it might be impossible to divert the proceeds of the $35,000,000 bond issue to the construction of a number of smaller dams.

The Supervisors were informed yesterday that the San Gabriel Valley Protective Association (of water users) has voted to employ a special commission of geologists and engineers to make a further investigation of rock conditions at the site.

Supervisor Wright stated that any light on the subject of rock conditions at the dam will be welcome.

CONSUL HAS ASSISTANCE APLENTY

Large Family Ready to Help Ecuadorean Representative

South American Visitors Stop Here on Way North
Dr. Gustavo Yeaza, new Consul-General at Bay City, and wife and children, soon to take up residence at San Francisco.

DIPLOMATIC perplexities are simple problems to Dr. Gustavo Yeaza, new Ecuadorean Consul-General to San Francisco, who passed through port yesterday on the Panama Mail liner Colombia.

All he has to do is refer the subject to his family, and when they get through with it, there's nothing left to be said. For there are twelve of them—papa and mamma and ten little Yeazas. Yet some are not so little, five being scheduled to attend universities in California.

Dr. Yeaza has been in the consular service eighteen years, twelve at New York, and there are folk who believe he will be President of Ecuador in the not distant future.

ACTORS' TAX DEDUCTIONS QUESTIONED

Prominent Film Stars Accused of Listing Liquor Bills in Deductions

Two prominent motion-picture actors yesterday were denied the right to list their asserted liquor expenses under "entertainment, publicity and advertising" in a Federal bill of particulars filed with United States District Judge Henning in the case of J. Marjorie Berger, Hollywood tax expert, charged with making and returning false and fraudulent returns for a number of actors and actresses.

ROD LA ROCQUE

Rod La Rocque and Mitchell Lewis are the actors named in the bill filed by Asst. U. S. Atty. Davis. La Rocque is asserted to have expended $1444.66, or a portion thereof, for liquor, and stated that sum in his income tax as "entertainment," while Lewis listed $328.76 as "publicity and advertising," but the government's bill asserts that, too, was a whisky bill.

The Federal bill also cites the income-tax returns of Dorothy Mackaill and asserts that deductions of $1500 for professional wardrobe, $241.84 for drugs and make-up and $908.28 for a studio maid are not allowable because the sums were not spent.

The government contends also that Miss Berger should not have deducted $6000 from Miss Mackaill's returns because the fund was paid to Mrs. Florence Wise, a relative, and was for living expenses.

Immediately on filing the bill of particulars, Davis announced that he intends to subpoena for Miss Berger's trial on the 22nd inst. La Rocque, Lewis, Miss Mackaill, Eleanor Boardman, King Vidor, William Haines, George F. Marion, Jr., Lothar Mendes, Robert W. Browne and several others equally prominent in the motion-picture colony. All will be in the position of testifying against the tax counsellor.

LA ROCQUE SAYS CHARGES PUZZLING

Rod La Rocque, one of the motion-picture actors named in the Federal bill of particulars filed in the case of J. Marjorie Berger, income-tax expert, last night said he was puzzled as to the government's charges that "entertainment" in his

GIRL SAYS SHE BOUND OWN HANDS

Detective Stories Caused Her to Lie Helpless in Park, "Victim" Admits

Detective story mysteries influenced her to scratch herself with a pin, bind her own hands with baling wire and then to lie in a seemingly helpless condition in Exposition Park, Virginia Malloy, 15 years of age, told Captain of Detectives Slaughter yesterday in her asserted confession that the story she previously told of three men attacking her was untrue.

The girl's admission was made after an hour's questioning at the police juvenile bureau, Slaughter stated. After receiving a severe lecture the girl was released to her mother, who took her to their home at 4256½ South Olive street.

The girl, in an apparently hysterical condition, her hands bound, mouth gagged, and legs and arms scratched in numerous places, was found Wednesday night by a Japanese youth walking through the park. When taken to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital she told police that three men had dragged her into an automobile at Forty-second and Flower streets and gagged her. She lost consciousness, she said, later to regain her senses lying bound and helpless in the park.

She told Slaughter, he said, that she thought she would get a thrill out of what she did, but had not expected an investigation would result.

MICHIGAN FOLK TO MEET

Monthly socials of the Michigan Association will be resumed next Tuesday evening in Veterans' Hall, 346 South Hill street, Milton R. Parmelee, president, announced. Community singing, led by H. J. Baubaker, and other features will be followed by dancing and a social hour. All Michigan folk have been invited.

EDISON NOW MEMBER OF FILM GROUP

Wizard, Given Honorary Recognition by Academy, Wires His Acceptance

Thomas A. Edison yesterday accepted by telegram an invitation to become the first honorary member of the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences. The invitation, dispatched by wire, last Monday, was tendered in recognition of the film industry's indebtedness to the East Orange wizard for those of his inventions which constitute the bases of motion-picture production, the electric light, the phonograph, the first motion-picture camera, the first projection machine and the first device for synchronization of sound and pictures.

Edison thus becomes an honorary member of the academy during the national celebration of Light's Golden Jubilee, marking the fiftieth anniversary of his invention of the incandescent light.

The anniversary will be observed formally next Monday at Dearborn, Mich., with a banquet and dedication by President Hoover of the Edison Institute of Technology there. Douglas Fairbanks, president of the Motion-Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences, is a member of the general committee sponsoring the jubilee.

Mayor Gets New Investigator

W. A. Taylor of 1514 Crest Drive yesterday was appointed investigator by City Prosecutor Nix and assigned to service in Mayor Porter's office. The appointment was made at the Mayor's request.

The Mayor said he understood that Taylor had recently done some good work on a special investigation. Taylor formerly was in the automobile business. Last week Mearl Allen resigned a position as City Prosecutor's investigator, assigned to the Mayor's office.

PANTAGES JURY SEES COLLAPSE

Woman Witness Stumbles from Court in Terror

Mrs. Biffle Fears Arrest Because of Testimony

Wife Supports Story Told by Indicted Husband

"They arrested my husband, are they going to arrest me? I don't want to go to jail."

With these words on her lips Mrs. Garland Biffle stumbled from the witness stand at the trial of Alexander Pantages in Superior Judge Fricke's court late yesterday afternoon, nearly collapsed in the courtroom and had to be assisted outside by Bailiff Purdue and Deputy Sheriff Hazel Brown. She was not arrested.

Mrs. Biffle is the wife of the Alhambra book agent who was promptly arrested and indicted by the grand jury for perjury after he had testified as the first defense witness for Pantages.

TELLS SAME STORY

On the witness stand yesterday Mrs. Biffle had told practically the same story recited by her husband that on the day Eunice Pringle asserts the theater man attacked her in his offices in the Pantages Building, she (Mrs. Biffle) was with her husband in the lobby of the theater building about 3:30 p.m. and saw the Pringle girl enter the lobby with Nicholas Dunaev, whom Pantages asserts was in a conspiracy with the girl to blackmail him.

Biffle, when he was on the stand, testified to overhearing a conversation between Dunaev and Miss Pringle, that carried an inference supporting Pantages's charge of frame-up. This was the only point, practically, on which Mrs. Biffle did not support her husband. She testified, yesterday that she was too far away, and there was too much noise from the street for her to overhear any words the couple might have spoken.

STUMBLES FROM COURT

Mrs. Biffle held a handkerchief saturated with medicine to her face and she stumbled from the courtroom on the arm of Deputy Sheriff Hazel Brown. Just outside the doors she fell into the arms of her husband. Shortly before that Biffle had been arraigned in Superior Judge Aggeler's court on the perjury indictment and had obtained his release only after producing $7000 bail, the amount recommended by the grand jury. The 28th inst. is set for him to enter plea to the charge against him.

At the time Biffle was arrested, Dist.-Atty. Fitts declared that the State can produce five witnesses to prove that Dunaev was nowhere near the Pantages Theater Building at the time related by the Biffles.

After Mrs. Biffle had staggered out of the courtroom yesterday the only statement on the Biffle situation made by the District Attorney was:

"We will take no action against Mrs. Biffle at this time."

He refused to amplify the remark. Like her husband, Mrs. Biffle identified the Pringle girl and Dunaev when they were taken into the courtroom at the request of Defense Attorneys Ford, Gilbert and Geisler.

Also, like her husband, she was vague in her description of the clothing worn by Dunaev on the day of the asserted attack, nor could she describe another man that both she and her husband declared was in the lobby of the Pantages Building at the same time.

Mrs. Biffle asserted that she stood at the doorway of the theater building, while her husband entered, and said she was in this position when Dunaev and Miss Pringle entered.

Cross-examination of the woman by Dist.-Atty. Fitts was vigorous.

TELLS OF IDENTIFICATION

In response to his questions, Mrs. Biffle asserted that she identified the Pringle girl from a newspaper picture she saw on the afternoon of August 10—the day after the asserted attack. She identified Dunaev, she said, from another newspaper picture that she saw later.

The witness admitted that she had discussed her husband's testimony with him after his appearance in court and also that she had read a detailed account of it in a newspaper.

Throughout her testimony, Mrs. Biffle spoke in a low voice. Her fingers twined nervously in a hand-

STORES sometimes employ a girl whose job it is to be called on the carpet, roasted and fired—whenever one of the cash customers gets a mad.

It would be useful if the city of Los Angeles adopted a similar expedient in the matter of chiefs of police.

DOUBLING FOR GRIEF

Part of the dignity of being a Police Commissioner is to fire the Chief of Police. The commissioners very rarely have an idea in the world as to why they are firing him. That's just part of it.

If we employed an extra chief of police—a sort of dummy—he could be fired early and often without any harm being done. I think it would be well to hire one with a particular eye to his emotional talents—one who will weep and wail and fall on his knees and beg for mercy. Let's give the boys a real good time while we are at it.

A TOUGH JOB

There probably isn't another job so hard to fill with satisfaction. A police chief has to know crooks and crook history; he has to be a fine executive and an executive with peculiar and special understanding of cops. Many cities—Los Angeles included—have had many officers for chiefs. They have had executive ability, but they do not understand how to get work and cooperation from their men. The consequence is they invariably fail. We have had the best Chief in the history of this city. It would be good judgment in Mr. somebody else for a change.

THE TOAST OF BROADWAY

Two actresses, once the "toast of Broadway," have been sent to the workhouse in New York to recover from the dope habit.

The number of theater people who have been found to be dope addicts does not reflect upon the moral tone of the theater. One of the primal causes of the dope habit is that there are people in various occupations who at certain hours just have to be full of pep. The pick-me-up in order to be frisky for the evening performance is the answer in the case of many a miserable, headachy girl.

YEAH—TOASTED

As to being "the toast of Broadway"— wonder if any girl has ever really occupied such a position. The ones on top are usually toasts in the sense that they are unmercifully toasted by their loving friends.

THE STARS FALL

Ginger, one of the great motion-picture dog actors, has gone to dog heaven—having previously retired from the screen.

The reason that all these fascinating dogs retired from the screen was because the directors seldom had as much brain as the dogs. Instead of allowing them to continue to be dogs—as in the early days of Strongheart—they tried to cast them in impossible roles in pictures. As soon as they ceased to be dogs they ceased to be interesting. Just as an elephant elephanting around is entertaining. An elephant pretending to be a man and wearing a bib and eating at a table is a bore and sort of painful and depressing.

SEWER FUND URGED

The Board of Public Works yesterday recommended to Council the appropriation of $376,022, so the City Engineer may proceed with the construction of the intercepting sewer for Owensmouth and Van Nuys. The matter went to the Health and Sanitation Committee.

FILMLAND CAPTURES RAJAH

Visiting Indian Prince Declares Hollywood Unique; Interviewed by "Times" Reporter

BY ALMA WHITAKER

As usual, the social lion of the week is captured by screenland. His Highness, Jagatjita, Maharajah of Kapurthala, independent ruler of nearly half a million subjects in British India, was successfully monopolized by Hollywood during his twenty-four-hour stay in our midst.

For Louis B. Mayer and Sid Grauman were his official hosts the moment he set foot on California soil Wednesday evening. They hastened him to the Roosevelt Hotel, dined him, rushed him off to see the grand premiere of "Hallelujah" at the Fox Palace, and then entertained him with a midnight supper-dance in the Blossom Room at the Roosevelt afterwards.

The Rajah is about 60 years of age, slender, ascetic, aristocratic, idealistic. Back in his own domain he is well nigh supreme autocrat . . . and lives up to it. He was dressed in European clothes. When I was ushered into his suite at 2 a.m., two policemen were guarding the door and his two secretaries formed a royal guard. He shook hands perfunctorily and bade me be seated beside him on the lounge.

"Yes," he said, "things are rather disturbed in India just now, but the independent princes, of which I am one, are loyal to Great Britain. An agent of the Viceroy resides in each principality—not in an advisory capacity, but as an avenue of communication. When I was in Europe I spent a few days in England, for our relations are very cordial. But most of my time was spent in Italy, France and Germany. I had the honor to meet your President in Washington, too. This is my second visit to Los Angeles. I was here fourteen years ago."

In about ten minutes he rose with a subtle royal gesture which made it perfectly plain that the audience was at an end. As I took my leave he turned to the secretaries and

DON'T MARK UNIVERSITY MAIL MATTER 'WESTWOOD'

There is a Westwood postoffice in California, but it is in Lassen county, not Los Angeles county, it was pointed out yesterday by Postmaster O'Brien. The statement came as the result of unusual confusion in the sending of mail to the University of California at Los Angeles. The postmaster at Westwood, Cal., has been swamped with mail for students at the University of California at Los Angeles. He cannot deliver it, being nearly 300 miles away, and mail thus addressed is delayed, sometimes as long as a week.

Although Westwood and University of California at Los Angeles are located here, they are a part of Los Angeles and come under the jurisdiction of the main Los Angeles postoffice. Westwood is merely a district, a subdivision, not a city, and has no postoffice.

It was brought out that air mail from Chicago and New York was greatly delayed because it was addressed to some one at the University to California at Los Angeles, Westwood. It is believed that the confusion is caused by the fact that many persons at the university mark their mail as from "Westwood," whereas the only postoffice of that name is in Northern California.

Postmaster O'Brien says the proper way to address mail to the Institution, or persons there, is as follows:

"University of California,
"Los Angeles, Cal."

He states this is sufficient, as his office handles all the mail going to the institution.

ABRAM K. DETWILER PASSES

Widely Known Los Angeles Builder and Financier Dies After Illness of Year

Climaxing a year's illness, death yesterday called Abram K. Detwiler, capitalist and president of the A. K. Detwiler Corporation. Mr. Detwiler died shortly before noon in the Hollywood Hospital where he had been for the last year.

Funeral services for the financier, who was well known throughout Southern California for the last quarter of a century, will be conducted tomorrow at 10 a.m. from the undertaking parlors of Pierce Brothers, 720 West Washington street. The services will be in charge of the Knights Templar and will be followed by cremation in Hollywood Cemetery.

A. K. DETWILER

Born in Birdsboro, Berks county, Pa., August 5, 1848, Mr. Detwiler attended public schools of the State and subsequently moved to Toledo, where he became prominent as an organizer and builder. He was one of the builders of the Toledo and Indiana Electric Railroad, served as president of the Toledo-Maumee Valley Railroad in 1899 and at one time was director of the Manual Training School of Toledo, now known as Toledo University.

Mr. Detwiler came to Los Angeles in 1904 and became active in the construction of various plants for the Los Angeles Home Telephone Company in cities throughout Southern California. Later he became owner of the Detwiler Building at 412 West Sixth street and until the time of his death was engaged as head of the corporation bearing his name.

In 1925 his name was identified with those of his two brothers,

THREE SOUGHT AS KIDNAPERS

Relative Accused in Seizure of Two Children

Mother Declares Suspect Colorado Pastor

Asserted Abduction Follows Long Legal Fight

Peace officers throughout Southern California yesterday were watching the highways in an effort to apprehend three men who are believed to have kidnaped two small children from the Florence district, and to be fleeing with them to Littleton, Colo.

The leader of the asserted abductors is Paul Phipps, a Presbyterian minister of Littleton, Colo., according to the complaint sworn to before Justice of the Peace Miller of Huntington Park, charging him and two unidentified men with child stealing.

The two missing children are Thomas Phipps, 7 years of age, and Dorothy Mae Phipps, 6, of 7226 Elaine street, Florence, where they lived with their mother, Mrs. Rose Phipps, and two young brothers.

According to Deputy Sheriff Exley, the abduction was witnessed by the two brothers, Robin F. Phipps, 12, and Melvin J. Phipps, 11, who identified the kidnaper as their uncle, Paul.

BOYS TELL STORY

In their story to officers the two boys said they were walking to the Miramonte school with their younger brother and sister proceeding about a block ahead of them. They saw a man approach the two younger children and talk to them, holding them by the arms. On coming closer they recognized the man as their uncle, the boys said, but they hastened on when he said: "Run along, for the police are coming to arrest your mother."

Two automobiles then drove up, Melvin told the officers, and the man took the young brother and sister into one of the cars and drove away.

Mrs. Phipps told the officers that the abduction is the climax of a lengthy legal fight in the Colorado courts conducted by the children's paternal grandparents, to gain custody of two of the fatherless children.

FIGHT WON BY DEFAULT

Six months ago an action was brought in the Colorado courts but was thrown out on the showing made by her attorneys, Mrs. Phipps said. She then fled to California with her children in an effort to keep them with her, the woman told officers, but subsequently another court action was filed in Colorado and was won by the grandparents by default, because of the absence of Mrs. Phipps in California.

The complaint charging child stealing was issued on the grounds that regardless of the court order obtained in Colorado, the plaintiffs had no right to remove the children from their mother's custody until she first had been given a hearing in a California court.

MOTHER CHANGES NAME

Since coming to California, the family has been living under the name of Rose, the mother obtaining employment under that name while her children attended school.

According to the report on file at the Sheriff's office, Paul Phipps is 37 years of age, weighs 140 pounds, and is five feet nine inches tall, being of slender build. His hair is brown and eyes are gray. He was wearing a gray felt hat with a black ribbon and when last seen had a small mustache. Both he and his father are said to be ministers in Littleton, Colo.

One of the automobiles used was a 1929 Dodge sedan painted blue. The other was a touring car with one side-curtain up. Both are believed to bear Colorado license plates.

No description was obtained of the other two men.

CUSTODY DECIDED BY DENVER COURT

DENVER, Oct. 17. (AP)—The two children of Mrs. Rose Phipps, who today charges Rev. Paul Phipps of Littleton, Colo., of abducting them in Los Angeles, were declared dependent and ordered into the custody of their grandparents, Rev. and Mrs. R. J. Phipps of Littleton, by a court order here June 26, last.

When the court order was handed down here the two children, Thomas, 7, and Dorothy Mae, 5, were believed to be in California with their mother.

The ruling in the case here last June was made by Judge Steele in Juvenile Court after a similar ruling had been made in the case by Judge Ingram in April. After Judge Ingram's ruling, Mrs. Phipps asked for and was granted a trial of the case by jury. The jury found the children dependent and Judge Steele ordered them placed in custody of their grandparents.

There was no mention in the case of Mrs. Phipps's other children. Rev. Paul Phipps is the 27-year-old son of Rev. and Mrs. R. J. Phipps.

Physician Says She Has Contracted Pneumonia; Special Nurses Called

Mrs. Lois Pantages, wife of the theater magnate, who recently was found guilty of manslaughter in connection with the death in an automobile accident of a Japanese gardener, was reported to be seriously ill with pneumonia last night. Her physician, Dr. E. C. Fishbaugh, said Mrs. Pantages has developed a serious case of pneumonia.

At the Pantages home it was said that special nurses had been called to attend Mrs. Pantages. Alexander Pantages, the husband, said over the telephone that two extra nurses had been called in.

Dr. Fishbaugh, who has attended Mrs. Pantages since the automobile mishap which resulted in manslaughter charges, would not discuss his patient's condition other than to say that she is in a "critical condition."

bade them see that he was not disturbed before 10 a.m.

This Maharajah is immensely wealthy and owns a fabulous array of rare jewels. But he is modern. Oxford educated and credited with a benign and reformative rule. He is extraordinarily well informed on world politics. He said the present British Viceroy is very popular and conducts himself with high diplomacy.

It was interesting to watch his reactions to "Hallelujah," the film about the colored people of the South—and their religious emotionalism. His people are above all self-controlled, serene, poiseful and their religion far removed from the brand so dramatically, boisterously depicted on the screen. So that his face depicted politely veiled astonishment throughout.

His Highness left last night for San Francisco, from whence he will sail for home via China, Japan, and the Malay Peninsula, completing nearly a year of world travel.

Hollywood opened its arms yesterday to the Maharajah and when he had finished looking upon the new wonders of movieland he said the film capital is unlike any other place in the world.

The noted visitor was the honored guest at two studio events, first a luncheon at Universal studios tendered by Carl Laemmle, Jr., and attended by all the notable film stars and executives of the company. Carl Laemmle, Sr., met the Maharajah recently in Europe and returned to America on the same boat. As a result of this friendship his son, now at the helm of Universal Pictures, arranged the luncheon.

He was honored later at a tea at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios as the guest of Mr. Mayer where a program featuring Charles King, the Duncan sisters and Armida and Cecil Cunningham was given. Here, too, screen notables met the Maharajah.

At both studios the visitor was photographed for talking pictures, and M.-G.-M. is to present him with a print of his picture and voice to take back to his native land. He witnessed talking pictures in the making on both lots and expressed amazement at the new and novel entertainment.

PANTAGES CASE GROCER SCORED

Doctors Called to Testify in Behalf of Defense

kerchief she clasped and often raised to her lips.

Small-town, back-fence gossip found its way into the records of the trial.

The gossip was read before the jury in connection with the testimony of Leo Zlaket, butcher and grocer of the little town of Garden Grove, where the Pringle girl lived with her mother.

Zlaket began his testimony Wednesday afternoon with the assertion that he had lived next door to the Pringle home in Garden Grove and that he had seen Dunaev there on fifty or seventy-five different occasions.

READ INTO RECORD

On cross-examination Fitts produced a copy of Zlaket's testimony before the grand jury here on August 20, last, and the defense asked to have the whole of the transcript of that proceeding read into the record. Although Chief Deputy District-Attorney Stewart declared that the grand jury record contained "hearsay four times removed" the Prosecutors finally removed their objections and the transcript was read in its entirety to the jury.

Asked at the time he appeared before the grand jury if he knew anything against the reputation of Eunice Pringle, Zlaket admitted that his only information was hearsay. He was instructed to repeat the hearsay and this, substantially, was what he recited:

That his wife told him that she had been told by a 19-year-old neighbor girl, who had in turn been told by some other unidentified person that had in turn been told by some one else that Eunice Pringle had once "broken up a family."

In the same statement to the grand jury, Zlaket admitted that he, of his own knowledge, knew of nothing that could detract from the girl's reputation; that he had never seen or heard her do anything that could be criticised.

VISITS PANTAGES

Fitts, on cross-examination of the Garden Grove butcher, at the trial yesterday, drew an admission from the witness that he had been approached by a man named Clary who represented himself as a coffee salesman from a local concern, and at Clary's invitation, on the night of August 21, last, went to see Alexander Pantages at the latter's home on Vermont avenue, and a few days later to see one of Pantages's attorneys.

Zlaket said that he and Clary arrived at the Pantages home at about 10:30 p.m. and talked to both Mr. and Mrs. Pantages, for nearly an hour. He further admitted, after considerable questioning, that he did not know Dunaev's name until he was told it by Pantages.

In spite of repeated invitations, Zlaket was unable to tell the name of any other visitors to the Pringle home, with the exception of one other neighbor, and stated, further that he, personally, had never been a visitor at the girl's home, and had never made any effort to learn the names of those who visited there.

"I always tend to my own business down there," said the butcher, at one point.

"Apparently," snapped Fitts, and promptly was rebuked by the court.

DOCTORS TESTIFY

Three physicians also were defense witnesses yesterday. The first of these was Dr. Peter O. Sundin, who testified he had given the Pringle girl a physical examination at the request of Dist.-Atty. Fitts on August 22, and at that time he could find no evidence of an attack. He was not asked about the bruises on her legs, arms or chest. Dr. Sterling Pierce, who also was present and made a similar examination at the same time as Sundin, gave similar testimony.

Dr. E. H. Gibbs was the last medical man called and still occupied the witness stand on direct examination when court adjourned for the day. He was apparently called by the defense in an attempt to refute testimony already given by Police Chemist Rex Welch, who made an examination of spots found on the Pringle girl's dress after the asserted attack.

LIFEGUARD APPROVED

An appropriation of $7000 for the erection of a lifeguard and public comfort station on the Venice beach at the foot of Thirty-fifth street was approved yesterday by the Playground and Recreation Commission, which recently made provision for lifeguard service on that section of the beach.

BIFFLE WILL FIGHT CASE ON PERJURY

Pantages Trial Witness Asserts That He Told Truth for Defense

Announcing his intention to fight the perjury charge placed against him by the county grand jury accusing him of giving false testimony in favor of Alexander Pantages in his trial on criminal attack charges, Garland Biffle, lawbook salesman, appeared before Superior Judge Aggeler yesterday and was arraigned.

Judge Aggeler fixed the 28th inst. as the date for Biffle to appear and enter his plea. He was then released under $7000 bond.

The defendant, following his arraignment, said that his testimony, which stated that he had overheard Miss Eunice Pringle say that Pantages would "be sorry" if he failed to book her act, is true and therefore he can not and will not retract it.

At the same time Dist.-Atty. Fitts declared that he has proof that the testimony is false and is prepared to prosecute Biffle vigorously when his trial is held.

DETECTIVE VISITS RAY CITY FOR FITTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17. The nature of the evidence being sought was not divulged. San Francisco police say they are ready to cooperate if requested.

FITTS SUBPOENAS STOCKTON ATTORNEY

STOCKTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—L. A. Mills, local attorney, was subpoenaed today by Dist.-Atty. Fitts of Los Angeles as a witness in the Pantages case.

Mills, according to Fitts, will be used as a rebuttal witness in contradiction of testimony presented by Garland Biffle, San Francisco lawbook salesman, who testified for the defense in the Pantages case.

Biffle is said to have made statements to Mills after being subpoenaed by the defense in the assault case.

Wilmington Man Blamed for Ball Player's Death

Motorist Struck by Trolley Critically Hurt

Struck early yesterday by a motion-picture actress's automobile, Charles Marcowitz, 56 years of age, a tailor, who lived at 1722 Lexington avenue, died later in Hollywood Hospital. He was struck at Seward Place and Hollywood boulevard by a car driven by Miss Mary Jane Halsey, 18, a screen actress of 416 North Maple Drive, Beverly Hills, police reported.

Hollywood detectives who investigated said that Marcowitz stepped in front of Miss Halsey's automobile. The actress will be present at the inquest ordered for 1:30 p.m. today.

TRANSIENT BLAMED

Allen Hendricks, a Wilmington transient, was held responsible for the death of William Albert, Hollywood Stars outfielder, in an auto collision at D and Wilmington streets, Wilmington, the 14th inst., at the inquest conducted by Deputy Coroner Kane at Woods's Mortuary yesterday.

The jury held that Hendricks, driver of the car struck by Albert's car, was driving in a careless and reckless manner on the wrong side of the street.

The body was sent yesterday to Albert's home at Millinock, Md. Hendricks, who fled the scene, has been apprehended. Albert's widow, Miss Lillian Parrier, who was injured in the crash, will be transferred from Seaside Hospital, Long Beach, to a Los Angeles hospital today.

TROLLEY HITS AUTO

Crushed against the steering wheel of his automobile when it was struck by a Seattle Electric Railway street car, C. D. Sharp, 60 years of age, of 101 Birmingham Road, Burbank, received injuries possibly fatally yesterday afternoon. He was taken by police to Bixby and Cass Emergency Hospital in Hollywood where surgeons stated he suffered a skull fracture.

The collision occurred at Hollywood Way and Cahuenga Boulevard, according to the police report. Sharp is said to have driven on to the tracks while the wig-wag signal was in operation, police stated.

WOMAN DRIVER ARRESTED

Mrs. Jean Campbell, a beauty parlor operator, of 183 1-2 North La Brea avenue, was taken in custody on suspicion of two charges last night following an assertedly reckless automobile ride that sent Marvin Adelman, 9-year-old newsboy, of 1208 North Cloverdale street, to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital with a fractured skull which surgeons reported may cause his death. She was booked on suspicion of driving while drunk and suspicion of failing to stop and render aid.

GIVEN SOBRIETY TEST

The accident occurred at Beverly boulevard and La Brea avenue. According to the police report, the boy was given a lift at Third street and La Brea avenue by A. A. Smith, of 224 1-2 South La Brea. At Beverly Boulevard Smith stopped to let the boy get out of the car, and as he did so, it is asserted, Mrs. Campbell drove past, knocking Adelman to the pavement. Smith followed Mrs. Campbell, learned where she lived and notified police. After a sobriety test at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital, Mrs. Campbell was pronounced drunk by Dr. Kirkpatrick.

Police assert that prior to knocking down the Adelman boy, Mrs. Campbell's car struck another machine at Third street and La Brea avenue, belonging to R. Robinson of 1239 Gordon street.

Aviation, it was learned yesterday, will begin shortly to play a revolutionary part in taking placer gold out of the mountain fastnesses in the far-away land of the ancient Incas.

The Bolivia Gold Exploration Company, which recently removed its home offices from New Orleans to Los Angeles, announced that Lloyd B. Bird, one of its directors, and Lieutenant Commander Percy Wood, treasurer, are perfecting plans for the establishment of a complete airplane transportation system to expedite the operation of its five-acre gold-bearing estate on the eastern slope of the Cordillera Real, Bolivia, South America.

A sample of the yellow metal taken from the company's mines, and which is known as oatmeal gold because of its flakiness, now is on exhibition in the Bank of Hollywood, Vine street and Hollywood boulevard.

Liquor Trial for Women Delayed

Trial of Mrs. Hazel Chaffen and her sister-in-law, Jeanette Chaffen, on charges of possession of $10,000 worth of liquor seized in a police raid on their home at 1547 Holly Vista Drive, was continued yesterday by Municipal Judge Bogue until November 7, next. The delay was granted at the request of Deputy City Prosecutor Jack, who said that the prosecution is not ready to proceed with the trial.

The women were arrested when Police Captain W. A. Justin led a squad of twenty officers against a group of bootleggers at the Chaffen home. Following a pistol battle in which Justin was wounded, a truck loaded with expensive liquors was seized. Hazel Odenwall, Abe Mitchell and Robert Jones, the asserted bootleggers, now are awaiting trial in Superior Court on burglary charges.

Principals in Oil Field Wastage Injunction Suit

Attorneys for State and Operators and Judge Hearing Case

to bring all these parties into the suit. The lessors were not made a party to this suit because the lessors are not wasting the gas. The action here is against the operators, against the persons violating the act, and an injunction is asked to restrain them."

The Attorney-General outlined what it will mean to the people of California if natural gas waste can be stopped now, if the gas can be stored, or placed back in the earth for repressure in the production of oil.

THREE COMPANIES APPEAL FROM ORDER

VENTURA, Oct. 17. (Exclusive) Three major oil companies operating in the Avenue field, the Associated, Shell and General Petroleum, late yesterday filed with the State Mining Bureau an appeal from the order of Oil and Gas Supervisor R. D. Bush curtailing production of gas in the Avenue field under the provisions of the new gas conservation law.

The time limit on Bush's order goes into effect at midnight tonight but now that the appeal has been filed, the order has no effect here, at least for some time.

The Board of Oil and Gas Commissioners of this district, composed of the superintendents of five of the major oil companies in this district, received the appeal papers today. Just when they are to meet to decide the merits of the appeal is not known.

The law provides that they are to make their findings on the appeal within about two weeks. If they sustain the appeal, which is based principally on the contention that Supervisor Bush has no jurisdiction to deliver such an order, the State will be forced to find some other means of curtailing gas wastage here.

DEATH TAKES A. K. DETWILER

George K. Detwiler of Toledo, and John Y. Detwiler of New Smyrna, Fla., in the gift of a large site of land on the shores of Lake Erie to Toledo for park purposes. Early last year he made known the gift of $80,000 to augment a fund for the construction of a hospital in Wauseon, O., as a memorial to his wife, Mrs. De Ette Harrison Detwiler, who died in 1925.

Mr. Detwiler was a member of Al Malaikah Temple, A.A.O.N. M.S., Toledo Lodge No. 144, F. & A. M., Fort Meigs Chapter, No. 29, Toledo Commandery, No. 7, Knights Templar, Jonathan Club, Los Angeles Athletic Club and San Gabriel Country Club.

Besides his two brothers Mr. Detwiler leaves five step-children, Clarence H. Detwiler of Indiana, and John, De Ette and Hope Detwiler and Mrs. Ruth D. Anderson of Los Angeles.

SUSPECT ARRESTED ON MORALS CHARGE

Misrepresentations with immoral intent were charged yesterday against John E. O'Hea, 33 years of age, an oil-well driller who roomed at 1330 West Eleventh street, where he was arrested. He was booked at the Georgia-street station on charges of vagrancy and lewdness. Detectives accused him of telephoning to an employment agency for a young woman to act as masseuse, representing himself as proprietor of a beauty parlor.

Policewoman Mary Ross of the Central division called, representing herself as the young woman sent in answer to his request. After his arrest detectives found checks bearing women's names which are to be investigated.

DRUNK TRIAL FOR LAWYER DELAYED

Accused of being a vagrant common drunk and of disturbing the peace, Fred Meyer, attorney, gained a delay in his trial yesterday until the 31st inst., when he requested Municipal Judge Bogue that it be continued until after his trial for robbery by Superior Court. Meyer is accused of collecting an advance fee from a client with the aid of a revolver. He was arrested by Police Officer B. G. Anderson on the seventh floor of the Hall of Justice three weeks ago after causing a disturbance in a corridor. He had been drinking, according to the officer.

Mexican Youths Held as Bandits

Accused of being the three youthful Mexicans who have robbed numerous persons in east Los Angeles during the last two months after threatening them with knives, Fernand Gurrola, Augustine Bursiago and Rafael Garcia were taken into custody by Deputy Sheriffs Lynsky and Pearson yesterday.

The officers assert the trio kidnaped James E. Thompson of 127 East Buckthorn street, Inglewood, while he was walking through Hollenbeck Park a week ago, and took him to a secluded spot in Belvedere and robbed him after threatening to stab him.

GIRL FLYER SEARCH FAILS

Peggy Paxson and Friend Not Found in Arizona; Former's Arrest as Runaway Ordered

The mysterious disappearance last week of Peggy Paxson, 17-year-old aviatrix of 1723 Longwood avenue, and Lucille Wallingford, 25, of Redondo Beach, reclaimed police attention yesterday when Miss Paxson's mother notified authorities the girls had not been located in Arizona, as had been expected.

At Mrs. Paxson's request, the Crime Prevention Bureau dispatched instructions to immigration officials at Calexico and to police of Kansas City to arrest Miss Paxson as a runaway.

Police early this week docketed the case as closed when they received a letter from Miss Paxson's father announcing he had learned at Yuma that his daughter and her companion had been there but had gone to Tucson, where he expected to find them. Another letter from him yesterday, however, declared his search of Tucson had proved futile.

Mrs. Paxson added that Calexico authorities told him two young women, believed to be Miss Paxson and Miss Wallingford, had appeared there recently and inquired the way to Mexico City. Police wired Kansas City in the belief the missing pair may be headed there to participate in an aerial meet.

Miss Paxson and Miss Wallingford were seen last driving away from the Patton Airport, Whittier, in a coupe.

Woman Accuses Two Officers of Rude Behavior

A complaint by Mrs. Marie E. Toretsky of Van Nuys, charging that two officers spoke to her rudely and tagged her for violating a boulevard stop signal at 4:25 a.m. on the 10th inst. in Hollywood, filed with the city attorney's office, has been passed to the Police Commission for consideration.

She charges that the officers flashed a light in her face and asked "what the h—— are you doing out at such an hour," she asserts. She slowed down for the stop signal, but at that hour it is not necessary to come to a full stop at a boulevard. She sets forth that accompanied by a woman companion she was on her way home from Compton where she was working late on copy for a publication.

Wife Won't be Spanked With Belt Any More

Jesse L. Moye had old-fashioned ideas relative to the marriage relationship, for whenever his wife disagreed with him he took off his belt and strapped her. Mrs. Della Moye complained to Superior Judge Yankwich yesterday when asking for a divorce on the grounds of cruelty.

"I stood it for a good many years, but finally got tired of it and want a divorce," the wife declared.

According to the complaint, the couple married in 1916 and separated this year. A decree was granted.

She has been consulted as an authority in welfare work in many European and Asiatic countries.

Antics of Love Told by Wife Gain Divorce

Kenneth Love took delight in frightening his wife, on one occasion putting on a false face and giving her a scare while she was ill in bed, Mrs. Hilda White Love testified yesterday before Superior Judge Hazlett when asking for a divorce.

"He did those things just to annoy me," Mrs. Love said.

"And," the wife continued, "he refused to pay my doctor bill, amounting to $50, saying that I wasn't worth $50 to him."

Mrs. Love also asserted he knocked her off a chair while she was giving their baby a bath.

The wife was granted a decree and the custody of three minor children.

Today's Bible Text

"The simple inherit folly; but the prudent are crowned with knowledge." Proverbs xiv:18.

JUST DROWSY

Philadelphia may be a sleepy town, but it manages to wake up along about the seventh or ninth inning.

THE AUTO RADIO

If they are going to put a radio in every motor car the highways are going to be so cluttered up with jazzy pronouncements that the corner cop can't claim a hearing.

THE WORM TURNS

An Ohio umpire hit back when assaulted and the baiter was instantly killed by the blow. Thus proving that it isn't always safe to jump on the referee. There may be a reckoning.

ROOM FOR MUSIC

The music room in a high-up New York apartment is sixty feet long, thirty feet wide and twenty feet high. That would hold quite a bunch of notes. Anyhow, it would take a couple of piccolos to fill the place.

THE UNDER DOG

A dog who died the other day was described as a canine of the movies and was said to have doubled for Rin Tin Tin. It would be news to most people that even dog stars have their understudies. They must be temperamental.

MORE POWER TO YOU

No trouble at all to dispose of all the power that will be made available with the creation of the Colorado River dam. There is even a bozo with a wheelbarrow in Imperial county who would be tickled pink to get a snack of it.

LIFE'S NECESSITIES

A general advance in the prices of automobile tires is anticipated. And this just as a hard winter is dawning. If it were only something like bread or meat it would be all right. But to boost the cost of tires is hitting people where they live.

MONEY IN FOOTBALL

Our Coliseum will park about 80,000 souls, yet it is announced that every ticket printed for the Bear and Trojan football game on November 2 has been sold and delivered. The pasteboards are not cheap at that. This may be a sport of amateurs, but the gate would make any bunch of professionals green with envy.

THE BEST FRIEND

The presence of Pharmacy Week is a gentle reminder of the debt we owe to the corner druggist for supplying us with anchors, bird cages, hot dogs, oversized tires, police whistles, landing nets, monkey wrenches, bird seed, umbrellas and other vital items of the pharmacopia. There is no doubt whatever that the druggist aims to please.

HERE COMES THE PRINCE

The Prince of Wales is said to have sold his string of horses. He will not ride to hounds or leap hurdles this season. He has been doing quite a bit of flying of late and has qualified as a pilot, but he probably realizes that being hurled from a plane is vastly different from being hurled from the hurricane deck of a horse. He has increased his hazards, but lessened his pleasures. Since the illness of King George the Prince has materially changed his activities and absorbed many of the duties of the crown. He can fit himself anywhere.

DANGER SIGNALS

Putting wild drivers in the stocks might provide an effective punishment for a dangerous class. Some of the penalties offered in the middle ages were harsh but were nevertheless practical and efficient. New traffic regulations in the capital of Rumania suggest the avengements of ancient days. If a chauffeur has been reckless and caused an accident in which humans are hurt he is taken from his car; his arms are trussed up behind his back, while a board sign hung about his neck tells the world that he is a dangerous driver. Thus accoutered he is prodded about the streets of the city that all may behold his shame. We would have a lot of funny looking parades in Broadway did this practice prevail here.

NAVAL MEET ASSURED

Acceptances of the United States, France, Italy and Japan of Great Britain's invitation to the naval conference at London in January are, so far as news dispatches indicate, unreserved. This sets at rest fears expressed in some quarters that neither Italy nor France could be brought into the conference or that they would hedge their acceptances about with declinations to discuss the submarine question. Apparently they are willing that all phases of the naval situation shall be gone into.

This is a gratifying change of attitude since the Geneva conference, in which France and Italy were not represented. It is difficult to estimate the strength of the various factors of this shift of front, but the two principal ones in all likelihood are the Kellogg-Briand pact and the reparations settlement, both of which undoubtedly have contributed to the probability of continued peace.

With a more settled condition politically, nations have been able to look at their naval establishments with a more critical eye, and have seen the advantages of reduction, which, they have begun to realize, is quite practicable and safe when it is generally participated in. The Washington conference of 1921 was a trail-blazer in this respect: that agreement and its faithful carrying out proved that navies could be limited by something other than the ability of taxpayers to stand the strain.

But the Kellogg pact marks the real turning point. At first there was a general disposition to regard this as a gesture or the expression of a pious wish. But there is evidence now that the pact is being accepted at its face value, that the principal signatories really meant it, and that those who may have signed with mental reservations are coming to understand that violation would forfeit a vast deal of international good will even if no other penalty might ensue.

What was impossible or at least too difficult at Geneva a few years ago, therefore, has come to seem reasonable, practicable and almost easy.

It can now be seen that the agreement between Great Britain and the United States has actually paved the way for agreement in the forthcoming conference. Various nations were suspicious of these negotiations, fearing either that the two nations were about to band together to impose their will on the world, or at least that they would seek to impose a cut-and-dried naval program. But the joint statement of President Hoover and Premier MacDonald, spoken with evident sincerity, seems to have allayed these suspicions. It was pointed out in that statement that the United States could not and would not take part in European politics, and that Great Britain had no intention of holding aloof from the affairs of the continent with which she is so closely connected.

That President Hoover seems about to succeed where President Coolidge was unable to do so is no discredit to the latter. The passage of time and the occurrence of the significant events that that time brought have changed the situation. Further, the very endeavor initiated by Mr. Coolidge, though it did not succeed at the time, was a progressive step toward ultimate success.

Naval agreement has not yet been brought about, but the prospects for it seem brighter than at any time in the world's history.

"A SQUARE DEAL FOR DAVIS"

There is reason for community gratification in the formal assurance of Mayor Porter that he intends to see that Chief of Police Davis receives a square deal in connection with secret charges made against the Chief by J. A. Quinn, local politician.

The statement of the Mayor has the ring of sincerity and neither the disinterested friends nor the honest opponents of Davis can find fault with the Mayor's plans if they are carried out as he has indicated them.

Although the character of the attack on Davis has a suspicious aspect and is made in a manner not ordinarily adopted by persons having no ulterior motives, the most energetic advocate of the administration of Chief Davis would not insist upon his retention if it should be proven that he has not properly administered the duties of his office.

The fact that no evidence of this character ever has been developed and that a formidable array of facts to the contrary is available to show that the present Chief of Police is able, honest and courageous should have much weight.

Mayor Porter declares that Chief Davis is carrying out the Mayor's policies "100 per cent" and that he has not, for himself, any complaint to make of the Chief. He indicates that he will put a stop, so far as he is able, to the harassing fight on Davis if the charges now being lodged against the police department head are found to be groundless.

No citizen of Los Angeles, placed in the office of Mayor, can render a greater community service than to establish harmony, co-operation and good faith in the city's police organization, and this includes the Police Commission as much as the office of Chief and the police personnel. Mr. Porter has before him a great opportunity and all good citizens will support him in any well-grounded effort constructively to turn that opportunity to good account.

THE FARM BOARD CONFIRMED

After all the fuss and bombast the Senate Agricultural Committee has been indulging in about the personnel of the Federal Farm Board, the prompt confirmation in toto of the appointments as made by President Hoover must have surprised and disappointed some of the radical and some of the politicians who were anxious to embarrass the President in every possible way.

The examination before the Senate committee merely served to demonstrate the complete competence of all the appointees.

The board may now feel free to go ahead. By delaying action, the Senators introduced an element of doubt into the functioning of the board. This has now been removed and the long and difficult task of bringing agriculture up to the level of other industry may proceed with only such drawbacks as the problems themselves present.

Doubtless there will be political skirmishing and Senatorial efforts to hamstring the board's work, but the decisive vote by which the President's selections were upheld indicates that it will have sufficient backing so that this guerrilla warfare will be of no effect.

The board has already satisfied the nation that it knows what it is about, and that it can be neither stampeded nor bamboozled. It will not be too conservative about the placing of its funds, where a real need is shown and a reasonable prospect of a beneficial result exists; but it will not waste money in trying to fill rat holes and it will not attempt the impossible.

There is no millennium for agriculture in sight. But there will be patient, conscientious, informed effort to improve its condition, and this, in the course of years, is bound to produce an effect.

MONEY TO BURN

It is pleasant to note that Uncle Sam has money to burn. At any rate he is cremating about eight tons a day as a result of the issuance of the new paper currency. The displaced bills must be disposed of somehow. So he burns most of 'em up.

THE FLAW IN THE DIAMOND

By James J. Montague

When I go out with rod and line
To some fair sylvan nook
I love to watch the sunlight shine
Upon the twinkling brook,
I love to see in glade and glen
The birds dart in and out—
Moreover, every now and then
I'd like to catch a trout.

The trees afford a pleasant shade
The while I stroll along,
Their branches, by the breezes swayed,
Sing quite a pleasant song.
My weary mind is often eased
By quiet summer skies,
But I would still be better pleased
If I could get a rise.

I know that there is peace and rest
In nature's kindly arms,
Where worldly ills cannot molest
And ever prospect charms.
But one thing always mars my bliss,
And sours my delight,
The thing that troubles me is this:
The gosh-darned fish won't bite.

It's fine to bask upon the shore
In noontide's golden glow
And hear the creaming riffles roar
Upon the rocks below.
While passing by on whirring wing
There flies a hurrying duck;
I'd like to fish like anything
If I had any luck.

By Lee Shippey

IN LOS ANGELES, every day is decoration day. You can't stroll about the main part of the downtown district any time without running into bannered streets and buildings which wave welcome to some one or other with hundreds of flags and streamers. Yesterday we walked a dozen blocks, on the way to work, under gay and rippling bunting. We didn't know what it was all about, so we asked Ted Gale, the cartoonist, who tries to keep right up to date on what's going on, so as to have timely cartoons about it. But he didn't know, either. Yet undoubtedly those flags meant a lot to many Angelenos, perhaps to 100,000 or more of us, or they wouldn't have been there. To the rest of us they merely show that this is getting to be the champion city of the country for conventions and gatherings. There are more of them than any but the folks directly interested can keep track of. A convention may bring thousands of people here, but if it weren't for the street banners most of us wouldn't even know they were here.

Girlish Confidences

Dear Leeside: My new sweetie is a dental student and will be graduated in 1931. He already has begun saving up magazines for his office.

If I could find a movie aheik who didn't thrust his hands into his trousers pockets and preface his remarks with "Say," I'd be his without a struggle.

Some secretaries are hired to correct the boss's grammar, but some must have other talents. Just heard a woman's voice across the hall: "Yeah, I'm your secretary, all right, but I ain't no mind reader."—Mary Hemminger.

Super

The word most overworked in this town, it seems to us, is "super."

We have super shows, cars, radio stations, vacuum cleaners, sundaes and salesmen.

Remember the grand old days when we high-school kids got our first theatrical thrill from carrying a spear? Then we were officially known as supernumeraries, or supers. But you remember what the gallery gods used to call us.

Followed by Liquid Strains

Wouldn't you get a real kick if the dignified and mellifluous voice of the radio announcer should come to you thus: "This is the radio supe station of Pearl B. Anthemy, beauty specialist"?

Americans' Unbounded Faith

LS: Will Rogers seems a trifle skeptical of all English proposals that we reduce our Navy. One little handicap to world peace is the unbounded faith Americans have in their diplomats. They have absolute faith that when our diplomats make deals with the diplomats of other countries ours will get bunked.—R. L.

Exit Another Still

Lee: Times headline says, "Detroit's Silent Mayor Beaten." This ought to prove to local doubting Tommies that Detroit really is making war on stills.—H. H.

Night Thoughts

Though kitty, when abroad at night,
Sings only most heart-rending blues,
Poetic Thomas kitties fight
In their desire to woo the muses.

What Our Readers Prefer

Recently the library invited patrons of the fiction room to submit lists of the ten books they would choose if they were going to the Antarctic to spend a winter with Commander Byrd. The 400 votes cast showed a wide variety of tastes, ranging from Mark Twain and Stevenson to Vina Delmar's "Bad Girl." But the ten titles which received the most votes were: Galsworthy's "Forsyte Saga," Hugo's "Les Miserables," Hudson's "Green Mansions," Tolstoi's "Anna Karenina," Dickens's "Tale of Two Cities," Dickens's "David Copperfield," Undset's "Kristan Lavransdatter," Blackmore's "Lorna Doone," Dumas's "Three Musketeers" and Thackeray's "Vanity Fair," Dickens being the only one to score twice.

The Road to Peace

The day Premier MacDonald arrived in New York he spoke over the radio at 8 a.m., Los Angeles time. By 9 a.m. several requests had reached the Los Angeles Public Library for a book he mentioned, "Christopher Hibbault, Roadmaker." MacDonald mentioned the book to point the purpose of his visit, "building the road to peace."

We wonder if the reading public of any other city reacted as quickly. We doubt it, for we never saw such eager readers as we have around here, perhaps because there is such a large percentage of people here who have the leisure to read. Why, even when the Leeside mentions a book, we have been told by library employees, there are always requests for it.

WHAT OTHERS THINK ABOUT IT

SENSIBLE ENOUGH

(Banzor Commercial)

A basis of common sense appears to bolster the effort of the national organization of retail jewelers to bring about a reduction of the tariff duty on cut diamonds from 20 to 10 per cent ad valorem. The jewelers point out that, as diamonds are not produced in this country, there are no American producers to be injured by a tariff reduction, and also that the present tariff is but an incentive to violation of the law by the smuggling of diamonds, with the inference that the activities of the smugglers would be greatly curbed by a reduction in the tariff rate.

The president of the association declares that diamonds to a value of from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 come into the United States annually without the payment of duty. The gems are so small and easily handled that the customs officials are presented with great difficulties in the enforcement of the law.

The contentions of the retail jewelers appear to be thoroughly sound and the granting of their plea would seem a sensible action and one that would not entail any loss of public revenue.

"INVESTIGATING" CUBA

(Washington Post)

A Senate investigation of Cuba would doubtless disclose many faults on the part of the Machado government. A Cuban investigation of the United States would probably uncover just as many faults. A Cuban's Senatorial committee investigating the United States Senate would discover that a State had been denied two Senators, in violation of the Constitution. But what of it? The intrusion of a foreign smelling committee would be resented, and its findings would have no effect in mending the wicked ways of the Senate.

If there has been a breakdown of government in Cuba, so that the people and foreigners are deprived of their rights, the President of the United States is in a position to know it, and it is his duty to take cognizance of it. He can gather accurate information much more expeditiously than a Senate committee can gather it, and he has the advantage of possessing authority to act which the committee and the Senate would not have.

A RUNAWAY PLANE

(New York Evening Post)

A small passenger plane in Montana got away from the pilot, who was making a one-man job of starting it, flew five miles around the country and landed itself at last without serious damage. A driverless automobile could do no better and might do considerably worse. The incident is impressive evidence of the degree of stability which is built into modern aircraft. A well-designed plane of today rides the air like a ship at sea, with due regard to up and down and a natural preference for the even keel.

This stability of the modern plane, together with all the possibilities of instruments which were revealed in the recent blindfold test by Lieut. Doolittle, shows that the conception of aircraft controlled entirely from the ground is by no means preposterous.

If a plane can make a five-mile trip today without a pilot and be little the worse for it, these other developments become probabilities rather than mere possibilities.

THE RULE DOESN'T HOLD

The rapidly changing fad of fashion has reached the golf courses and men are appearing in old-fashioned pajamas and the women in lacy negligee. But it is all right because the first rule of good golfing is to keep the eye on the ball.

Cause and Effect

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 15.—[To the Editor of The Times:] What a splendid thing it would be for struggling and discouraged humanity if we would realize, according to the suggestion of Mr. DeHaan, the ancient law of cause and effect operative in ethical world, never permitting us to escape the consequences of our acts either good or evil.

It takes life after life to fulfill this law, but we have it all coming to us.

Webster may be all right in his definition of heredity as far as he goes, but there is a soul side to the question which he does not touch upon. Our parents supply our bodies subject to physical inheritance, but they cannot rule our destiny. We attend to that ourselves.

Bank Holidays

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Does it not seem rather strange that so many of our holidays such as Lincoln's Birthday, Admission Day, Columbus Day, etc., appear to be observed only by the banks while all other business proceeds oblivious of such holidays. Are these holidays designated for banks only? In itself such restricted observance would not be so noticeable were it not for the effect the closing of banks has on other lines of business. It can be readily understood that banks observe legal holidays on account of negotiable instruments but why must all business be deprived of its ability to deposit and draw funds so necessary to its affairs? It seems depositors should demand such service, if not at all banks, at least at certain branches.

The direct result of the closing of banks throws an additional burden and risk on stores, hotels, etc., who must do a sort of banking business, carry extra funds, cashing checks, besides holding over the funds of several days' business for which they may not all have special facilities.

What is really needed are fewer holidays but a better and wider observance.

Pictures for the Deaf

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have been reading some articles in The Times and other papers about talking pictures. I notice there are objections to them from a number of angles. What I am going to say is from a different angle (If there has been any views from this angle I haven't noticed them) viz.: that of a man who is partially deaf. In years gone past when my hearing was good I was a frequent visitor to the theaters, to listen to and enjoy the spoken word, songs and music, also motion pictures. As my hearing became more defective I found that I had to confine myself to the pictures and for a number of years that was the principal source of my entertainment. Then came the "talkies," which have left me high and dry and taken away my enjoyment of the pictures. In the silent pictures they used to flash a synopsis and a person with any imagination could follow the story. If the producers or directors, or whoever is responsible for it, would continue to give a synopsis or just a hint occasionally, of what it is all about it would help a lot, especially us deaf people. Besides, I have heard a number of people whose hearing is good, kicking because they could not get enough of the dialogue to follow the story. There might not be enough deaf people to fill a theater, but there are quite a number that are partially so and who prefer the silent to the talkies just because they can't follow the story.

NIGHT WATCH

The hours of the night were dark and still.
Dim sleep had fled and left me over-keen,
Attuned to feel a supernatural thrill.

As ever at a time like this, between Midnight and dawn, I listened for a sound:
My brother's voice, whose grave had long been green.

We had agreed and so were strictly bound
By promise, he who first should reach the Place
Beyond would tell the other what he found.

While in such waking sleep, against my face
I felt a brush of wings like gentle breath,
And then a whisper faint as shadow trace:

"The only key to Life is held by Death."

Police Away; Maids in Terror

While one of the three policemen of the Isle of Arran, off the Irish coast, was on vacation, and the other two were at Rothesay attending police court, a gang of ruffians in a motor car terrorized the women. Windows of houses were opened at night, doors were broken in, letter boxes set on fire and row boats dragged to the sea and left to the mercy of the tide. Housemaids at Lamlash were frightened by a man with a torch who threatened to climb into windows.

A hundred years have passed since Luis Braille invented the system of six dots which enabled the blind to read and opened a new world to the sightless.

THE COMMENTER

BY LANNIE HAYNES MARTIN

If ants get into your house and you forget to buy the ant paste when you go to town, you may be annoyed to the point of desperation with these tiny tormentors. So it is with the one who comes into your house and offends you with a thousand innuendoes, suggestions, criticisms and exclamations of surprise at the way in which you do everything. He is worse than a swarm of ants, because there is no legal pest poison for him.

This sort of pest, like the ant, is usually female, and she begins at breakfast. "I never use an egg in my coffee," she says as you proudly pour your eggmads, clear-as-burgundy beverage. "And I always drain my bacon on brown paper," she remarks as you slide a slightly dripping slice on her plate. "Why! you don't use any soap in your dish water!" she exclaims and "How can you keep house with so few cooking vessels?" she queries.

"You sound so funny when you talk over the telephone!" she declares. And when you've fed a tramp at the back door she says, "I don't believe in encouraging idleness." It seems so strange to her that you don't play cards, and she would have thought that a person as studious as you would have more books in your house.

After counting the camphor, cathartics and other simple remedies in the medicine closet she will insist on one having a number of disease and even convince one by the symptoms she suggests.

And every little unconscious mannerism which one has is duly catalogued. "Why do you when you talk?" "Why do you put your hand to your face use the word 'fine' so frequent- when you talk?" "Why do you or satisfactory?" "Why do you wear your hair so plain?" And the thousand and one little household matters that you attend to unconsciously and do not even know that you do, much less how or why you do them so, she will inquire into as minutely as a Diogenes searching for truth.

OLD SONGS

BY WYNONAH B. JOHNSON

There were twenty-one youngsters in the bus and they were en route to the ranch for a location scene. As they rode they raised their fresh young voices in song, and the chorals rang out gaily. "I Faw Down" and "Button Up Your Overcoat" had their turn. "Broadway Melody" and "Sonny Boy" were request numbers. A nonsense song or two, a sentimental chorus—the popular favorites not quite so recent but that they all knew all the words—they enlivened the trip.

One little group—they were three sisters—suggested "Pollywolly Doodle." Nobody else knew it. What, not that? Then how about "Three Blind Mice"? No, they don't sing rounds any more in apartment-houses—there was a blank interval. "Wait for the Wagon"? How does it go? Well, "Long, Long Ago"—"Solomon Levi"—"Working on the Railroad." Nobody else knew it. They had never heard of "Beetin' Nellie Home" and "Music in the Air" was a stranger. Conceive of future citizens unacquainted with "When You Were Sweet Sixteen" and "Good Old Summer Time," with "All God's Chillen" and "Grandfather's Clock." Of course if they join a glee club in high school and if they go to college they'll learn some, but it is the inalienable right of every chick from 4 years up to know all the old songs. An old heart-song book should be on every piano. One should tune in on the old song programs on the radio. And one should sing them to—and with—the children!

WHERE CAN I LEARN

Art Crafts?

BY LOUISE L. TEMPLE

[Prepared in co-operation with the Los Angeles evening high schools. Questions concerning free evening classes will be answered if stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Louise L. Temple, care of The Times.]

For the lover o' a pretty home, who is forced to count costs, the art crafts class at Garfield Evening High School is a boon. Handsome effects are achieved from the cheapest materials, and the energetic young teacher is brimful of new and fascinating ideas for Christmas gifts.

In one corner is clay modeling, both hand building and wheel work. One table is surrounded by students making felt articles — flowers, match boxes, purses, pillows and variations in cut work. Then there are pleated and parchment lampshades, crewel purses and tooled leather book covers. One group is making wooden salad sets and bread trays and painted trays.

One of the newest art effects is produced by carving linoleum, thus producing the effect of antique wood carvings for plaques and picture frames.

Textile decorations include batik scarfs of silk and cotton, tying and dyeing, stenciling and block printing.

There is no charge for instruction in this class, though each student furnishes her own materials. The school is on Sixth and Pribson streets, Belvedere Gardens, and the class meets Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9.

Waste paper? There's no such thing. Last year the members of the American Legion Post 206 here in our city raised $4000 toward their new home out of the collection and sale of waste paper, which proved to be anything but.

WASHBURN GETS TERM IN PRISON

Judge Passes Sentence of One to Fourteen Years

Appeal Filed for ex-Officer in Bribe-Taking Case

New Trial and Arresting of Judgment Refused

Thomas B. Washburn, former police sergeant convicted of accepting bribes, yesterday was sentenced by Superior Judge Wilson to serve from one to fourteen years in San Quentin prison. Sentence was imposed after the court denied defense motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment. Deputy District Attorney Joseph L. Palmer opposed both motions.

Washburn was indicted by the county grand jury on the charge that he had received a $600 bribe on October, 1928, from Harry D. McDonald, asserted bootlegger. McDonald testified that he had paid the money to Washburn following a raid on an asserted bootlegging establishment operated by McDonald on Woodlawn avenue.

Washburn, who testified in his own defense, denied even knowing McDonald, and sought to prove that he was engaged in a raid in another part of the city on the night the asserted bribery taking.

Judge Wilson granted a stay of proceedings allowing Washburn to remain in the County Jail until his appeal is finally disposed of. Washburn was the first to be tried of eight police officers indicted by the county grand jury on charges of asserted

KEEPING IT GOOD

"Your credit's good," the merchants say, "for anything you wish to buy; so blow yourself and do not pay until next April or July." It makes me swell with honest pride to hear the merchants talk like this; such compliments are three feet wide, they fill my throbbing soul with bliss. It is refreshing to reflect that I can journey through the town and buy whatever I select, and have the merchant chalk it down. If I desire a handsome suit, that I may like a duke appear, the clothing man I meet will salute, and he will wait for half a year. If I would have a powerful press to print a book or bale some hay, the dealer will cheerfully confess they'll keep on waiting for the pay, by reputation I have built by paying all my bills on time; it is a thing of gold and gilt, a noble structure, most sublime. It has taken years to build the same, long years of sacrifice and sweat; and merchants know I hold it shame to idly run myself in debt. I'd keep that credit structure bright, I'd have no shadow on it fall, and I would view with stark affright a spot or blemish on its wall. Perchance some day ill luck may come, I may fall ill of fish or flu, I may not have on hand a sum sufficient for the sum that's due. Some day the fob to which I hold may fizzle out and leave me broke, and there'll be no supply of gold to puff cheap stogies fit to smoke. Then I may need a helping hand, may need a stand-off at the store, then I may go there and demand the credit I refused before. The merchants, knowing how I feel on vital matters of that sort, will pell me sacks of fresh corn meal and black molasses by the quart. But while I'm feeling fit and spry, and sound in wind and limb and dome, I'll pay for everything I buy before I take the blamed stuff home.

POLICE BRIBERY VERDICT FAILS

Jurors Sent to Bed When They Cannot Agree

Debate in Case of Officers Resumed Today

Deputy District Attorney Taken Ill in Court

The jury of seven men and five women deliberating the fate of Oscar L. Peterson, Harry M. Hill and Leonard F. Sale, policemen indicted for asserted bribery, was unable to reach a verdict last night and was sent to bed at 10 p.m.

DEP. DIST. ATTY. DENNISON

The case went to the jury at 4 p.m. yesterday and consideration of testimony and evidence will be resumed at 9 a.m. today.

Superior Judge Wood instructed the jury following the concluding plea delivered by Dep. Dist.-Atty. McKay in behalf of the prosecution. McKay spoke in the absence of Dep. Dist.-Atty. Dennison, who was suddenly stricken with illness earlier in the day and removed to his home at 256 Thorne street.

NOT AS POLICEMEN

Pleading with the jury that "this is not a case where the police department or the police system is on trial," McKay asked the jurors to consider the three defendants as individual citizens who had been brought to trial on a felony charge, and not as representatives of the police department.

"Dist.-Atty. Fitts and I have an intimate knowledge of the police department and police system of this city by virtue of our service for the past two years on the Crime Commission," McKay continued.

"As far as the police department of Los Angeles is concerned, and considering its record for efficiency, I believe it stands head and shoulders above the police system of any other city of like size in the United States.

"Don't for one moment be misled by any impression that the District Attorney is engaged in any secret or open war with the police department—we come here with a mandate from the grand jury and ask that you pass on the issues involved, not as though they were charges against the police department, but as charges against three individuals."

PLEA OF DEFENSE

McKay followed Defense Attorneys M. C. Davis and Stanley Visel, who pleaded for an acquittal on the ground that the State had failed to establish a case and that the evidence showed the defendants to be the victims of a "revenge plot" on the part of Harry D. McDonald, confessed bootlegger.

Peterson, Hill and Sale are charged with having accepted a bribe of $600 from McDonald following a raid on the latter's "aging plant" last January. McDonald testified he had paid the money to be permitted to continue his business.

The officers are three of eight indicted by the county grand jury in connection with that body's investigation of asserted graft.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Dennison, veteran prosecutor, who was to have delivered the State's final argument, virtually collapsed in the courtroom at noon. Although he was visibly ill, he stayed in court until attaches and associates from the District Attorney's office insisted he be taken home. At his home it is reported he is suffering from heart trouble accompanied by a fever.

Peterson, Hill and Sale, if convicted, will face penitentiary terms of from one to fourteen years.

TWO MORE POLICEMEN GO ON TRIAL TODAY

Miles H. Ledbetter and Walter E. (Bob) Evans, Los Angeles policemen accused of accepting a $750 bribe from Harry D. McDonald to refrain from arresting him on a charge of receiving stolen property, are scheduled to go to trial in Superior Judge Doran's court today.

The two policemen are among the first six members of the police department indicted by the county grand jury on testimony and evidence placed in the hands of the District Attorney by McDonald, confessed bootlegger, who asserts he operated in Los Angeles as an illicit liquor dealer for five years with police protection.

SON OF PAIR IN DIVORCE ROW FINED

Youth Upbraids Attorney in Court and Has Narrow Escape from Jail Term

Myron Schwartz, 17 years of age, narrowly missed going to jail yesterday for contempt of court following the divorce hearing of his mother and father, Gertrude Schwartz and Nathan Schwartz, wealthy jeweler, held before Superior Judge Dehy. He was saved from being locked up but was forced to pay a fine of $25.

Mrs. Schwartz, represented by Attorney Roger Marchetti, brought suit against her husband asserting cruelty. She also asked Judge Dehy to allow her $2500 on the ground the money was the property of her mother and not community property.

The husband, through his counsel, Attorney Henry Naves, denied he had been cruel to his wife and further set up the novel plea that he was mentally ill during his married life.

At the end of the hearing Judge Dehy decided that Mrs. Schwartz was not entitled to a divorce. He held, however, that the $2500 was not community property.

Following the proceedings young Schwartz stepped up to Attorney Naves and berated him for his treatment of his mother during the lawyer's examination of her on the witness stand. The attorney drew back his arm which was seized by Attorney Marchetti, preventing a fist fight in court.

At this point the judge interfered and on learning what young Schwartz had said, sentenced him to five days in jail. Attorney Marchetti pleaded for the boy and the jail sentence was changed to the fine.

Two Women Succeed in Ending Lives

Two women ended their lives yesterday, one because she was without funds and the other as the result of chronic melancholia, according to police.

The first was Mrs. Mary Bernstein, 45 years of age, of 3415 East First street. The second was Mrs. Elizabeth Houde, 20, of 311½ South Workman avenue. Both women took poison.

Mrs. Houde's husband, William H. Houde, employee at the General Hospital, found his wife lying dead in their home beside their 7-month-old baby, police said. He declared she had been subject to frequent fits of melancholia, and that her uncle ended his life in Sandy, Utah, several years ago.

Mrs. Bernstein, who had given her name as Mrs. Barr at the Pasadena-avenue Hospital, according to police, leaves a daughter, Rose, 17, and a son, Victor, 18. She and her husband, police reported, were living apart.

Woman Ends Her Life With Bullet in Brain

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—Firing a shot through her right temple tonight, Mrs. Gertrude Bowman, 54 years of age, wife of George A. Bowman, killed herself in her apartment at 220 West Seventh street, Long Beach. Illness lasting more than two years was given as the reason for her act. The Bowmans had been married happily for twenty-seven years.

Bowman, a dealer in builders' supplies, had gone from the apartment with his sister-in-law to a store, leaving his wife alone with her mother, Mrs. George Martin, who was in an adjoining room. Mrs. Bowman twice pulled the trigger, the first time failing to discharge the revolver. On her second attempt she sent a bullet into her brain, causing death within an hour.

RATIONALIST LECTURE SERIES ANNOUNCED

Rationalist lectures by M. M. Mangasarian of Chicago, presented under the auspices of the Laymen's League of the First Unitarian Church, are announced to commence Sunday night at 8 p.m. His topic for the first talk is "The Mind of the Old World Today—the Shake-up in Traditional Thinking." Mr. Mangasarian returned recently from a tour of Europe, where he made a close study of world-interest subjects. Subsequent lectures are to follow on the five following Sunday evenings.

Cheese Story Wins in Court

Moses Fishman sold inside slices of cheese at a higher price than the remainder, he declared yesterday in Municipal Judge McCoy's court, where he was found not guilty of violating the State weights and measures law by selling inspectors short-weight cheese.

Fishman previously pleaded guilty to the charge before Municipal Judge Bogue and was sentenced to serve sixty days in jail. After he had served four days, his plea and sentence were set aside by Judge Bogue, and the trial ordered. He told the court yesterday that the amount sold to the inspectors would have been one and one-half ounces short at the lower price, but was correct for the inside slice which he declared he sold them.

Arrest Made in Liquor Sale to Children

Accused of selling liquor to school children, Eulocio Gonzales, 40 years of age, of 673 Imperial street, was arrested yesterday on charge of Wright Act possession.

Police Captain Hager, of the Newton-street division, has received numerous complaints that the man has been selling pints and half-pints to school children. The most recent complaint was that a 12-year-old boy had become drunk on a pint of liquor bought of Gonzales.

Detectives report that they made a liquor purchase and then arrested Gonzales, finding a gallon of contraband in pints and half-pints under his back porch.

NEW POLICE CHARGE TO BE INVESTIGATED

A complaint by Marie Toretsky, editor of the Westlake World, that police officers who halted her at 4:35 a.m. on the 10th inst. for a traffic violation at Vine street and Sunset Boulevard were abusive and had been drinking was referred yesterday by City Prosecutor Nix to the Police Commission for investigation. Miss Toretsky, in a signed statement, declared that the officer who gave her the traffic tag told her to "let this be a lesson to you and keep off the streets so late at night." She explained that she was returning to her home in Van Nuys after working on her paper in Compton at the time.

CONFERENCE INVITED

Council yesterday adopted a resolution presented by Councilman Williams inviting the Public Ownership League of America to hold its 1930 conference in Los Angeles.

Doctor Denies Guilt in Illegal Operation Case

Dr. Francis J. Bold, Whittier physician, accused of the murder of Mrs. Carmelita Wilhite as the result of an asserted illegal operation, appeared before Superior Judge Aggeler yesterday and pleaded not guilty.

The court fixed the date of his trial for the 30th inst. in Department 21 of Superior Court.

According to the complaint, Mrs. Wilhite died on September 12, last, a few days after undergoing the asserted operation in Dr. Bold's Whittier office.

The physician is at liberty under $5000 bail pending his trial.

Of Interest to Women

Society

by JUANA NEAL LEVY

Two weddings of importance and interest to local society as well as the north are scheduled for today, that of Miss Margaret (Peggy) Martin of San Francisco, daughter of James Martin of Arizona, to William Frederick Barnstedt of Berkeley, which will take place at the home of the bride's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Pauly, in South Rossmore avenue at 9 o'clock, with Rev. Ray O. Miller officiating, while in All Saints Church Pasadena Miss Mary Catherine Lord, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Lord of San Marino, will become the bride of Robert Jeffrey Jahns, the ceremony taking place at 8:30 o'clock with Rev. Rankin Barnes officiating assisted by Rev. Leslie E. Leonard.

Alumnae Reunion

A luncheon Tuesday at the Assembly Tea Room served as an informal fall reunion of Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority alumnae, preceding the first regular meeting of the organization, scheduled for the 26th inst., in the new chapter house of the sorority in Westwood, at 894 Hilgard avenue.

Hostesses for the luncheon included Mrs. Walter A. English, Mrs. J. H. H. Ritter, Mrs. Horace Field Berry and Miss Helen Haller.

Sunday morning initiation ceremonies will be conducted in the chapter house for three pledges of last semester, Miss Virginia Clay, Miss Virginia Johnson and Miss Beth Caldwell. Miss Audrey Buratt, president of Kappa Theta chapter, will officiate at the ritual.

Two Musicians Honored

Miss Frances Copeland and Miss Elizabeth Copeland will be guests of honor today at a luncheon given by Mrs. Dana Bartlett in her home at 101 South Virgil avenue for twelve guests.

Winners for three years of the highest Juilliard scholarships, the Misses Copeland have recently returned from two years in New York City, where they have received piano coaching under the direction of Guy Maier and Lee Pattison. Until a few days ago they vacationed at their family ranch in Yucaipa, but now are in their home in Rampart Boulevard, and are the incentive for many welcome home affairs.

Mrs. Bartlett's guests will be Mrs. Lillian Ballagh-Farmer, Mrs. Inga Nelson Brown, Mrs. Mary Nelson, Mrs. William Hamilton Cline, Mrs. John H. Whitely, Mrs. John Grant, Mrs. J. Duncan Gleason, Mrs. John Copeland and Mrs. H. Leo O'Neill of Glendale.

Bridge Luncheon

The new Town House in Wilshire Boulevard, which since its opening has been the setting for much entertaining by society of the Southland, has been chosen by Mrs. N. P. Salling of 1138 Rimpau Boulevard for a bridge luncheon to be given today.

Bidden are Mrs. John Kirby, Mrs. Matson Morrill, Mrs. Mae Schumway Enderly, Mrs. Bessie Zimmerman, Mrs. Ida Manley Moody, Mrs. Lottie Weiss, Mrs. Francis Miller, Miss Lucie Pady and Miss Etta McCrillus.

Wednesday evening Dr. and Mrs. Isaac Hampshur Jones were informal dinner hosts at the Town House.

Beach Affair

Luncheon and cards were enjoyed by guests of Mrs. Lloyd A. French at a delightful affair given recently in the Sea Breeze Beach Club, Santa Monica. Charming imported novelties were presented as favors to Mrs. R. E. Ducharme, Mrs. G. K. Snyder, Mrs. W. R. Rawson, Mrs. Elmer Leibert, Mrs. R. L. Ryan, Mrs. Virgil Briggs, Mrs. Harold Graham, Mrs. R. J. Deaupre, Mrs. J. S. Davis, Mrs. L. A. French and Mrs. Hazel Wilcox.

Felicitations

Congratulations are being received by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bell (Winifred Finch) of North Normandie avenue, upon the arrival Saturday, the 12th inst., of a young son, who has been named John Harvey Bell.

The young parents were both graduated from the University of Southern California, where Mrs. Bell is a member of the Kappa Delta Sorority, and Mr. Bell of the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity.

Luncheon Tomorrow

Los Angeles alumnae of Kappa Kappa Gamma will give a luncheon at 12:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Bel-Air Country Club, all Southern California Kappas being bidden to the affair.

All-University Dance

The Breakfast Club has been selected as the setting for an informal all-university dance tomorrow evening, sponsored by the Trojan Knights, Amazons, and Squires of the University of Southern California, in honor of the Occidental and Trojan football teams, following the afternoon grid contest.

Representatives of the three campus service organizations who are in charge of the dance are Miss Jessica Heber, Mulvey White and Bud Medbery. Students who will assist on committees include Miss Constance Vachon, programs; Miss Virginia Arnold, decorations; Miss Lucille Huebner, refreshments, and Laurence Young, orchestra.

Members of the faculty who have been invited to attend the dance as patrons are Dean and Mrs. Karl T. Waugh, Mr. and Mrs. Gwynn Wilson, Prof. and Mrs. Grafton P. Tanquary, Dr. Mary Sinclair Crawford, Dr. Francis M. Bacon and Mrs. Pearl Aiken Smith.

Return to Home

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Blackwood have returned to their home at 336 Fourteenth street, Santa Monica, after a motor trip during which an extended sojourn was made at Lake Arrowhead.

"NOW I BUY ONLY ONE SOAP"

"I used to buy two soaps—one for fine things and the other for the dishes and heavy washing. But now I know from actual experience that one—White King Granulated Soap—is perfect for every household use."

White King keeps the sheerest hosiery and dainty lingerie like new. It preserves their silken sheen, their lovely softness. In fact, any silk or rayon that water will not harm, can be washed safely in White King. And it takes so little! One spoonful will do in place of two or three of most other soaps.

No wonder White King—the soap for every household use—is considered by leading garment manufacturers and department stores the finest and most economical soap you can buy.

Society Flocking to Event Talks

[National Illustrated News Syndicate]
Miss Aline Barrett Greenwood

ESPECIALLY interesting to local society is the return of Miss Aline Barrett Greenwood, with her charmingly given current events talks, the first of the series taking place yesterday morning in the Fiesta ballroom of the Ambassador and the second tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock in the music room of the Biltmore which society, en masse, is attending. Among the hostesses of yesterday was Mrs. J. H. Gardiner Soper of Sunset Boulevard, who asked a coterie of friends to the Ambassador, motoring them later to her home in Hollywood, where a luncheon was served, covers being arranged for twelve guests.

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES

Every Tuesday and Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

BAKED CHOCOLATE PUDDING

One-fourth of a cupful of butter, one cupful of sugar, the yolks of two eggs, three-quarters of a cupful of milk, one and one-fourth cupfuls of flour, two teaspoonfuls and one-half of baking powder, the whites of two eggs, one and one-half squares of unsweetened chocolate, one-eighth of a teaspoonful of salt, and half a teaspoonful of vanilla extract, cream the butter and add to it gradually one-half a cupful of the sugar, beat the yolks of the eggs until thick and lemon colored and add the other half a cupful of sugar to the egg yolks, combine the two mixtures, sift the flour, baking powder and salt together and combine alternately with the milk, beat well, fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs, melt the chocolate over hot water, add the vanilla to the chocolate and then add to the cake mixture. Turn into a buttered and floured column tin and bake in a moderate oven, remove from the pan, cool slightly, and fill the center with whipped cream that has been sweetened and flavored with vanilla.

SMOTHERED MEAT BALLS

Take one pound of ground steak, add to it one-half a pound of freshly ground pork, one cupful of cracker crumbs, or bread crumbs, three eggs, one-fourth of a cupful of grated Parmesan cheese, a seasoning of salt and pepper, mix together the ground steak and pork, add the crumbs, well beaten eggs, cheese and seasoning, make this mixture into balls, and saute them until brown all around, take a rich tomato sauce, adding to it one small chopped clove of garlic, one-half of a chopped green pepper, a few grains of cayenne pepper, six dried mushrooms, that have been soaked and chopped fine, cook until well blended, place the meat balls in a shallow baking dish, cover with the sauce, and place in a hot oven for ten minutes, remove from the oven, grate a little more cheese over the top and serve.

DATE DOUGHNUTS

Two tablespoonfuls of shortening, two eggs, three cupfuls of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half a teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-half a teaspoonful of salt, one-half a teaspoonful of nutmeg, and one-half a cupful of sugar, about one-half a cupful of milk, sift together the flour, salt, baking powder and spices, beat the eggs well, add the sugar, and the melted shortening, mix all together and add the milk a little at a time, until a soft dough has been made, roll out on a floured board, to about one inch in thickness, cut off small squares of the dough, and in the center of each one place a stoned date, cover with the dough, drop into hot shortening, and fry until brown and tender.

PRUNE JELLY

Cover one pound of washed prunes with cold water and let stand three or four hours, then cover tightly and simmer gently until tender. When cold remove the pits and place the prunes in a wet mold. Place in a saucepan two and one-half level tablespoonfuls of gelatine, one cupful of water, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, the strained juice of two oranges, and stir over the fire until the gelatine is dissolved. Add one cupful of cider or the prune juice and strain over the prunes in the mold. Set in a cold place to harden and serve with sweetened whipped cream.

BAKED TURNIPS

Peel one bunch of small turnips, heat one tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan, add the whole turnips, sprinkle with salt and pepper, add one teaspoonful of sugar, cover with one cupful of boiling water, and let cook until tender, reduce the sauce in the pan, and thicken with a tablespoonful of flour, that has been mixed to a paste with a little milk, place the turnips in a baking dish, cover with the sauce, and allow to brown slightly.

Mrs. Wyman does not reply to letters, but requests for recipes are answered in the department, PRACTICAL HINTS, published every Friday. (All rights to reproduce reserved by A. L. Wyman.)

Music Lectures Begin Tomorrow

The opening series of lecture concerts preparatory to the Philharmonic Symphony series this season will take place at Bullock's tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, when a varied program of world-famous music will be offered by Dr. Bruce Gordon Kingsley. Beethoven's masterpiece will be taken up, namely, "Fidelio," with its portrayal of female fidelity in its environment of prison and intrigue.

Mozart's "Symphony in G Minor" will then come to attention. Bach also will receive his due in his masterpiece, which will be featured at the opening concert. Among moderns some time will be spent with the life and works of the present-day Italian, Respighi, and Debussy with his portrayal of festival and clouds.

Playground Medals Given

Medals for lengthy service in playground and recreation work have been awarded by the Playground and Recreation Association of America to seven in the Los Angeles department, it was announced yesterday. The award is to be made at the National Recreation Congress, now in session at Louisville, Ky. They will be accepted by Supervisor Raymond E. Hoyt, who is in attendance.

The medals are for C. S. Lamb, secretary of the Playground and Recreation Commission, who has been in that capacity twenty years; Supervisors D. W. Lotz, Alma Wilson, Margaret Shull and A. A. Dietz, fifteen years, and J. L. Thompson and Nora Biller, who have been in the work ten years.

Economies

Do not be ashamed to plan carefully and closely. It is necessary in these very high-priced times.

Notice how much staple food is used each month and see if there is any way by which the amount can be cut down.

Household Suggestions

Stop, Look and Smell!

If gasoline is kept in the house, a red tape or some similar danger signal should be tied on the handle to prevent anyone mistaking it for some less dangerous fluid.

Correctly Soaked

When putting clothes to soak, rub the very soiled parts with soap first. Then soak the clothes in cold suds, if they are to be soaked over night; in hot suds, if they are to be washed before cooling.

Sterilized Jars

We read in many recipes "pack away in sterilized jars." Do we know just what that means? While the preserves or whatever it may be are cooking place the empty glass jars and caps in tepid water and bring to a boil. Allow to boil for five minutes. Remove the jars from the water when they are to be filled and the caps from the water when they are to be put on the jars. Put the jars and caps but do not touch them. Sterilization of the jars by boiling means a great deal in the preservation of food.

A Temporary Ice Box

When out of ice, wrap the bottle in a thick wet towel and put in a current of air. It will not be the milk cool and sweet as ice can be obtained.

Dainty frocks demand this inconspicuous sanitary protection

Designed for inconspicuous protection—and so light, so cool, so comfortable in warmest weather

WEAR your sheerest clothes day after day the whole year through, without the slightest fear of embarrassment . . . ever. Kotex makes it possible.

Kotex is the shaped sanitary pad that is non-detectable. The corners are rounded and tapered. There is no awkward bulk.

85% of hospitals use Kotex filler

Can you imagine any more eloquent tribute to Kotex than this? Surgeons in 85% of the hospitals in this country select Kotex filler (Cellucotton absorbent wadding) for their patients! Not only for sanitary pads, but also for surgical dressings. This is the same, identical, Kotex-made Cellucotton.

Kotex gives complete protection. It actually absorbs 16 times its own weight in moisture. So bulk and weight are unnecessary. In their place, you have lightness . . . coolness . . . perfect comfort . . . even in warmest weather.

Kotex deodorizes, too—so much more important on warm days. And disposes instantly like tissue. The Cellucotton absorbent wadding layers can easily be adjusted as needs change. For all these reasons Kotex . . . favored by millions for year-'round use . . . becomes indispensable in warm weather. For sale everywhere.

OLD MOTHER NATURE'S WISDOM

Who for the future plans his work,
Finds little time in which to shirk.
—Striped Chipmunk

Flip the Terrier was learning a lot about the pockets of Striped Chipmunk. You see, Bowser the Hound knew all about them. As they sat there talking they saw Striped Chipmunk pop out of his hole and scamper away. He was gone some time. In fact, Flip was beginning to wonder if it might not be that something had happened to Striped Chipmunk. He had seen Black Pussy the Cat trotting over in the direction Striped Chipmunk had taken. He was about to mention this when Striped Chipmunk reappeared. Such a funny looking little chap as he was, with his cheeks puffed out until they looked as if the skin must split.

Now, Bowser and Striped Chipmunk are very good friends. Striped Chipmunk knows that Bowser couldn't catch him if he wanted to, and doesn't want to. So he is not afraid of Bowser. Many a time he has frisked along almost under Bowser's nose. He wouldn't do that with a strange dog, nor with a quick-moving dog like Flip. Striped Chipmunk's black eyes snapped as he looked over at Bowser and Flip. But he didn't say anything. His mouth was too full for that. He disappeared in his hole. He wasn't gone long. When he came out he sat up and looked over at Bowser and Flip.

"I see you are making good use of your pockets, Striped Chipmunk," said Bowser.

"If I didn't I should have to go hungry this winter," replied Striped Chipmunk.

"My friend Flip here is much interested in your pockets," said Bowser. "He didn't know that anyone had such pockets until he saw you with yours filled, and I explained to him about them. I think he is still puzzled about some things."

"I am," said Flip promptly. "I don't see why Old Mother Nature should have picked you out for pockets and not have given them to others. Does your big cousin, Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel, have pockets?"

Striped Chipmunk shook his head vigorously. "No," said he. "Happy Jack has no pockets in his cheeks."

"I see you are making good use of your pockets, Striped Chipmunk," said Bowser

"Does your smaller cousin, Chatterer the Red Squirrel, have pockets in his cheeks?"

Again Striped Chipmunk vigorously shook his head. "No," said he. "Chatterer has no pockets in his cheeks. I am the only one of the squirrel family around here who has pockets in his cheeks. I believe there are some ground cousins of mine in other parts of the country who also have pockets."

"Humph!" exclaimed Flip. "I don't see why Old Mother Nature should have given you pockets and not have given Happy Jack and Chatterer pockets."

"They don't need them as much as I do," replied Striped Chipmunk. "They live mostly on nuts or large seeds, which they can carry a few at a time in their mouths. I eat a lot of small seeds and if I had to carry these back two or three at a time to my storeroom I should run my legs off before I got enough to make it worth while. But now I can stuff my pockets full and get back a good-sized load all at one time. If I didn't have to store up food I wouldn't need the pockets. But as I do have to store up food and some of that food is of a kind that couldn't be carried in any other way, I have been given pockets. So, there you are!"

ILLINOISANS WILL PICNIC

Illinoisans in Southern California, 300,000 strong, have been invited to attend the Illinois picnic tomorrow in Sycamore Grove Park. Henry J. Brubaker, president of the State society, has urged all former residents of Illinois, as well as all visitors from that State, to be present and make the gathering a memorable one. This will be the last picnic of the year. A popular program is promised by the committee.

DEVICE GUIDES PLANE AS PILOT QUITS STICK

Aerial stunts were performed successfully yesterday by Fred Secor, local flyer, while demonstrating the stabilizing panels with which he has equipped an airplane and which held the ship on a level keel while he deserted the stick. Secor flew an Ilexander Eaglerock at 500 feet altitude over Aero Corporation Field, while he strolled around the wings and otherwise demonstrated that the devices can keep a plane steady while the pilot's hands are off of the controls.

Secor, with stick set, took off and landed without his hands touching the controls. The stabilizing devices, in the form of panels, regulate the speed, keep the ship on its course and stabilize it, he says. He invented the device, consisting of two panels in front, just back of the propeller, and one on either wing. When the controls are moved the panels act accordingly. The two panels on the wings are hooked up with the regular control.

Yesterday's exhibition apparently demonstrated that a ship equipped with these devices can be set down almost exactly where the pilot desires to land.

Secor will give another demonstration today.

JURY WILL ASK POLICE DISMISSALS

Forty-three Officers to be Blacklisted Following Liquor-Graft Inquiry

Following the close of its inquiry into charges of bootleg-liquor graft within the next two weeks, steps will be taken by the county grand jury and the District Attorney to file charges against approximately forty-three police officers supported by affidavits, with the intention of obtaining their dismissal from service, it was revealed yesterday.

Announcement of this plan by the District Attorney confirms reports at the Hall of Justice, during the conference between the Mayor, District Attorney, Police Commission and members of the grand jury, that an effort will be made to dismiss many officers named in the inquiry.

At that time a joint statement was made by those attending the conference in which it was announced that some means should be taken to rid the police department of unsatisfactory officers.

CHAMBER DIRECTORS GUESTS OF UNIVERSITY

Southern regents of the University of California at Los Angeles, were yesterday hosts to the board of directors of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce on an inspection tour of the college, the tour being taken on the occasion of the board's regular weekly meeting. At luncheon members of the party were guests of Harold Janss, director of the chamber, and Dr. Edwin Janss. Commenting on the visit to the university, President Shannon Crandall of the chamber said that all of the members of the board expressed considerable interest in the complete equipment and gave praise to the utility and design of the buildings.

LOT SELLER HUNTED IN BUNKO CASE

Fortune Telling Said to Enter Into Realty Deals of Asserted Swindler

Psychology, fortune - telling and bunko swindling figure in the complaints which yesterday led to the issuance of a warrant for John W. Hamilton, on four counts of grand theft, with bail set at $50,000. Hamilton, said to be a former professor in psychology, is believed by Detective Lieutenants Reed and Edwards of the bunko detail, to be in New York at present.

Hamilton operated here as a real-estate lecturer, detectives say, advertising a series of lectures at a Hollywood club, last May. He also addressed meetings at Blythe, Cal., where he showed motion pictures of the town of Ripley, twenty miles distant. According to police, he represented that Ripley property would increase greatly in value, due to the Boulder Dam construction. Police also were informed that he agreed to pay owners of Ripley property $113,000 for options on the townsite, but never did so. Complaints charged that Hamilton sold them Ripley lots to which he had no title.

According to the police, the lecturer employed a woman to follow prospects from his lectures, make their acquaintance, and take them to a fortune teller, who foretold that they were going to make much money. Investments in real estate followed.

Local complainants are Mrs. L. Hamilton of the St. Francis Hotel, who paid $2500; Mrs. M. Mills of 4121 Wilshire Boulevard, who paid $45,000, and Mrs. May W. Allen, principal of a law school, who paid $410.

NEWS OF THE CAFES

Receiving the same popular acclaim that greeted them on their recent Orpheum tour, Jimmy Kerr and his celebrated Rhythm Boys are nightly appearing at the Montmartre in Hollywood, where they made a sensationally successful debut last Wednesday evening.

The orchestra will play for the collegiate dancing contest to be held this evening, as well as for carnival night, to be celebrated Saturday.

RENDEZVOUS FOR ACTORS

Coffee Dan's on Hill near West Seventh street is a convenient and popular rendezvous for many theatrical folks who make it a habit of gathering there in the evenings after their performance for a bite to eat and several hours of fun before retiring. Patrons of that establishment nightly enjoy a variety of impromptu entertainment provided by the actors and actresses.

Among the prominent guests there recently, according to Ira W. Wolf, manager, were Chief Red Wing and his entire cast, Oreighton Hall, Arthur Prince, Gus Edwards, Harry Jolson, Charles King and many others.

CAFE TO CELEBRATE

Final preparations for the fourth anniversary celebration to be held tonight in the Cliff Dwellers Cafe on Beverly Boulevard at Virgil street have been completed, according to C. S. Fox, proprietor. The gala festival also will open officially the winter season at that popular cafe. A Navajo chicken tamale, an entirely new delicacy, will be introduced for the first time and be a regular feature on the menu in the future. Fox has arranged for special and impromptu entertainment.

FRESH TROUT SERVED

Fresh Rainbow trout from Redlands, fresh halibut and salmon, served with plenty of butter, are some of the delicious dishes that are attracting many new patrons to the new Polly's Patio Tea Room on West Seventh street, just east of Vermont avenue. Mrs. Louise Anderson, hostess, in addition to supervising all the cooking personally, bakes daily her own rolls, biscuits and pastries.

CABARET OPENING HELD

Attended by celebrities of the stage, screen and the civic life of Hollywood and Los Angeles, George Du Count's Russian Bear Cabaret in the Christie Hotel, Hollywood, had a gala opening last night that exceeded in frills and display any similar opening in years. More than twenty-seven dancers, singers and musicians supplied the entertainment.

CAFE STAGE UNIQUE

One of the smallest complete stages with lighting system, curtain, dimmer, spotlights and a moving stage is in the B.B.B. Cellar, Hollywood night spot. The moving stage probably has few rivals, as it is less than three feet wide.

Operated by electricity, it slides out from beneath the little stage of the night club, on which some of the most outstanding figures in the theatrical profession have stepped for a bit of impromptu entertainment.

LONDON SINGER SIGNED

Cecil Cunningham, singing comedienne of the London theaters, night clubs and musical halls, has been signed as a special attraction to appear nightly, starting this evening, in the Blossom Room of the Roosevelt Hotel in Hollywood, along with George Olsen's celebrated recording orchestra. She was brought to Hollywood by Gus Edwards and is under his personal management during her brief stay here.

HARRY MILLER RETURNS

Harry M. Miller, founder of Miller's Lafayette Cafe on West Seventh street, opposite Westlake Park, has just returned from a transcontinental tour and before leaving on the trip sold the Lafayette to the Fifth and Broadway Investment Company. Miller, it is said, has negotiations under way for another cafe proposition in the metropolitan district but his plans are not ready to be revealed at this time.

Of Interest to Women

Your Baby and Mine

by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

NAP TIMES CANNOT REMAIN CONSTANT WITH GROWING CHILD

When the baby is about 1 year of age he begins, quite suddenly, to refuse to nap twice daily. This is always a blow to the mother who has come to expect these relief periods and she is dubious as to her own conduct. She finds if she forces the baby to go to sleep in the afternoon that he takes an hour or so to drop off and he then sleeps most of the afternoon, waking at 5 or thereabouts, cross as two sticks.

By the time he is thoroughly awakened and good humored it is time to put him to bed for the night, and she finds him stubbornly averse to this. He rises up in bed like a jack-in-the-box as soon as she has tucked him in and rattles the bed, bangs on the wall, and runs around until he drops of exhaustion an hour or two later. All of this if he is that kind of a child; if not, he not only rattles the bed and pounds on the wall but he makes the next hour or two hideous by screaming loudly and demanding to be let out.

When things have arrived at this state a change is necessary. The baby's whole day should be rearranged to conform with his development. Meal times should come three times a day, with breakfast at 7 or 7:30, lunch at noon and dinner at 6 or 6:30. This allows for dropping the morning nap entirely and dressing baby as soon as he wakens and after breakfast letting him play and run about until 11 o'clock. At this time he can be undressed, bathed, and put into his bathrobe; given his lunch and put to bed directly afterward.

Baby will sleep then for two hours at least, and this being the warmest and sunniest period of the day, he can be taken outdoors and given his daily walk or ride in his carriage until 4

At 4 he may have a small cup of milk and a cracker, a grateful interlude between his two meals, or if he hasn't had his orange juice in the morning this is an excellent time to give it.

At 5 he may be undressed and put in his crib or a wide bed, with mother watching, and given his exercises in the nude. Scampering about, waving his arms, biting his toes, wriggling and luxuriating in his lack of clothes will put him in a healthful mood for sleep. He can be fed at 6 and be in bed by 6:30.

Baby's bedtime should precede the family dinner for various reasons. A tired, cross baby is a poor dinner companion and in the parents' efforts to keep him satisfied, he is fed spoonfuls of food which are out of place in his diet. His actions will lead father to grow equally cross and if baby isn't spanked mother is at least scolded for having such a bad-tempered child. With baby in bed the meal can be a peaceful, enjoyable affair, one which any mother of an active year-old child will appreciate.

"Bottled Sunshine"

if they are growing fast!

Your physician will tell you of a simple but very effective way to help children keep up to par in weight, vitality and endurance during the years of most rapid growth.

Child specialists find that Bottled Sunshine—good cod-liver oil—given daily, builds up depleted vitality and increases general resistance to infections. It helps the underweight child to put on flesh and grow as he should.

The factors that make cod-liver oil such a valued health-builder are Vitamins A and D. Vitamin A promotes normal growth and nutrition, and increases resistance to infections. Vitamin D is the "sunshine vitamin" which growing children particularly need, since modern ways of living give them so little sunshine.

In prescribing cod-liver oil, thousands of physicians specify Squibb's. They advise it because it is tested and guaranteed to be very rich in the vitamins that protect, Vitamins A and D.

Ask your physician about Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil as a health-builder for your child. You can now get Squibb's Mint-flavored Cod-Liver Oil which appeals to older children especially. All good drug stores have it, as well as Squibb's Plain Cod-Liver Oil.

CHEST DRIVE LEADERS TO MEET TODAY

Central Division Work to be Outlined During Luncheon at Biltmore

More than 300 of the wealthiest and most influential men in Los Angeles, intrusted with the solicitation of large donations from wealthy individuals and firms for the 1929-1930 Community Chest fund, will meet at noon today in the Sala de Oro of the Biltmore for the first time this year to outline their Central Division precamp a i g n drive.

GEORGE I. COCHRAN

This solicitation of the wealthy by the Central Division will begin immediately upon the close of the meeting and will terminate November 12, the day the solicitation of the general public begins.

Announcement was made late yesterday by J. A. H. Kerr, campaign chairman, that George I. Cochran, who headed Committee No. 1 of the Central Division last year, has just reaccepted the post for the coming campaign. J. V. Challiss, B. F. Nysewander, Jr., Preston Hotchkis, Lawrence Block, Wyle E. Richey, Earl W. Green, R. A. Brown and W. H. Comstock will serve with him.

Each of the thirty committees in the Central Division, manned by ten prominent men, will have its individual quota set at the meeting today.

All classes of citizens, it is announced, will be solicited this year to give according to suggested scale based on their actual incomes. This scale ranges incomes of $1200 to $500,000 per annum, calling for contributions of from $5 to $50,000.

BUSINESS WOMEN TO CONVENE

First Biennial Meeting of Legislative Council to Open Tomorrow

With clubwomen of Sierra Madre as hostesses, the Business Women's Legislative Council of Southern California will conduct its first biennial meeting at the Sierra Madre Woman's clubhouse tomorrow beginning at 1:30 p.m.

SUE BROBST.

Miss Sue Brobst, president, will call the session to order and Mrs. J. H. Robertson, president of the Sierra Madre Woman's Club, will welcome the business women.

Mrs. Amelia P. Johnson, the council's representative to Sacramento, will tell of her work in the defeat of the extension of the eight-hour law for business and professional women.

Short talks on "Women in the Modern World," will be made.

Election of new officers for the ensuing year will climax the session. The present directorate includes Sue Brobst, president; Edna Covert Plummer, first vice-president; Louise Mason Carpenter, second vice-president; Jane C. Humphreys, third vice-president; Mamie Chase, secretary; Alberta Gude Lynch, treasurer, and J. Frances Emans, auditor.

DR. A. M. WOODWARD BURIED YESTERDAY

Funeral services for Dr. Anderson M. Woodward, physician, who died Tuesday at his home, 332 Vista Place, were conducted yesterday at the Graham and Isbell chapel, 915 West Washington street. Burial was in Forest Lawn Memorial Park. Dr. Woodward was 64 years of age. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Emma Lou Woodward, two sons, Thomas J. Woodward of Compton and William B. Woodward of Long Beach, and three daughters, Mrs. Alma M. Eldridge of El Centro, Mrs. Mabel C. Womack of Fresno and Mrs. Florence Alexander of Los Angeles.

VENICE BATHHOUSE CONTRACT AWARDED

The contract for construction of a municipal bathhouse on the Sunset Pier, Venice, which is being remodeled for the purposes, was awarded by the Playground and Recreation Commission yesterday to A. O. Nelson, on his low bid of $20,635. The commission recently appropriated $7500 for the rearrangement of the pier, pulling out old piling and making other changes. Supt. Hjelte estimates that the total of $27,500 will be sufficient to complete the work, including the new bathhouse.

How About Your Rugs?

If you have not changed your rugs during the summer months a great deal of summer dirt has probably been tracked in. Why not send the downstairs rugs to the cleaners? If you are planning no other changes this winter you will find this added brightness of the rugs will give a newness to the rooms that will perk them up beautifully. We are so careful that everything is clean at all times but the scouring of rugs is very often neglected.

By careful planning many inexpensive materials can be made attractive to serve as substitutes for meat and the family will thank you for a pleasant change.

Health and Diet

ADVICE

by DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday.

SUNDAY—Breakfast: French omelet, made of the whites of eggs and milk; stewed figs, Melba toast. Lunch: Buttered macaroni, cooked spinach, raw celery. Dinner: Jellied tomato consomme, broiled chicken, string beans, baked egg plant, cauliflower salad, ice cream.

MONDAY — Breakfast: Coddled egg, two or three slices of crisp bacon, stewed prunes, Melba toast. Lunch: Eight-ounce glass of grape juice. Dinner: Vegetable soup, Salisbury steak, spinach, turnips and tops, salad of sliced tomatoes with celery, junket with whipped cream and fruit juice.

TUESDAY—Breakfast: Cottage cheese, Melba toast, apple sauce. Lunch: Baked ground beets, combination salad of celery, tomatoes and small green peas on lettuce. Dinner: Mushroom soup, roast pork, steamed carrots with parsley, salad of cold asparagus (canned,) baked apple.

WEDNESDAY—Breakfast: Baked egg, Melba toast, stewed raisins. Lunch: Oranges as desired. Dinner: Broiled lamb chops, string beans, cooked celery, McCoy salad, pineapple gelatin.

THURSDAY — Breakfast: Coddled egg, Melba toast, stewed apricots. Lunch: *—Baked eggplant and tomatoes, celery. Dinner: Vegetable soup, roast beef, buttered vegetables, spinach, head lettuce, raspberry whip.

FRIDAY — Breakfast: Toasted breakfast food with cream (no sugar,) stewed figs. Lunch: Raw apples as desired, with glass of milk. Dinner: Baked white fish, cooked lettuce, salad of sliced tomatoes, jello or Jell-well, no cream.

SATURDAY—Breakfast: French omelet, Melba toast, stewed prunes. Lunch: Sandwiches of whole-wheat bread, lettuce and peanut butter. Dinner: American cheese, cooked cucumbers, asparagus, salad of tomatoes and celery, sliced pineapple.

*—Baked eggplant and tomatoes: Peel eggplant, cut into cubes and steam until tender in a tightly covered pan. Into a casserole put a layer of the cooked eggplant, a layer of sliced fresh tomatoes, or the pulp of canned tomatoes and sprinkle generously with chopped celery and a little salt if desired. Repeat until casseroie is filled. Bake tightly covered in a moderate oven twenty minutes. Serve with butter and grated cheese.

World Play Congress for City Proposed

Holding of an International Recreation Congress in Los Angeles in 1932 during the Olympic Games is urged in a resolution passed by the Playground and Recreation Commission yesterday and forwarded by telegraph to the Annual National Recreation Congress now in session in Louisville, Ky. Construction Supervisor Raymond E. Hoyt, of the Playground and Recreation Department, is attending the Congress and has been instructed to make every effort toward favorable action for the 1932 session here.

In addition it was announced that Mayor Porter, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations will send similar messages of invitation.

DIETITIANS RECOMMEND IT... YOUR CHILDREN WILL PREFER IT

Urging A New-Day Bread For Your Children...

To Build Them Up and Bring New Vigor

BY ALICE ADAMS PROCTOR

HERE, Madam, is that remarkable new-day bread so many mothers are changing to. It's called "Wonder Bread." You should try it.

It is, you will find, utterly different from any other bread you can buy. It represents months and months of research and the expenditure of $6,000,000.

Two years ago we placed it on the market. At that time bakery experts told us it would cost too much to make. They pointed out that our recipe called for ingredients that cost $1,000,000 extra to buy. And so they prophesied tremendous losses.

But we maintained that women would note the difference instantly. We gambled on their judgment . . . and we won.

Today Wonder Bread is bought by 10,000,000 women. It is, without question, the largest-selling bread in America.

What It Offers

First of all, it is considered the most economical known source of carbohydrates. And carbohydrates, as you know, are vital to health.

Especially is this so with children. Active work or play rapidly burns up body tissues. Unless these tissues are replaced, "Carbohydrate Starvation" sets in. Listlessness is what you see.

Wonder Bread, being rich in carbohydrates, combats this condition remarkably.

When digested, it gives off heat in the form of energy exactly as coal gives off heat. It helps establish that vital "energy reserve." Thus your child often discovers a wonderful new zest for play.

Knowing these benefits, dietitians are urging its use at every meal. And millions of mothers, finding "balanced diet" made easy, now serve it in their homes.

Its Famous Flavor

These unusual health advantages, please remember, come to you in a superlatively delicious food. And at no extra cost.

You get them in a bread judged by the foremost experts in the country the most deliciously flavored bread ever baked. Which makes it the more remarkable.

How We Make It

To make Wonder Bread we employ matchless chefs. We use a specially milled "short patent" flour. Only the heart of the wheat berry is used. We double the amount of milk. And pasteurize every drop.

These ingredients are expensive, but they give a vastly better loaf, for the benefit through digestion.

We employ, also, a "sponge" method. Wonder Bread is "kneaded." This means, as the name suggests, baking and more baking. It brings out a delicious flavor. Lends tenderness.

When Will You Begin to Serve It?

So do, please, as the most wise women in the country do. Just give this new day bread a trial. Order it from your grocer immediately and say "Wonder Bread" and expect to get it. Remember to say "Wonder Bread" distinctly. It costs you no more.

Also please let me send you a booklet of unusual sandwich recipes.

You never would believe sandwiches could be so delicious

Sandino Sympathizers in Exile Here

Gabry Rivas, newspaperman and former editor of a Spanish language newspaper in Los Angeles; Ortega Diaz, editor of La Prensa, Nicaragua's leading newspaper, and nephew of former President Adolfo Diaz.

PLOTTING CHARGED

Other exiles are Dr. Gustavo Manzanares, former member of the Chamber of Deputies, who led opposition to the McCoy electoral law and the National Guard contract with the United States, whose approaching wedding was thwarted by the deportation; Fernando Larios, admitted runner of guns from Mexico and one-time supporter of Moncado; Enrique Aviles, the port captain at Corinto, who sympathized with dock strikers there in 1928, and Adan Z. Morales, a merchant.

All eight ostensibly were exiled under Article CXII of the Nicaraguan Constitution, which gives the President, sitting with his Cabinet and two Senators, the power to deport any person threatening the public peace. Documents were declared found on them indicating a plot to create disorder.

The exiles claim Article CXII never was invoked, that no derogatory documents were found and no plot contemplated. They say they are patriotic idealists, intent on merging all political faiths into the nationalist movement, and in restoring government, now dominated by United States, to the natives.

MILITARY MEN TO BANQUET

Notable Social Event at Biltmore Tonight Will be Attended by 600 Army and Navy Officers

The Pacific Coast's most ambitious military social event will be held tonight in the Biltmore ballroom, when more than 600 officers of all branches of the National Defense assemble for the first annual united service dinner. The affair, sponsored by the Army-Navy-Marine Corps Association, will be attended by every ranking officer of the regular and reserve foces of the Army and Navy on the Coast, together with local civil leaders.

Senior officer present will be Admiral Louis M. Nulton, commander-in-chief of the United States battle fleet, who will be accompanied by fifty of the fleet's ranking officers.

The principal address of the evening will be made by Maj.-Gen. David P. Barrows, commanding the Fortieth Division of the California National Guard and president emeritus of University of California. Lieutenant-Commander Ligon B. Ard, president of the Army-Navy-Marine Corps Association, has directed plans for the dinner, while chairman of his committee of 100 is Lieutenant - Commander M. S. Tisdale, chief of the local navy recruiting station.

Other prominent guests who will speak include Maj.-Gen. Logan Feland, commanding the Department of the Pacific, United States Marine Corps; Maj.-Gen. John L. Hines, commanding the Ninth Corps Area, United States Army; Vice-Admiral Lucius A. Bostwick, commanding the battle fleet dreadnaught squadron; Rear - Admiral T. P. Magruder, commanding the fleet base force; Rear - Admiral William H. Standley, assistant chief of naval operations, here from Washington as the representative of the Secretary of the Navy; Col. Harry Lay, commanding the west coast expeditionary force of the Marine Corps; Capt. C. M. Tozer, acting commandant of the Eleventh Naval District; Capt. A. H. Woodbine, Jr., naval reserve head in this area, and Brig.-Gen. E. A. Walsh, Adjutant-General of Minnesota and president of the National Guard Association of the United States, which is in convention here this week.

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED FOR COOKING CLASS

The Times Cooking Class demonstrations this afternoon will be the following: Stuffed short bread, stuffed nut bread, shrimp curry, potato dumplings and pecan sticks. The first three are requests. The Los Angeles Times holds free cooking classes every Tuesday and Friday afternoon in the lecture in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway under the personal direction of Mrs. Mabelle Wyman, Times culinary specialist. Classes begin promptly at 2 p.m. and are open to all.

Frat Alumni in Celebration at Pig Dinner

With a five-foot roasted porker gracing the board, Los Angeles alumni chapter of the Phi Gamma Delta celebrated its annual pig dinner and entertained national officers of the fraternity at the Jonathan Club, South Sixth and Figueroa streets, last night. Jack Lawrence, Jr., conducted the ritual of the pig dinner, which was inaugurated by the late Frank Norris, California novelist.

The dinner was given in honor of the fraternity's national representatives who are visiting Los Angeles. This group was headed by Horace I. Brightman, national president, of New York City. Others in the party were George Snyder, secretary, Washington, D. C.; Luther (Daddy) Brewer, treasurer, from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who recently celebrated the fiftieth year of his membership; "Scoop" Wilkinson, editor of the fraternity's national magazine, Washington, D. C.; Past-President Stewart Eggleston and Hargrave Long, Chicago.

The invocation was offered by the Rt. Rev. W. B. Stevens, and Sam Hinds acted as toastmaster. The Occidental College chapter attended as a body, and the entire gathering numbered 146 members of the organization.

Representatives of the fraternity acting as hosts to the visitors accompanied them yesterday morning on a tour of the buildings of the University of California at Los Angeles. They were tendered a luncheon at the Delta Rho Omega house on the campus. Later they visited the new site of the Occidental College in the Santa Monica Mountains.

MEN'S CLUB HAS BANQUET

Two hundred and fifty members of the Beverly Hills Men's Club met last night at their monthly banquet in the Beverly-Wilshire Hotel. Marvin Park presided, introducing as the principal speaker H. B. Wright, manager of the Chinese Theater, and Billie Lennon, 14-year-old Venice High School singer and protege of Tito Schipa.

STORE BANDITS TAKE CASH AND NEW SHOES

Two robbers with a gun last night held up Louis Nidor in his shoe store at 146 South Main street, taking $35 cash and two pairs of new shoes which they were in their getaway. The bandits, described as being 20 years of age each, tried on shoes, and after being fitted asked for bedroom slippers as well. They followed Nidor to the rear of the store and there covered him with a pistol. Warning him to stay indoors, they escaped.

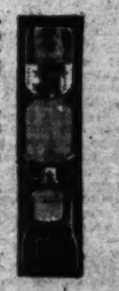
Why Men

apparently well, often

"Break" at 40

JUST as the turning point towards achievement comes, in average life, at 40, so too comes the turning point in health. The age when wear and tear of life begins to take its toll.

Doctors now trace the cause, in many cases, to a prevalent after 40 ailment... kidney breakdown. Over half of men and women are affected. Many without knowledge, for there are no warning symptoms.



Medical science now gives the cause: 75% of poisonous waste from the system is excreted by kidneys, much in too concentrated form. Overburdened, delicate kidney cells break down. Congestion occurs, throwing poisons back into the system. And "self-poisoning" thus causes many serious ills.

To men and women before and after 40, doctors now advise 6 glasses of Puritas mineral-free water daily. It dilutes poisonous waste, absorbs and carries it off, without leaving mineral deposit. Thus eases the burden of kidneys and protects their normal functioning.

Puritas water, scientifically distilled and aerated, is mineral-free, impurity free; water in its purest state. Although its taste is different at first, each drink becomes increasingly enjoyable. Order Puritas today.

Clean, lustrous teeth—50% of anybody's charm

Begin today to make yours beautiful

WILL you risk 25¢ to try a new different dentifrice that beautifies teeth amazingly?

Listerine Tooth Paste is its name, made by the makers of Listerine. That guarantees its quality. A bit of it on your brush, a little gentle brushing—and immediately you begin to see your teeth improve. Others notice it, too.

Those tiny stains and discolorations vanish so quickly. Dull teeth grow white. And teeth already attractive take on a wonderful brilliance and luster—the way nature intended them to be.

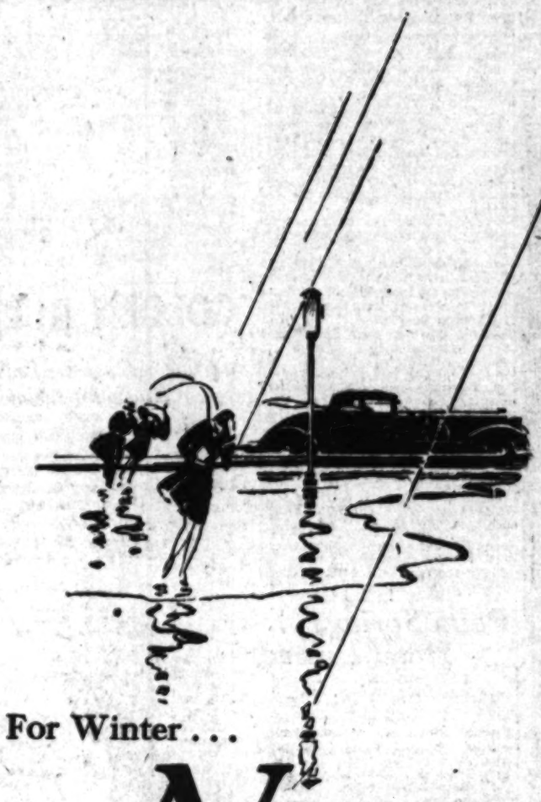
These results are due to natural cleansing agents—so gentle in action—which first clean, then polish teeth. They are softer than enamel, so cannot harm it. But they are harder than tartar and, therefore, quickly remove it.

And remember this dentifrice costs you not 50¢ but 25¢. Get a tube today and learn its benefits from actual use. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

LISTERINE TOOTH PASTE

26% Quicker Starting

—yet no loss of mileage



DETAILED service tests on full choke, half choke and no choke, prove that the New Super UNION Gasoline starts on an average of 26% quicker than ordinary motor fuels.

Acceleration tests prove that at any point from 5 to 60 m.p.h. New Super UNION Gasoline supplies an extra pick-up that improves performance in traffic, on hills and straightaways.

Yet there is no loss of mileage when you use the New Super UNION. The high portion of the distillation range of regular Union Gasoline is maintained in order to retain a high B.T.U., or heat unit, content. This maintains the mileage of regular Union Gasoline on which has been built an outstanding reputation for economy over a period of years.

Thus the New Super UNION Gasoline not only excels in performance but is the most economical winter fuel as well because with all these advantages it costs no more.

Try it NOW!

Don't go thru the winter facing the annoyance and moter trouble that a slow starting gasoline causes you. Just make it a daily habit to stop at the Blue and White UNION pumps and fill up with the New Super UNION Gasoline—26% quicker starting without loss of Mileage.

Note: New UNION ETHYL is compound of New Super UNION plus the recognized anti-knock qualities of ETHYL.

WOMEN TO RUN FOR ASSEMBLY

Political League Makes Call for Candidates

President Asks Contest in Each District

Plan to be Furthered at Next Meeting

If the Women's Political League has its way, feminine competition will be rampant and complete at the next State election. At its meeting held yesterday in the Windsor Tea Room, Ruth Sterry, president, asked the league to round up a suitable woman candidate for every Assembly district and bring them to the next meeting, on the third Thursday in November.

It is agreed that probably it will not be possible to elect all the women candidates, but that if one woman runs in every Assembly district there is a good sporting chance that half a dozen will be sent to Sacramento.

ENTHUSIASM KEEN

Mrs. Dora Stearns, past president of the league, is to preside at this next potent meeting, and enthusiasm for the scheme is intense. The city is rich in available women of standing and integrity who, if elected, can do their sex and Los Angeles infinite credit.

The fact that eight new districts are to be added to the allotment here, arouses high hopes of success—for here women candidates will stand an equal chance of election with men.

THREE SEATS LOST

At one time there were four Assemblywomen at Sacramento, three from the north, who have since dropped out, and Eleanor Miller of South Pasadena, who still retains her seat. There are no women in the Senate.

The Women's Political League boasts more than 200 members, who include such women as Ruth Sterry, Dora Stearns, Mrs. T. E. Keeler, Mrs. Fletcher Bowron, Mrs. Sarah J. Smith, Mrs. Alma Nordstrom, Mrs. Emma Thomas, Mrs. Roland A. Vandergrift, Mrs. Elmer Nelson, Mrs. H. B. Davis and Miss Dorothy Arnold.

SCREEN HONEYMOONERS HOME

John Gilbert Explains "Spat" Tale

Famous Film Newlyweds Return
Mr. and Mrs. John Gilbert on their arrival last night.

FILMLAND'S most famous honeymooners, John Gilbert and Ina Claire, came home last night after an absence of three months during which they toured Europe and during which the fan world palpitated at the rumor of a marital spat supposed to have taken place in Paris.

"A lot of bunk," was Gilbert's concise reply to an inquiry regarding the truth of the reported quarrel with his wife.

In explaining the incident which led to the report, he said, "Why, I just went for a drive while Ina went to a party to which I intended to go later. And a couple of hours later I did go to the party and subsequently we went home together."

"But before I went to the affair, several of the people there thought my temporary absence was a matter for comment and they commented. There was a newspaper man at the party, he overheard the comments and he decided to make a story out of my absence. He did and the next morning I was confronted by a group of reporters who asked me whether my wife and I were going to separate, and of course I told them that it was ridiculous."

Gilbert and Miss Claire arrived on the Chief, getting off at Pasadena, where they were met by Gilbert's chauffeur and taken to his home in Beverly Hills. They were greeted only by several studio attaches, Harry Eddington, Gilbert's business manager, and a group of photographers and reporters. They paused long enough for a couple of flashlight photographs and discussed their trip as they walked to their automobile.

They both cited their obvious good health as proof that they have had an enjoyable trip. But, added Gilbert, "we certainly are glad to get home and to stay here for several years at least before we do any more traveling."

Of all the European scene, Gilbert said, he found most pleasure in London, and on his next trip abroad he intends to spend most of his time in that city. While in London the couple purchased two maltese kittens, which have been their traveling companions ever since. The kittens were not entrusted even to stewards or porters, and as he swung down from the train last night Gilbert was carrying the wicker satchel containing the pets.

NEW COAST BUS SERVICE ANNOUNCED

Lang Company to Operate Los Angeles-Bay City Line With Latest in Coaches

Beginning of a new motorcoach service between Los Angeles and San Francisco over the Coast Route was announced yesterday by "Mike" Lang, head of the Lang Transportation Company who has been granted a franchise by the State Railroad Commission.

The terms of the franchise call for the operation of motor coaches daily and on a regular schedule between Los Angeles and San Francisco. Lang was notified late yesterday by the Secretary of State that the franchise had been granted, he said.

The company has been incorporated for $15,000,000, and expects to place twenty-five motor coaches in service within thirty days. The new coaches to be used by the company according to Lang will be equipped with "everything from curling irons to ironing boards."

Lang, who has been operating a truck transportation system in Southern California for ten years began business with a "knock-kneed horse and a wobbly-wheeled wagon." When automobiles became the popular mode of transportation he learned how to drive one of them. He still held onto the horse and at the present time the animal is in a pasture on Lang's ranch near El Monte.

Lang is president of the new company which is incorporated as the Motor Coach Company of California. Howard Lang is vice-president and general manager. Orders for ninety-six new busses have been placed by the company.

Palm Springs Hotel Leased

The new $350,000 Del Tahquitz Hotel at Palm Springs, designed by Pritzie Ridgeway, motion picture actress, has been leased for a period of five years to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Hamilton, according to an announcement made yesterday. The hostelry will be formally opened on November 9, next.

The Del Tahquitz will be the first European plan hotel at Palm Springs.

MRS. BEERS FUNERAL TODAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Louise Wilson Beers, mother of Prof. Catherine V. Beers of the department of zoology of the University of Southern California, will be conducted at 2 p.m. today in St. John's Episcopal Church, West Adams street, with Bishop W. B. Stevens officiating. Mrs. Beers died suddenly Tuesday evening at her home, 1152 West Thirty-fifth street. Honorary pallbearers will be Dr. Bruce M. Harrison, Dr George R. Johnstone, Dr. Howard De Forest, Dr. Francis M. Baldwin, Prof. Albert B. Ulrey and Prof. Andrew C. Life, all members of the zoology department.

COAST MOTOR PATROL SOUGHT

Schwaebe Asks Increase of Liquor Guard

Suggestion Made to Dry Chiefs at Capital

Eble Will Consider Plan on Visit Here

As a new agency in the unceasing warfare against the liquor smuggler, a special motor patrol of about thirty-five men may be formed similar to the border patrol to watch the coast line between San Luis Obispo and the Mexican border, it was said by Louis H. Schwaebe, collector of the port of Los Angeles, on his return last night from a six weeks' trip to the East during which he consulted with his superiors in Washington and also observed the work of the customs officials at the large eastern ports.

Collector Schwaebe recommended the formation of the special motor coast patrol to United States Commissioner of Customs Eble and he said that the latter had not indicated whether the funds of the department would allow its formation in the near future. The collector added that if his idea is adopted it may be applied first, however, to other sections of the country, for he said his observation had been that the situation with regard to liquor smuggling is much worse on the eastern coast than it is on this coast.

STRENGTH ASKED

Commissioner Eble, he said, intends to visit the Pacific Coast soon to make a personal survey not only of the liquor situation but of the work of customs officials in general. The commissioner, said Collector Schwaebe, probably at that time will make a decision relative to a request he made while in Washington for an increase in personnel and an increased appropriation for this customs district. The district over which Collector Schwaebe is chief embraces all of the State below San Luis Obispo.

The increase in personnel asked by Collector Schwaebe includes ten additional inspectors and ten additional guards to be stationed at San Pedro and three additional examiners of merchandise, to be stationed at the postoffice, the appraisers stores and at San Pedro. While Collector Schwaebe was in Washington he was granted three additional inspectors for the port of San Diego.

REQUESTS GRANTED

The collector said he believes his requests for increased personnel and appropriations for the port of Los Angeles will receive favorable attention because of the port's remarkable record of growth. Within six years, he said, the annual value of merchandise passing through the port has risen from $29,000,000 to more than $2000,000 and it is maintaining that ratio of growth.

Some requests for minor appropriations, including one for a new motor for the customs cutter, were approved while Collector Schwaebe was in Washington. He spent a week in that city and the remainder of his time in the East was given to an inspection of customs work at New York, Boston, several points on the Canadian border and Montreal. Accompanying him on the trip was William F. Mahar, his chief deputy at San Pedro.

Board Ponders Soapbox Plea

Petitions urging the Park Commission to provide more space in Pershing Square by a new crosswalk through the center, from Fifth to Sixth streets, providing seating capacity for women and children and a space for "orators" and "philosophers" to expound their views were considered by the commission yesterday and the proposal was taken under advisement.

The petitions were signed by ersons residing in scattered parts of the city, while those of business men and property owners fronting the square were noticeable by their absence.

COMPLAINTS IN FIRING ON GIRLS FILED

Two Taken for Shooting After Being Repulsed Face Assault Charges

Roy D. Cunningham, 21 years of age of 127 Orange street, Montebello, and Charlie Cooper, 18, of 1037 La Verne street, Los Angeles, were charged with simple assault in a complaint issued yesterday by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Bonner Richardson.

It is charged the two youths fired upon Muriel Palmer and Dorothy Donohue, of 1239 South McBride street, with a .22-caliber rifle when the two girls declined to enter their automobile for a ride.

The shooting ocurred at Ninth and Arizona streets after one of the girls threw a rock at the youths after repulsing their repeated advances, according to deputy sheriffs who investigated the case.

The youths were arrested an hour later by Deputy Sheriffs Jensen and Allensworth while sitting in their parked automobile on Goodrich Boulevard near Ninth street. A .22-caliber rifle was found in the car, the officers assert, and the two girls identified the defendants as their assailants.

Coroner Passes Stabbing Case Action to Fitts

A Coroner's jury yesterday passed to the District Attorney the decision regarding the fatal stabbing of James C. Davidson of 949 Maltman avenue, for which killing the dead man's son James, 20 years of age, is held.

After hearing the testimony the jury reported to the Coroner that the members could not decide from the evidence submitted whether the killing of Davidson was justifiable or not. The jury recommended that further investigation be made by the proper authorities.

DuBrock Hurts Found Serious

X-ray photographs yesterday revealed that the injuries received by Stanley (Bud) BuBrock during a polo match Wednesday include a fracture of the spine and broken cheekbone. His face and shoulder were skinned and his right eye was seriously injured when his horse fell on him.

DuBrock was playing No. 2 on the Valleybrook Polo and Hunt Club's four in a match with an Omaha four led by John Brandeis, at the Valleybrook field on Ventura Boulevard near Fulton avenue. DuBrock was riding Isaac Smith off the ball when his horse fell with and on him, knocking him out. He was taken to Dr. W. C. Trauber's private hospital, and it was announced that he would be incapacitated for several months, though not permanently.

Regarded as a promising young polo player, DuBrock has played in numerous Southern California matches. He is a son of the proprietor of the DuBrock Riding Academy and is 22 years of age.

Gunman Slayers of La Verne Girl Still at Large

Efforts to trace the slayers of Miss Marguerite Olivares, 16-year-old La Verne high-school girl, were redoubled yesterday by Deputy Sheriffs Mendoza and Vejar following a Coroner's inquest.

Miss Olivares was fatally wounded Sunday evening while riding with friends on E street, one-half mile south of La Verne. She died Tuesday in Pomona Valley Hospital.

According to deputy sheriffs, the girl was shot by one of three young Mexicans who drove by the car in which the girl was riding and fired four shots as they passed. One of the bullets struck the girl in the neck.

GOLDEN RULE PLAN AIDED

Meeting at Chamber Building Outlines Campaign for Promoting Inglewood Man's Proposal

A campaign to put the Golden Rule in practice, not only in the home and in the place of business, but on the highway as well, was explained at a meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms last evening by Edison Hornady of Inglewood, founder of the World's Parents' and Teachers' Golden Rule Plan.

Courtesy on the road, doing to others as one would be done by, Mr. Hornady explained, will cut the accident and death toll of the State and nation to a minimum and will bring about a change of social conditions wherever it is observed.

A number of business men and friends gathered last night at the Chamber of Commerce rooms to formulate a plan to back Mr. Hornady in putting his ideas of the interpretation of the Golden Rule before the public. The speaker said he is awaiting the backing to put before the world this Golden Rule plan. He said he has worked for three years on the idea without renumeration, that he has embodied his ideas in a textbook and that he is hopeful of getting the necessary funds to start the publication of the first edition, after which he hopes that the work will be self-supporting. After discussion it was decided to call another meeting at a time and place set by Mr. Hornady, at which time organization will be perfected and financial backing for the issuing of the Golden Rule book will be asked for and obtained.

CREED OUTLINED

The movement is nonsectarian and nonpolitical and knows neither race nor creed, its founder stated.

"The creed of the Golden Rule should be taught in the home to the child the same as he is taught addition," the speaker said. "It should be made a fundamental thing in its life for as the child is taught so will it be when it becomes older. In business, too, it should be practiced and in my Golden Rule plan I have written what I conceive to be the correct application for a workaday world.

"I plan to have stickers printed to be pasted on automobiles on which will be emblazoned the device that the owner of the machine is a believer in road courtesy and that he is willing to share the road with his neighbor. Most of the accidents are caused by discourtesy. I firmly believe that an organized effort to be courteous and to practice the Golden Rule on the road will result in a cut of our death tolls.

"First, I would get the budding autoist in the home, where he will be taught the principles of the Golden Rule. When he grows up he will not be a menace to society."

WORLD MOVEMENT

Mr. Hornady said that Mexican and Japanese newspapers in Los Angeles have offered to translate his Golden Rule plan into the languages of their respective countries as soon as the book is printed.

"It will be a world-wide movement. Churches have promised to help and so have the radio broadcasting stations here. There will be a special day set when all the preachers of the community will deliver a sermon on the Golden Rule plan," Mr. Hornady said.

He said that the world headquarters will be in Los Angeles and that the offices will be located in the Chamber of Commerce Building.

STAR TO SPEAK TWO TONGUES

"Big Pond," With Chevalier Also in French

Schildkrauts Will be Teamed in Sabatini Film

Vera Reynolds Slated to Sign With R.-K.-O.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

It is quite inevitable that certain talking pictures will be made in several languages, especially where the star is an important international favorite.

Therefore it is not surprising that, to meet the demand of the French screen public for Maurice Chevalier's starring vehicles, his next Paramount starring picture, "The Big Pond," will be filmed simultaneously in both French and English dialogue.

Making the two versions simultaneously will be something of an experiment, but seems to Paramount the logical way to work in order to save time and money. Work on the picture will commence about November 15.

It is the plan of the production executives to secure a leading woman for the picture who can speak both languages. Other members of the cast also may be bilingual, though it is thought probable that the minor roles in the French version will be filled by specially selected French actors.

SCHILDKRAUT WILL BE SABATINI HERO

Unless something goes amiss, Joseph Schildkraut, Universal star, will appear in Sabatini's "The Tyrant," according to word just received.

In the picture will appear Schildkraut's father, that very splendid actor, Rudolf Schildkraut.

Sabatini's story will give Schilkraut, who is now starring in Universal's newspaper yarn, "Out to Kill," with John Robertson directing a splendid acting opportunity. Schildkraut's work in his present picture is said to top even his characterization in "Show Boat."

Rudolph Schildkraut at present is making a German talking version for Pathe of one of his former silent pictures, "A Ship Comes In."

Vera Reynolds With R.-K.-O.

Though just at present Vera Reynolds is staying at home like a good little housewife, looking after the comforts of her husband, Robert Ellis, she isn't retiring permanently. Instead, we understand that Miss Reynolds will sign a contract with R.-K.-O. to play ingenue leads.

Miss Reynolds was formerly a Pathe star. She dropped out of pictures when she married Ellis, but now feels like returning.

In the meantime she and her husband are having their Hollywood home remodeled.

John Mack Brown Vacations

Unless a very excellent part indeed turns up for Johnny Mack Brown to play, this engaging young actor is going to take a vacation as soon as he completes his leading role opposite Mary Nolan in Universal's film talking version of "Ropes."

Brown and his wife, and of course, the baby, are going to motor to Yosemite, which is about the only spot in California which the actor has not visited.

Natalie Joyce to Honolulu

And speaking of vacations, Natalie Joyce, as soon as she finishes work in her current picture, is to go to Honolulu, accompanied by a relative or two. She expects to be away several weeks.

Whiteman Arrives Tomorrow

It won't be long now before we have a chance to see Paul Whiteman on the screen. The popular musician will arrive in town tomorrow, having left Chicago last night for Hollywood.

Work will be commenced, as soon as he arrives, on the revue which Universal will make with Whiteman and his band as stars.

Gribbon in New Story

Mack Sennett is going to make a prohibition comedy, ticklish as the subject may be.

Harry Gribbon, now starring in a prize fight short-reeler, called "Upper-Cut O'Brien," for Sennett, will star.

Bert Swor, of the former vaudeville team of Swor and Mack, is playing a featured role in "Upper-Cut O'Brien."

Fox Notables Here

Al Rockett and Ned Marin, who have been in Europe, arrived in Hollywood last night.

Rockett recently broke off connections with First National to take a supervisorial position with Fox. Ned Marin still belongs to the First National writing forces.

And speaking of the arrival of Fox notables, Frank Borzage, who has been in Europe, will arrive in New York Tuesday on the Bremen, accompanied by Tom Barry.

MISS LEONARD SOUGHT

Since completing her roles in "Hurdy Gurdy" and "South Sea Rose" for Fox, Barbara Leonard is much in demand for parts in which foreign languages are required. She spoke three tongues in the former picture and sang a song in French for "South Sea Rose."

Palm Springs Hotel Leased

The new $350,000 Del Tahquitz Hotel at Palm Springs, designed by Pritzie Ridgeway, motion picture actress, has been leased for a period of five years to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Hamilton, according to an announcement made yesterday. The hostelry will be formally opened on November 9, next.

The Del Tahquitz will be the first European plan hotel at Palm Springs.

MRS. BEERS FUNERAL TODAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Louise Wilson Beers, mother of Prof. Catherine V. Beers of the department of zoology of the University of Southern California, will be conducted at 2 p.m. today in St. John's Episcopal Church, West Adams street, with Bishop W. B. Stevens officiating. Mrs. Beers died suddenly Tuesday evening at her home, 1152 West Thirty-fifth street. Honorary pallbearers will be Dr. Bruce M. Harrison, Dr George R. Johnstone, Dr. Howard De Forest, Dr. Francis M. Baldwin, Prof. Albert B. Ulrey and Prof. Andrew C. Life, all members of the zoology department.

GILBERT IS HERO IN GAY INTRIGUE

'His Glorious Night' Shows Brilliancy in Situations of Comedy

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

The burning sands of the desert are no hotter than shrub-bedecked gardens of a European vacationing place. And a sheik is still a sheik even though he may don the uniform of a hussar. So, in one of the newest of amorous adventures of the screen, we find the lady duly bundled up into the hero's arms, and transported romantically away, while the duenna—or what have you?—and the would-be enforcers of the law hopelessly look on.

Some such lipsticked and rouged appraisal as this is fitting to the picture starring Jack Gilbert, which is on view currently at Loew's State Theater, and which goes by the name of "His Glorious Night." It is based on a Ferenc Molnar play, which was, curiously enough, written for the films by Willard Mack. Add to that the circumstance that it was directed by Lionel Barrymore and one has an odd combination indeed—one that could only be discovered in the talkies of today and nowhere else.

At that, "His Glorious Night" is a diverting affair. The audience last evening chose not to take its love scenes too seriously—and there was therefore comedy aplenty. For the picture is amply supplied with natural evidences of mirth, besides those, perhaps, not wholly intended.

"His Glorious Night" is the story of a princess and a peasant-born suitor. It brings Gilbert's audible appearance in a madcap sort of role. He enacts a dashing officer, fascinator of the women, daring horseman, and devil-may-care romancer. He has fallen in love with a princess of icy mien, and she has been indiscreet, enough, to respond. He is presumably out of her social class. She is engaged to another. She is urged by her mother to rid herself of the peasant admirer, and duly does so in the frigid princess manner, only to discover that she is more deeply involved a little later, because the man is suspected of being a swindler.

All of this is very admirably told upon the screen and it is related in such a way that one can detect the influence of the invariably captivating Molnar technique. I have no doubt that in the adaptation the plot situations and dialogue have been broadened in order to increase their popular appeal, but nevertheless the film version remains a work of quality.

The polish of Barrymore in his capacity of director is evidenced in the brilliancy of the various scenes. They are sharp-pointed in their repartee, and resort to innuendoes that are stressed so as to be decidedly piquant.

I think that of the players that "His Glorious Night" introduces Nance O'Neill shows up in the most surprising light. One would scarcely have believed, in considering her past efforts and achievements, that she would suddenly shine forth as gifted with a striking sense of comedy values. Certainly she is, in her delivery of the lines and also in the action, responsible for an abundance of laughs.

Gilbert has not as yet hit quite the perfect note of intonation for the microphone, but, barring a certain over-resonant delivery of lines, his enunciation is crisp and fine. He is in his proper terrain in a portrayal of the snappy military sort, and it would appear that he will also make great headway in the talking medium in light comedy. The intelligence of his work is even more marked in sound than in silence.

Catherine Dale Owen achieves rather a melange of results in her performance. There is a quality that is exceedingly interesting about this girl, and it is both enhanced and to an extent marred by a tendency toward affectation. One can scarcely condemn this affectation utterly since it is in part the source of her appeal. She speaks lines with clear and effective intonation that is particularly promising.

There is a very worth-while performance by Gustav Von Seyffertitz as an obsequious and somewhat blundering colonel, while Hedda Hopper and Doris Hill both lend attractions. Well done are comedy portrayals by Richard Carle and Eva Dennison. Tyrrell Davis, Peter Cawthorne, Youcca Troubetzkoy are among others in the cast.

This picture is of a higher order than those usually presented on a weekly change program, and as such deserving of attention.

Ample contrast is afforded by the Fanchon and Marco Revue, which assumes to revive most of the "baby" songs that have been written in past years. The production is staged with the customary emphasis on the pictorial in settings and costumes, and various songsters and comedians go through a routine of divertissements that, for the most part, please.

Modern Portia Pleads Case

Charlotte Greenwood

The genial comedienne, seeks solace for the defendant in "She Couldn't Say No," which the Duffy players are presenting at El Capitan Theater.

"DRAKE CASE" COMES TO SCREEN

The case of Lulu Marks vs. the People of New York came up before a jury composed of the audience at the Boulevard Theater yesterday afternoon. Due to the fact that most of the onlookers were two jumps ahead of every situation in the plot . . . no verdict could be reached.

Although it is presented under the title, "The Drake Case," the principal mystery involves the question as to "just who is Lulu Marks?"

After being arrested and charged with murdering her employer . . . after being identified, presumably, as a notorious crook with a long prison record, Lulu proceeds to put a crimp in the style of justice by suffering in silence. Even the sly innuendos of the District Attorney can't "tear the mask" from Lulu's face.

"The Drake Case," as one assumes by its title, is a mystery . . . but one of the courtroom variety. The entire thing is solved a la Mary Dugan route. There are a number of scenes that call to mind all too clearly the story of the Follies beauty. Sister-love is replaced by mother-love . . . and the victim is a woman instead of a man. But in many of the episodes Lulu might well be called, Mary . . . and if you remember who was guilty in "Mary Dugan" . . . well, it's just a hint, anyway.

At any rate, the authors of "The Drake Case" have saved themselves a good deal of explaining by dragging in that time-worn and overworked situation, mistaken identity.

The lengthy cast is headed by the late Gladys Brockwell. Appearing in major supporting roles are Forrest Stanley, Robert Fraser, Doris Lloyd and Barbara Leonard. Charles Logue is responsible for the picture version and dialogue.

A clever Mickey Mouse Cartoon, "The Plowboy," and Fox Movietone News complete the program.

'Evangeline' to Give Star Best Film Portrayal

DOLORES DEL RIO

Not only does the celebrated star speak four different languages superbly, but she sings in these dialects as well and enjoys the distinction of being the first silent picture star to sing for either radio or phonograph records. Early in 1928, when the talking picture was such an experiment that few producers considered it seriously, Miss Del Rio sang over the first of the nation-wide broadcasts.

With the development of sound pictures, she will have opportunities to demonstrate her rare talent as a singer as well as an actress, and in "Evangeline," which Edwin Carewe has both produced and directed, she popular star sings a chansonette written by Marie Antonette, in French, and "Evangeline," the theme song.

Leader Starts Third Week at Million Dollar

With growing popularity, Joseph Cherniavsky opened his third week at the Million Dollar Theater. The first selection is an arrangement by Cherniavsky called "Wine Song Dance,", an oriental fantasy that is received with applause.

Cherniavsky and his classic-jazz band show how ably they can play classical composition when they offer "Melody in F," Rubinstein's famous composition. Frank Snodgrass sings "Waiting At the End of the Road," which receives a fine reception. Another pleasing offering was that of the Harmony Boys, singing "Over the Hills to Virginia" and a novelly selection "Slumbering Blues."

In completing the bill, S. M. Lazarus, managing director of the theater, secured the showing of "The Lady Lies," featuring the noted Broadway stars, Walter Huston and Claudette Colbert.

WORK RESUMED

Having completed her engagement in Harry Carroll's Revue at the Hollywood Music Box, Ann Greenway, vaudeville headliner and musical comedy favorite who was brought here by William Le Baron, vice-president of R.-K.-O., for appearance in Radio pictures, is preparing to resume her film work. Miss Greenway, who is under contract to R.-K.-O. has already made two notable film appearances for this studio, "Night Parade," and "Half Marriage," in both of which she appears as singer as well as actress, it is reported.

"SAP" WILL START SOON AT WARNERS

Horton Screen Comedy to Follow Al Jolson Vehicle Wednesday

"The Sap," Edward Everett Horton's latest Warner Brothers' Vitaphone comedy, will start at Warner Brothers' Hollywood Theater Wednesday. This announcement was made today by Max Shagrin, manager of the theater. The final showings of Al Jolson's latest picture, "Say It With Songs," will be on Tuesday.

Horton's latest comedy is adapted from the stage play of the same name by William Grew. It was directed by Archie L. Mayo, and the cast includes Franklin Pangborn, Patsy Ruth Miller, Edna Murphy, Alan Hale and Louise Carver.

Horton portrays a country bumpkin, and inventor who becomes president of the village bank, and the role is said to be ideally suited to his quaint comedy characterizations. The picture is expected to prove a worthy successor to his former comedy success, "The Hottentot."

CLARA BOW TROUPES AS SALESGIRL

Contest for Floorwalker Waged by Two Sisters at Paramount

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

Pity the poor working girl. "The Saturday Night Kid," a story of the department-store saleslady, was the Paramount studio's contribution yesterday to the playhouse which bears its name. It proved to be a sympathetic and pleasing talking version "in American" of that play by George Abbott and John V. A. Weaver, sometime known, on the stage and in silent film form, as "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em." Clara Bow, with whose trouping there is no fault to find, is its star.

The homely virtues of a story of this sort lend themselves admirably to reproduction via the sound medium. Couched in the argot of the day, "The Saturday Night Kid" is neither better nor worse than you would expect to find it; a simple narrative of sisters, sharing the same room in a seedy boarding-house and the same Ginsberg's Department Store. And that, if you were to ask Mr. Ginsberg, the proprietor, was exactly what he wanted—his employers as one big, happy family.

Both girls conceive a yen for the handsome floorwalker, played by James Hall. The bad sister, Jean Arthur, is not above petty thievery of several sorts; and her delinquencies are what make the story. Intrusted with the funds of the Ginsberg Welfare Committee, she places them in the slippery and unsteady hands of an old ne'er-do-well to bet on the horses. "On my word as a gentleman," he assures her, "this race is absolutely fixed."

When the money is lost she places the blame on her sister. (Miss Bow makes a pretty picture of outraged innocence; if there are still poor working girls to be pitied, I move that she be allowed to portray all of them.) Right, of course, triumphs in the end and the "fly" girl gets her man, the estimable floorwalker.

The "inspirational morning" at Ginsberg's, and the subsequent pageant, titled "Every Clerk," are amusing sequences in the best Wheeler style. "Every Clerk" is an allegory created by Miss Streeter—a vigilance committee of one—in which the sisters are called upon to impersonate Duty and Pleasure in pursuit of Every Clerk (Mr. Hall.) My one regret is that we are not allowed to see it performed.

Others in the cast are Edna May Oliver, Charles Sellon and Ethel Wales. Edward Sutherland directed.

The Paramount offers an ambitious vocal subject with Tito Schipa; a burlesque comedy, "The Spy," with Tom Howard, and Max Fletscher song cartoon—this one devoted to "Oh, You Beautiful Doll." Milton Charles, at the organ, plays and sings "Over and Over Again" and "Piccolo Pete."

STORE GIRL SINGS WAY TO ROMANCE

Alice White Displays Her Talents in First National Film at R.-K.-O.

BY JOHN SCOTT

The familiar warbling of the "Five and Ten" girl, who vends sheet music by virtue of her crooning vocal talents, is brought to the screen at the R.K.O. Theater this week, with Alice White, one of our most potent examples of flaming youth, on the singing end. "The Girl From Woolworth's" is a significant title, and the plot which follows is tried and true, but provides Miss White with plenty of opportunity to sing and dance, which is, after all, the most entertaining feature.

The First National Vitaphone picture, directed by William Beaudine, offers nothing startling in action or dialogue and includes several congenial supporting players who, besides a few rounds of fisticuffs over Alice's favor, make up a pleasing and routine background.

Patricia King, the "Dime Store Diana," portrayed by Miss White, and her room-mate, Rita Flynn, meet the hero, Charles Delaney, at a "whooper" party, during which Pat presents some delightful songs and Delaney toots vigorously on his saxophone. Patricia doesn't like Bill, the saxophonist, but Tillie (Miss Flynn) finds him measuring up to all standards of a permanent boy friend. So, quite naturally, Bill finds himself enamoured of Pat and starts winning her forthwith.

Through a series of minor incidents, such as the villain's attempts to turn Patricia from the straight and narrow path, the characters wend their way, and an accident with Bill the subject, brings them together for a happy ending. Patricia loses her position at the cabaret, owned by Lawrence Mayfield (Wheeler Oakman,) but she has Bill.

As heretofore mentioned, Miss White's songs and dances overshadow any other items of interest in the picture. She is possessed of a crooning and, if not extraordinary, at least exceedingly entertaining voice, and saves the film from the doldrums of trite situations.

Charles Delaney appears to advantage as Bill, the subway guard, who, incidentally, drives an automobile called "The Pride of the Bronx." Rita Flynn, as the co-worker of Miss White, has little to do but does that very well indeed. In fact, her bashfulness with Delaney and the situation resulting make one of the humorous high lights of the production.

Others in minor roles are Ben Hall, Gladden James, Bert Moorehouse and Patricia Caron. Faulty reproduction slowed the feature perceptibly yesterday, which is not unusual, since this seems to happen on first showings at any theater you care to name.

Charles Irwin continues as master of ceremonies, and introduces Ewing Eaton, a girl who dances and fiddles at the same time; Harrison and Dakin, comedians; Sylvia Shore and Light and Cook. The R.-K.-O. dancing girls are again in evidence, and a banjo solo features the efforts of the R.-K.-Olians.

History Repeats Itself in 'Gold Diggers' Film

Nancy Welford, the dainty little stage star who makes her talking-picture debut as Jerry in "Gold Diggers of Broadway," Warner Brothers' all-talking, all-color picture at the Warner Brothers' Downtown Theater, obtained her first stage experience as chorus girl understudy to Ann Pennington in George White's "Scandals of 1919."

Strangely enough, this situation is repeated in "Gold Diggers of Broadway." Miss Welford's characterization is that of an understudy to the star of the show, portrayed by Miss Pennington.

Born in London, Miss Welford came to the United States as a young girl and received her education in New York City. Her mother and father are both well-known English stage players. They are Dallas Welford, who at present is playing on Broadway with Mrs. Fiske, and Olive Loftus.

"Gold Diggers of Broadway" is now in its fourth week at Warner Brothers' Downtown Theater.

Pangborn Plans Unique Contest

Marjorie Rambeau's fans are to have the opportunity to choose her next starring vehicle through arrangements just made by Franklin Pangborn, who is staging "What A Woman Wants," starring the noted actress, at the Vine-street Theater.

The lessee-producer has made arrangement for ballots to be passed out at every performance with which patrons may indicate what they would like to see her appear in next. These will furnish the basis for the selection of the next vehicle in which she will be starred at the Vine street.

The roster of Miss Rambeau's plays includes "Merely Mary Ann," "Girl of the Golden West," "Kick In," "Their Market Value," "So Much For So Much," "Pierre of the Plains," "The Price," "Kindling," "The Deserter," and many others.

Rogell Adds to "Desire" Cast

"Desire" has been selected as the title for the next film to be directed by Al Rogell, who has been responsible for many feature attractions. Arthur Stone, versatile comedian, having entirely recovered from his operation, will lend a brightness to the Color-Art production.

Another important name has been added to the cast, that of Ian Maclaren, who portrayed the Christ in the recent Pilgrimage Play. Others cast for more or less important roles are Von Brinckman and Joe Bonimo. Jean Hersholt, Eleanor Boardman and Ralph Forbes have the featured parts.

BRUNETTE VOICE NOTED

Catherine Dale Owen is one blond with a brunette voice. Miss Owen is playing the leading role opposite John Gilbert in "Olympia." This is her screen debut. In fact, she came to Hollywood after several successful years on the New York stage especially to play in the Gilbert film.

FITTS AND DAVIS FORM ALLIANCE

Co-operate to Suppress Dope Menace

Intensive Campaign Begun Against Peddlers

Prosecutor Organizes New Narcotic Squad

Complete co-operation between the District Attorney's office and the Los Angeles Police Department was pledged yesterday by Dist.-Atty. Fitts and Police Chief Davis in an intensive campaign against narcotic peddlers in this city.

This statement was made by both the District Attorney and the Chief of Police following a conference held in Mr. Fitts's office, to discuss plans for future operations of narcotic investigators.

With the sentencing of Hymie Cohen to San Quentin prison for violation of the State narcotic law after he had pleaded guilty, one of the largest narcotic rings in California has been broken, according to Chief Davis.

Cohen was arrested by detectives operating under Tom O'Brien, chief of the District Attorney's bureau of investigation, and Harry Seager, chief of the police narcotic detail.

Following Cohen's sentence, Dist.-Atty. Fitts formed a special narcotic detail, headed by Charles Bright, veteran executive in Federal narcotic work.

This new detail will co-operate in every possible way with the police narcotic squad in stamping out the drug evil in Los Angeles, according to Dist.-Atty. Fitts.

PREACHER AND AIDE FREE ON CHARGE OF NUISANCE

Rev. H. Brown Mitchell, pastor, and Mrs. Jessie L. Stark, assistant pastor of the Immanuel Full Gospel Church, 923 West Forty-first Drive, were found not guilty by Municipal Judge Stutsman yesterday of maintaining a nuisance by conducting the so-called "Holy Roller" religious services in the edifice. The court handed down his decision after hearing more than a score of witnesses.

Mrs. H. C. Ferestad, owner of an apartment house at 922 West Forty-first street, who signed the complaint, asserted that she was unable to keep her apartments rented on account of the noise from the church. W. A. Blumenschein, owner of an apartment at 916 West Forty-first Drive, testified he had the same trouble, and that one of his tenants has notified him he will move at the end of the month for that reason.

Mitchell and Mrs. Starke, the main witnesses for the defense, declared the services are conducted in accord with their beliefs. Mrs. Starke, owner of the church building, said double doors and windows have been installed in the prayer rooms to abate the noise as much as possible.

HALLOWE'EN PROGRAM PASSES

With the approval of the Playground an Recreation Commission an extensive program for the celebration of Hallowe'en on the thirty-five playgrounds in Los Angeles is being prepared. At last year's celebrations on city playgrounds attendance was 54,000 and this year the program is to be enlarged.

CULT SPOUSE'S CLOTHES FOUND

Sammie Rizzio's Property Traced by Brother

Letter from Missing Man Declared Forgery

Mother of Willa Rhoads Seeks Girl's Body

The clothes and traveling bag of Sammie Rizzio, missing husband of a woman "priestess" in the Great Eleven cult, were found a few days after he was supposed to have "gone away" and taken his belongings with him.

On this information, revealed by Frank Rizzio, Sammie's brother, police and District-Attorney's investigators followed a new thread last night in the tangle surrounding Sammie's strange disappearance from Los Angeles five years ago.

It strengthened the officers' belief that Rizzio met with foul play after he struck his wife, who cultists believed was one of the biblical "messengers" and that whoever should strike her would be punished by death.

WORKED FOR "QUEEN MAY"

Frank Rizzio told Detective Lieutenant Condaffer of the police homicide detail, and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Kearney that he went to work for Mrs. May Otis Blackburn, jailed "Queen May" of the cult, following his brother's disappearance.

"I didn't believe them when they told me Sammie had left of his own accord, so I took a job as chauffeur to find out what I could," Frank told the investigators.

"A few days after I started I found Sammie's grip and clothes. Mrs. Blackburn had told me that Sammie took all his things, this grip and $20. When I showed her what I had found she just said, 'Well, maybe Sammie is coming back.' I think he's dead or being held prisoner."

That an undated letter, purporting to come from Rizzio a few days after he disappeared, and explaining to his wife his reason for leaving, was not written by Rizzio, but by Mrs. Rizzio, was the belief expressed by Kearney last night.

Rizzio's disappearance came to light during the investigation which followed discovery two weeks ago of the body of Willa Rhoads, 16-year-old cult member. Previously to its burial beneath the bedroom floor at the family bungalow in Venice, it had been preserved in salt and ice for three years by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rhoads, Willa's foster parents.

Mrs. Rhoads yesterday called on Coroner Nance and asked for Willa's body. Chemical tests still are being conducted on it and it will not be released until these are completed, probably within a week, Nance stated.

SEPARATE FROM DOGS

It was understood in the Coroner's office that Mrs. Rhoads also wants the bodies of the seven dogs which were buried alongside that of Willa's in a separate coffin. These were supposed to become the seven hinges of Willa's heart when Mrs. Rhoads believed the daughter would come to life again.

An attempt may be made, it was reported at the Coroner's office, to bury the dogs again with Willa. Coroner Nance stated that this would be illegal and that the dogs will have to be placed in an animal cemetery or cremated.

They are considered by Mrs. Blackburn to be "sacred," although Mrs. Jennie "Grandma" Blackburn confessed to chloroforming two of them. They represent the seven notes in the scale and are part of a cult "concord."

FURNITURE TAKEN

"The Lord's furniture set" and other appointments were taken from the cult's Santa Susana headquarters by Ventura county deputies yesterday. The property, valued at $20,000, was attached by Clifford Dabney, former cultist and Beverly Hills oil man, in one of the suits he has brought against Mrs. Blackburn to recover approximately $40,000 for which he asserts he received only the title "hereafter and now."

Mrs. Blackburn faces trial on twelve counts of grand theft on complaint of Dabney. She is in the County Jail, unable to make $10,000 bond. Her daughter, Mrs. Rizzio, was freed of the same charges at a preliminary hearing last Tuesday.

PLANE TOUR WILL BOOST SHOW HERE

Junior Chamber Expects Sixty Ships to Hop Off in Cavalcade November 4

A cavalcade of airships, it was announced yesterday by officials of the Western Aircraft Show, will leave the Metropolitan Airport at Van Nuys on November 4, next, for a three-day tour of California.

Sixty ships will be in the flight, according to M. E. McCreery of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, in charge of the tour. Thirty-seven already have contracted to make the tour.

Heading the list of those entered, the Travel Air Airplane Company will be represented with eight ships.

The tour was organized, according to Cliff Henderson, managing director of the Western Aircraft Show, for the purpose of furthering interest in the show to be held here from November 9 to 17. The flight will be under the command of C. F. Leinesch.

Vera Dawn Walker is the first pilot to enter. The only other woman entry to date is Florence Lowe Barnes. Both were prominent in the recent race to Cleveland.

Approximately 120 persons will make the tour, according to Henderson. The planes on taking off will be released according to power and speed.

STREET SURVEY REQUESTED

Council yesterday received from the City Planning Commission the recommendation that instructions be issued to make accurate surveys for the opening of new Temple street, inasmuch as the location of the proposed Federal Building hinges on the situation of the street.

CHILD EXPECTED TO BE FILM STAR

Mitzi Green

For the first time in the history of its long existence the Paramount studio has placed under long-term contract a juvenile actress with the signing of Mitzi Green, 8 years of age, according to announcement made yesterday by Jesse L. Lasky, vice-president in charge of production.

The contract, which becomes effective January 1, was awarded to the child as a result of her outstanding work in her first attempt at talking pictures, "The Marriage Playground." She had never before appeared in pictures. When her performance was seen on completion of the production, officials tendered the contract in the belief she will be a new screen favorite.

Mitzi is the daughter of Joe Keno and Rosie Green, vaudeville performers, and the child herself has had her name in the electric lights over the entire Orpheum circuit. She began her professional career at the age of 6 when a vaudeville scout saw her in impersonations at Brighton Beach, New York.

Representatives of Espee and Property Owners Protest Widening

The City Council yesterday continued until November 19 the hearing of protests against the widening of the alley east of Santa Fe avenue and south of Seventh street, which is occupied by a spur track of the Southern Pacific. In doing so, the Council permitted the State Railroad Commission an opportunity to carry out threats of suspending service on the line. E. R. Young, representing property owners, and Frank Karr, representing the railroad, protested against the widening, denying the contention that a dangerous condition exists and offering the fact that a 75 per cent protest has been filed against the project. The cost of the improvement was variously estimated at from $68,000 to $200,000.

Assessments were confirmed for the opening and extending of Murietta avenue between Collins street and Chandler Boulevard and for the opening and extending of Dunn Drive from Tabor street to Venice Boulevard.

Protests were denied against the installation of sewers in the Eldred-street and Granada-street district.

Protests against the improvement of Imperial Way from Pico Boulevard to Bundy Drive were continued until November 15 and protests against the Carmelina-avenue and Anita-avenue tree-planting district were continued until November 18.

Investigation of Temple Books Delayed Again

Postponement of the proposed investigation of the books of Angelus Temple by the District Attorney's office was announced yesterday by Chief Trial Deputy Daniel Beecher. Two women witnesses whose presence here is vital to the investigation have been delayed in their arrival in Los Angeles and the examination will not be started until they are here, he said.

Dr. John Goben, deposed assistant pastor of Angelus Temple, who placed the books of the church organization in the hands of the District Attorney and asked for an investigation of the finances of Aimee Semple McPherson, telephoned Deputy Beecher yesterday that he had received word from the two women who were expected to be here last Tuesday. He assured the official that the delay is unavoidable and promised the women will be here soon.

Dr. Goben, following his dismissal by Mrs. McPherson, has been leader in a revolt of California Four Square churches, Pasadena, Lomita, Whittier and Santa Ana withdrawing from the organization.

TINY LOS ANGELES "PRO" TIES FOR LEAD WITH 142

Midwick Star Shatters Course Mark at Sunset Fields With 68; Final Thirty-six Holes on Today;

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE

He'll never swing a golf club again was the verdict passed on Vic Dalberto, tiny playing "pro" of the Los Angeles Country Club, just a year ago as he painfully galleried local tournaments on crutches, wistfully watching others play the game he had conquered despite his five-foot, three-inch stature.

Last fall Vic went out to shoot birdies during the duck season, and returned home with a foot full of shotgun pellets, but he completely reversed the procedure yesterday by holing little white pellets from all over Sunset Fields to bag his birdies—this time without casualty.

Doctors labored to put Vic's foot together again, but even they didn't know whether or not he would walk again until three months after the accident.

GIDSON DUNLAP

MISSES PUTT

It was the same "Half Pint" Vic, with just a bit of a limp to indicate a past injury, who failed to sink a difficult eight-foot, down-hill putt on the eighteenth green yesterday afternoon. That was the narrow margin by which Dalberto missed leading Southern California's 1929 open golf championship at the thirty-six-hole mark, as he had the putt for a 68. His final putt, however, still gave him a very respectable two-day total of 73-69—142, and the honor of tying Fred Morrison of Midwick, 74-68—142; and Eric Seavall of California, 73-69—142, for first place.

The open reaches its climax today with ten golfers, eight professionals and two amateurs, separated by three strokes. Those who will go into the final thirty-six holes of play, eighteen this morning and eighteen this afternoon, with a chance to win, are Charley Guest, 72-71—143; Olin Dutra of Brentwood, 70-74—144; Cecil Smith of San Diego, 71-73—144; Willie Hunter of Montebello Park, 72-73—145; Gibson Dunlap of Riviera, 71-74—145; Chet Beer of Bak-

BRUINS TACKLE CALTECH

Bill Spaulding's U.C.L.A. Gridders Favored Over Engineers in Rose Bowl Battle Tonight

Under the powerful arcs of the Pasadena Rose Bowl at 8:15 tonight, Caltech and the University of California at Los Angeles will meet for their annual football argument in the fourth and final night game of major consequence scheduled for after-supper play this season.

Interest in the night game promises another big fan throng tonight, and, although U.C.L.A. is considered the favorite to win, it's a safe venture the contest will be closely fought and well worth desertion of the family fireside to witness.

BILL SPAULDING

Coach Bill Spaulding of the Bruins is sending his men into tonight's affair with all seriousness. He knows Fox Stanton's uncanny faculty of dumping teams that rate much higher than his own, and is taking no chances on an upset. He will present his strongest line-up at the kick-off this evening.

Stanton would like nothing better than to defeat the Bruins. In nine years of competition, Caltech has won six, tied one, and lost two to U.C.L.A. After a tie game in 1926 the Bruins succeeded in capturing the 1927 and 1928 games. The Bruins should win again tonight, but not without an argument.

In Stanton's backfield will be two men who have improved with

EAST ANXIOUS TO SEE LOM

Atlantic Coast Fans Await Start of California Battle With Pennsylvania; Harvard Tackles Army as Dartmouth Meets Unbeaten Columbia

BY WALTER TRUMBULL

(Copyright, 1929, by the North American Newspaper Alliance)

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Pick tomorrow's football winners and earn yourself the title of a first-class prophet. California, Southern California and Stanford are usually the big elevens of the Pacific Coast. Washington is about the only team that trims any of them, and this season Washington isn't so much.

DENNY LOM.

Stanford came to New York last autumn and massacred the Army. Moreover, while we had been warned to look out for certain backs on the Stanford team, Pop Warner trotted out a lot of other backs unknown to easterners and these unknowns all looked almost as good as Chris Cagle and when you say that about a ball carrier, you have said plenty.

So, now that California is about to play Pennsylvania, we are told to save both eyes for Benny Lom. Benny is advertised as one of those great western backs who can run like the Mississippi in flood time, dodge like a witness at a Senate inquiry, and kick like a dissatisfied customer trying to get his money back. It may be so.

OTHER STARS

But I—for my part—shall keep at least one eye in action for some of those other backs. If this team is anything like Stanford, there will, at some point in the contest, be an upheaval on the bench where the substitutes are parked and the blanket will be taken off some bull moose measuring six feet to the shoulders and with a record for the 100 yards of 9 3-5s. Or else a full-grown jack rabbit, holding the world's record for leaping wide and handsome will be produced. Yes, sir, I'll keep an eye on Benny Lom, but I shall not be surprised to see other performers aside from Benny.

This is said by some to be a great California eleven and by others to be not so good. Pennsylvania had better be prepared for a tough opponent. In no form of athletics has the West been sending any set-ups

TROJANS SET FOR OXY

Jones Constructs Defense for Use Against Tigers in Game at Coliseum Tomorrow

BY BRAVEN DYER

Pausing in his preparations for Stanford to give a few thoughts to tomorrow's game with Occidental College, Howard Jones yesterday set up a defense for the Trojan varsity to use against the Tigers from Eagle Rock.

Jones saw Occidental in the first game of the year at the Rose Bowl and knows just what to expect from the Bengals, so had no trouble lining up what he considers a good defense against the formations being used by Eddie Keinholz.

DON MOSES

The Tigers have revealed considerable power this year and if it should be properly aimed tomorrow the Trojans are in for a real battle. Keinholz has been doing quite a bit of experimenting with his quarterbacks and hopes that the team will

GOING NORTH

Only light work is in prospect today. Jones will go north with Sam Barry and Clif Herd tonight to see Stanford play Oregon State at Palo Alto. Bill Hunter will run the varsity and plans to start Duffield, Musick, Pinckert and either Edelson or Moses. Moses, as related yesterday, is now being used at inside halfback. This serves a double purpose. Don has never been a good blocker and in this position he does nothing else but. He'll have to learn how to block or drop by the wayside.

On the other hand, if Don comes through in good style, Jones will have effectively built up three strong men—Edelson and Apsit—for the inside halfback position. Moses can al-

California-Pennsylvania Game Is Country's Leading Intersectional Contest Tomorrow

JONES PICKS BEARS OVER EASTERN GRIDIRON FOES

Roper Also Selects Pacific Coast Squad to Conquer Rivals; Army and Harvard in Yearly Tilt

BY HOWARD JONES
Football Coach, University of Southern California.
[Copyright, 1929, by North American Newspaper Alliance]

Chief interest this week centers around the California-Pennsylvania game in Philadelphia and the Idaho-Oregon contest at Portland. Washington State and Washington should also have a close game, but both teams are out of the running for the Coast championship.

California and Pennsylvania go into their game on practically even terms. Two years ago Pennsylvania visited the Pacific Coast and was beaten by the Golden Bears in a post-season game.

HOWARD JONES

Eastern fans will get a chance to look at one of the best punters on the Pacific Coast in Leon of California. He has not done much carrying the ball this year, but is a good passer and may outdo himself against Pennsylvania.

Roy Riegels, center and captain of the Golden Bears, will no doubt be closely watched by eastern fans who will remember him because of that unfortunate incident in the New Year's Day game at Pasadena. They will see in him a good, football player, one of the best centers in the West and a capable leader.

USED PASSES

Coach Price had to resort to passes to beat Washington State, 14 to 0, last Saturday and it is safe to assume that he will employ an aerial attack to some extent against Pennsylvania.

Stanford is an overwhelming favorite to defeat Oregon State, although Paul Schissler's team is showing steady improvement. Stanford has too much reserve strength for Oregon State and in addition will outweigh the Northwesterners many pounds to the man.

Washington State appears to be a bit stronger than Washington, although the Huskies are always dangerous as long as they have Merle Hufford in the game. This should be a close game and Washington can win if the Huskies play heads-up football for sixty minutes.

Oregon and Idaho ought to battle it out to the last quarter with very little difference between the two teams. Oregon has more experienced men and will probably pack more weight than the Vandals. However, Idaho showed strength Saturday in defeating Montana, 19 to 0, and Oregon will need plenty of stuff to win.

The game pits Pederson, Idaho's best back, against Kitsmiller, Oregon's star ball carrier, in a battle that should be interesting to watch.

The University of California at Los Angeles should defeat California Tech in a night game Friday evening.

Occidental will be Southern California's opponent Saturday and I expect my team to win. My choices are:

California-Pennsylvania: California to win unless Pennsylvania gets too many breaks.
Oregon State vs. Stanford: Stanford by at least four touchdowns.
Washington State vs. Washington: Hard one to pick, probably Washington State.
Oregon vs. Idaho: Oregon should be favored, but I look for Idaho to put up a great fight and perhaps spring a surprise.
U.C.L.A. vs. California Tech: U.C.L.A. without much trouble.
Southern California vs. Occidental: Southern California should win.

BEARS TO WIN, DECLARES ROPER

BY W. W. ROPER
Princeton Football Coach
[By the North American Newspaper Alliance.]

TRENTON (N. J.) Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—There are several very interesting outstanding games tomorrow. The most noteworthy are Yale-Brown, Harvard-Army, Pennsylvania-California, Dartmouth-Columbia, Princeton-Cornell and Penn State-N.Y.U.

Yale, after a hard trip south, no doubt feels the effects of the Georgia game, but coming back to a more bracing climate and stung by defeat, will probably play a good game and should defeat Brown.

Unquestionably, the Pennsylvania-California game is the biggest battle of the week. These intersectional games are always interesting and Franklin Field should be packed.

Pennsylvania has not been up to the mark this year. Lou Young has lost several star players, and it is hard to get just the right men to fill the vacancies. California is strong and I pick it to win, but it will be a close game, interesting to watch. Somehow the western teams seem to stand the journey east much better than the eastern teams do the trip west.

The Harvard-Army game should be close and very interesting. Harvard seems to have a powerful team with a good overhead game and should win. The Army, however, always has a strong team and still has Cagle. It will not be easy for either side.

From all accounts, both Dartmouth and Columbia are stronger than usual, and their game tomorrow should be close, with Dartmouth coming out on top. Both teams have been running up large scores, but neither has had a hard test so far.

N.Y.U., playing in New York, should defeat Penn State. Suffering under their defeat of 26-0 by Fordham, the New York team will come back strong. N.Y.U. has two powerful backs in La Mark and Follet, and if their line can open holes these two can make the scores.

Navy meets Duke at Annapolis and should have no trouble. Syracuse should have little trouble with Johns Hopkins. Pittsburgh is in Lincoln to meet Nebraska. Pittsburgh should win, though Nebraska will put up a good fight. Pittsburgh has one of the strongest lines in the country, with a powerful, versatile backfield.

Carnegie Tech and Washington and Jefferson play at Pittsburgh and I pick Carnegie. They have an exceptionally heavy team, though Washington and Jefferson also has good material. It should be a good game.

Virginia meets a real rival, Virginia Military Institute, at Charlottesville, and should come out the victor. It will be a good contest. Georgia Tech plays Florida at Atlanta. Both teams are strong, but I pick Georgia to win.

Birmingham will see the strong Vanderbilt team play Alabama Poly and Vanderbilt should be the victor. Texas should defeat Oklahoma at Dallas, and I look for a close game between Tennessee and Alabama at Knoxville. Loyola should beat Mississippi at New Orleans.

The Georgia-South Carolina game should be close. Carolina has a fine team and of course Georgia's exhibition against Yale stamps them as one of the powerful teams of the country, although Georgia is bound to have a let-down after the Yale victory.

The game between Princeton and Cornell at Ithaca will be close. Cornell ran up a big score against Hampden-Sydney last Saturday, showing that the team has scoring strength, and so far Princeton has shown nothing. The Princeton team looks big and strong, and though they have a number of injured players, including their captain who will not play tomorrow, if they get going they should be able to show something. My choices are:

EAST

Penn-California: Close—California.
Harvard-Army: Close—Harvard.
Princeton-Cornell: Close—Princeton.
Yale-Brown: Close—Yale.
Navy-Duke: Navy.
Dartmouth-Columbia: Close—Dartmouth.
Syracuse-Johns Hopkins: Syracuse.
Penn State-N. Y. U.: N.Y.U.
Pittsburgh-Nebraska: Pitt.
Carnegie Tech-Washington Jefferson: Carnegie.
Georgetown-W. Va. Wesleyan: Georgetown.
Fordham-Holy Cross: Fordham.
Lafayette-Bucknell: Lafayette.
Lehigh-St. John's, Brooklyn: Lehigh.
Williams-Hobart: Williams.
Amherst-Hamilton: Amherst.
Boston College-Dayton: Boston College.
Temple-Western Maryland: Western Maryland.
Villanova-Catholic University: Villanova.

SOUTH

Virginia-Virginia Military Institute: Virginia.
Georgia Tech-Florida: Georgia Tech.
Georgia-North Carolina: Close—North Carolina.
Alabama Poly-Vanderbilt: Vanderbilt.
Texas-Oklahoma: Texas.
Tennessee-Alabama: Close.
Loyola-Mississippi: Loyola.

URBANA, Oct. 17.—There is no tougher spot on the schedule for the coach than when he must match an undefeated team against a strong opponent who has been defeated earlier, possibly because the breaks went against him. This is the danger that lurks for Illinois in the Iowa game.

Burt Ingwersen has a powerful team which lost to Ohio State largely because of the breaks, for the Hawkeyes failed to gain the point after touchdown, and lost another touchdown by an offside penalty. Again, Capt. Glasgow, of Iowa, was not able to play. I saw Glasgow in action against Illinois two years ago, and I know he is one of the best. If he is able to play against Illinois, as expected, Iowa will be much stronger than against Ohio State.

Iowa, with Glasgow back and the flaws of the Ohio State game corrected, may bump us off, but if they do it will not be because the Illinois coaching staff held the Hawkeyes lightly. I expect a hard, close battle.

Northwestern beat Wisconsin largely because the Badger line was off color, but they will run up against another kind of line in Minnesota—one that will be aggressive on defense and take the fight to the opponent. Northwestern lost a fine all-around back in Bruder, whose injury in the Wisconsin game put him out for the season, and Coach Hanley cannot replace him. My guess is the Gophers.

The Missouri Valley spotlight will be on Pittsburgh-Nebraska at Lincoln. Last year Nebraska and Pitt played a scoreless tie, but my guess is that Pitt will triumph this time. The eastern team seems a better scorer.

The only valley game which will have a bearing on the Big Six championship will be the Kansas-Kansas Aggies meeting. I saw Kansas at Illinois and the Jayhawkers seemed to have a promising personnel, which will improve with experience. They should win. My choices:

Illinois—Iowa: A tough, close battle.
Minnesota—Northwestern: Minnesota.
Northwestern cannot replace Bruder.
Wisconsin—Notre Dame: Notre Dame.
Wisconsin's line as it played against Northwestern will be ineffectual.
Michigan—Ohio State: Michigan. 'Ware the wolverine when he's out for blood.
Indiana—Colgate: Colgate. The Hoosiers have taken two lickings and will hardly have the pep.
Chicago—Ripon, Purdue-Depauw: Layoffs for the big teams.
Nebraska—Pittsburgh: Pittsburgh. The easterners seem better scorers.
Missouri—Drake: Missouri. The Tigers have the reserves.
Iowa State—Marquette (today:) Iowa State.
Grinnell—Washington University: Grinnell.
Oklahoma Aggies—Creighton (today:) Creighton.
Kansas—Kansas Aggies: Kansas. Two Jayhawkers have some likely sophomores, notably Fullback Bauer.
Oklahoma—Texas: Texas.

Deception and Power Feature Penn's Attack

BY SOL METZGER

Some Red and Blue back would love nothing better than to be able to shout tomorrow afternoon at Franklin Field, "California, here I come!" That Philadelphia game is going to be a corker. It's the first time the Golden Bears ever played in the East and it is the biggest chance Penn will have for fame this season.

Coach Lou Young's attack combines deception with power. There isn't the power there this year that was present last with Paul Scull at fullback. So California will have to worry most about deception.

One deceptive play that Young's cohorts will likely pull is a fake forward pass. No. 1 takes the ball from center and backs up, holding the ball aloft as though to throw a pass. This stunt tends to hold back the defensive backs. Also, it permits back No. 6 and lineman No. 5 to swing around ahead of No 1. As they do No. 1 slides in behind them and slips off around the defensive left end.

LION SQUAD IS SHIFTED BY DRIVER

Loyola Mentor Changes Line-up for Tomorrow's Game With Firemen

In an effort to add more strength to his eleven, Coach Bill Driver of Loyola University yesterday made several important changes in his first string line-up. With these changes the Lion mentor hopes to present a powerful squad which should overwhelm the Los Angeles Firemen at Wrigley Field tomorrow.

Driver is trying desperately to form a smoothly running backfield that will work with the strong line. During the past week he has been trying many combinations, hoping to uncover a pair of sturdy ball carriers. However, the best ball carriers he has found as yet, who will probably start tomorrow, are Capt. Bernie Donahue and Carl Reid, halves; Whitey Hoffman, quarterback; and Jim Strutsel, full.

The outstanding change Driver has made is replacing Joyce by Joe Casey at center. Both men are good players with plenty of experience behind them, and the ability of the two seems a toss-up. Joyce is the heavier, with a powerful charge, and is a hard, sure tackle. On the other hand Casey is very light, but is fast and deceptive, which are qualities that help make a good center. Driver's change came after the Arizona game in which Casey seemed to be the only star on the line.

Another replacement, which takes the appearance of being a very drastic move was the shifting of Kliefal to the first string at left tackle in place of Ted Sargent. Kliefel is former Poly High star, an all-city tackle for three years. He is the heaviest man on the entire Loyola aggregation, weighing in the vicinity of 190 pounds.

On the other hand, Sargent was the best and most consistent lineman on Mike Pecarovich's squad last year. He was even mentioned on a couple of all-Pacific Coast teams. He is a natural born fighter and is always a constant threat to the opponents. However, the change is made and only Saturday's game will tell which is the better player.

Tomorrow's game is scheduled to start at 2:30 o'clock. Both teams are on edge for this battle and seem about evenly matched, so a hard fight is promised.

and battered, but standing on his feet just the same.

In the semifinal bout Primo Carnera, Italian giant, won a technical knockout over Jack Stanley, English heavyweight, the referee stopping the one-sided fight in the first round. Carnera floored the Britisher four times.

SEATTLE MISSES RECORD

In dropping 135 contests during the 1929 season the Seattle ball club missed by a single defeat the league record established by Portland in 1904 and tied by Oakland in 1916. The Oakland club was defeated 133 times during the 1914 season, while Portland lost 134 games in 1921. Seattle occupied sixth position in the league standings during the first two weeks of the 1929 season and then spent the remaining twenty-six weeks in either seventh or eighth place.

ornfield, 73-72—145, and Leo Diegel of Agua Caliente, 72-73—145.

MANY FEATURES

Dalberto's spectacular golf—he was five under even fours going to the seventeenth hole—featured a day full of features.

Morrison, who has been rapidly approaching the peak of his game, established a new course record with his 34-34—68. The new mark replaces that set by Johnny Rodgers of Denver in the qualifying round for the Los Angeles $10,000 open last year.

Seavall furnished the third surprise by playing splendid golf to pace the field. Eric, formerly a professional at Minneapolis, is now caddiemaster at the California Country Club under Tom Stevens. He looms as a dangerous contender, as he has a sound game and is not likely to crack.

It was Vic, however, who furnished the sensation of the day. Playing with Diegel and Coleman, he led the threesome practically all of the way around.

Seven pars and two birdies gave the diminutive Los Angeles professional a 34 going out. Dalberto parred the first two holes coming in and birdied the ricky twelfth.

On the 480 yard, par 5, thirteenth, Vic laid a beautiful full spoon shot two inches from the pin for an eagle 3. He was on the green with a forty-foot putt on the 200-yard fourteenth, but three putted. On fifteenth his mashie niblick was stiff to the pin and he dropped a putt for a birdie 3 to be six under fours.

MISSES 67

A par 4 on the 390-yard sixteenth, one of the most difficult holes on the course, gave Vic two pars for a 67. On seventeen Dalberto outdrove both Coleman and Diegel. He Had an easy spoon left to the green, which he almost missed, the ball bounding along the ground a bare hundred yards. Vic then attempted a mashie niblick shot off hard ground, but the shot was short and the ball dribbled into a trap. His out was way over the green, and for a brief space it looked like Vic has "blown the works." His chip shot coming back stopped dead five feet from the pin and he sank the putt for a 6.

Dalberto was short with his second again on the home hole. He was on in three and down in two for his 69.

The tournament still appears to be anybody's and the golfer who shoots a hot third round this morning will be sitting in a nice spot. Personally, we rather favor the long hitting Morrison. Fred is putting now, his one weakness, and should be hard to stop. Guest is right up there where he will be dangerous, and the defending titleholder, "Wee Willie" Hunter, is not unlikely to come through with a couple of par smashing rounds.

LEADERS PAIRED

Those who care to get the inside dope should gallery the favorites today. The leaders have all been paired and will play in threesomes. The morning round is scheduled for 9 o'clock and the afternoon round shortly before one.

Following are the starting times for today:

9:00—Frank Munally, Paul Rooney, Ray Turfs.
9:06—Harry Pressler, Paul Scott, Clyde Bannon.
9:12—Tom Stevens, Curley Freeman, Leroy Coleman.

TROJANS SHOW DRIVING POWER

Southern California Eleven Has Averaged 6.4 Yards per Play This Season and Ranks Second to Dartmouth Among Nation's Leading Scoring Squads

BY M. B. RICE
Football Statistician

With conditioning games behind them, all conferences are swinging into normal stride and in all sections the highway of ambition is strewn with the wreckage of abandoned hopes.

The usual power centers are performing up to expectation. Midseason form on defense is the rule, rather than the exception.

Unusually high scores among the usual high-scoring teams feature this season's play so far, but the swing into stiffer opposition will necessarily lower the averages considerably. Darting, and in some cases unorthodox, offense has served to bring many colleges into the limelight at this early stage of the game. In equally as many cases, a dependence on stiff defense without a correspondingly clever offense has wiped many colleges off the national football map with undeserved defeats.

Twenty-one major colleges out of a list of fifty have already tasted defeat and many more will be relegated to the list of also rans before another week rolls by.

Among major colleges there remain, but ten with perfectly clean slates—Carnegie Tech, Dartmouth, Detroit, Fordham, Harvard, Illinois, Kentucky, Lafayette, Missouri and Texas.

The list of colleges with only one touchdown scored against them is surprisingly small for the number of games played. There are fifteen, to be exact, including Alabama, California, Columbia, Florida, Georgetown, Iowa, Louisiana State, Minnesota, Nebraska, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Penn State, Stanford, Southern California and Washington and Jefferson.

The undefeated and untied list shows Alabama, Army, Carnegie Tech, Chicago, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Florida, Fordham, Harvard, Illinois, Kentucky, Lafayette, Louisiana State, Minnesota, Northwestern, Ohio State, Pennsylvania, Penn State, Pittsburgh, Purdue, Southern California, Stanford, Tennessee, Texas University, Texas Aggies, Tulane and Washington and Jefferson.

Prominent college elevens to have already felt the sting of defeat include Brown, Colgate, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Navy, New York University, Oregon, Oregon State, Princeton, South Carolina, Southern Methodist, Syracuse, Vanderbilt, Washington, Washington State, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Yale.

Tied were Georgetown, Nebraska, California and Southern Methodist. The latter three played 0-0 games.

Schedule difficulties present an almost insurmountable barrier for most teams this season. Only by the greatest of luck can any major team survive the increasingly tough opposition. The teams surviving will be both proficient and lucky.

An instance of this great difficulty is seen in our own Pacific Coast Conference. At this time Montana, Oregon, Oregon State, U.C.L.A., Washington and Washington State have been decisively beaten and California tied in a 0-0 nonconference game. Only Idaho, Stanford and Southern California have emerged from this early season avalanche, which has enveloped so many powerful elevens.

This condition exists to a greater or lesser degree in nearly every conference. It seems that the time is upon us when there will be no eleven undefeated at the end of the season.

The strong centers of the 1929 football map will be the Middle West, Pacific Coast and the South. the eastern field generally is very weak. In the Middle West and Pacific Coast there are two strong contenders and there promises a free-for-all in the South. In the Middle West Illinois figures to repeat, with Northwestern a strong runner-up. In the Pacific Coast Conference, Stanford and Southern California are outstanding, with California a serious contender, if and when Nibs Price succeeds in building an offense comparable with California's defense. In the South, Alabama takes the limelight today but may be pushed into the discard by a dark horse—possibly the University of Kentucky. Florida occupies second position at this time, however, and must be given consideration.

Of the three strong centers, undoubtedly the national balance of power is on the Pacific Coast. The potential power of both Stanford and Southern California is pardonably unbelievable to eastern critics, who have had no opportunity of seeing the consistent performance and reserve strength of these two wonder teams. Intersectional games scheduled by Pacific Coast colleges this year will give eastern football enthusiasts plenty to think about. Stanford plays Army, California plays Pennsylvania and Southern California has scheduled Notre Dame and Carnegie Tech.

An instance of the driving power of Southern California's murderous offense may be seen in the fact that the Trojans have scored 145 points in three games so far this year, directed 340 plays from scrimmage for a total of 1535 yards and a season average of 6.4 yards per play. The staggering record was made wholly against conference competition. Four Trojan backs have averaged more than eight yards each time they carried the ball this season. Hill leads with 10.5 yards per try, Shaver is second with 8.9 yards, Saunders third with 8.1 and Duffield fourth with an even 8 yards per play. Fullback Musick in forty-nine plays has averaged 5.2 yards for each attempt.

Southern California has scored an average of 48.3 points in three scheduled conference games and allowed seven points to the opposition in the three games.

The following is a list of high-point teams in major conference circles:

	Games Played	Total Score	Opp'n Score	Av. Score per Game
Dartmouth	3	145	0	48.3
Southern California	3	145	7	48.3
Stanford	3	124	7	41.3
Syracuse	3	124	7	41.3
Louisiana State	3	123	13	41.0
Oregon State	3	123	14	41.0
Pittsburgh	3	122	0	40.6
Alabama	3	122	13	40.6
Cornell	3	122	14	40.6
Columbia	3	121	0	40.3

FOOTBALL FLASHES

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—Peace and quiet is evidently what Coach Paul Schissler of the Oregon State eleven wants for his men, so the invaders are staying at Pleasanton, bucolic east bay town, until the game with the Cardinals Saturday. O. S. C. arrived in Oakland tonight, and will come here for a workout tomorrow and then return to Pleasanton to spend until game time.

Schissler has the psychology figured as follows: Stanford always has a big game a week hence in the U.S.C. game. Oregon State is pointed for the Cards. Why not couple them over? Stanford is thinking of next week's assignment, and it is true that warped has worked him into a state of frenzy of thinking to the extent that they are beginning to be a little cuckoo on the subject, talking of nothing else, but if O.S.C. pulls a surprise, she will have to hoodwink a team which is right now being keyed up to play good hard football.

The forward pass, of which Stanford will get little else this Saturday, will be the following, was taken up in practice this afternoon. The Cards are stronger on reception of aerials, and Schissler's right half, who is noted for passing talent, has been shooting passes to Harlow Rothert during a part of the week. He got on some beautiful passes from the left side of the line of Cecil Dale of the Army and Joe Bush, right tackle, put out of the air unfailingly. Chuck Hamilton, who replaces Bush, is a fine wingman, rather than full, is a bit unaccustomed to plunging passes to the left side of the line, but will be given plenty of practice Saturday, according to Coach Warner. No chances are being taken with the right knee injury in his mates at right half either Guido Casileri or Phil Dimmitt will be used at the start. Casileri Arriman has shown signs of firing up this week-end and it looks as though he will be playing football tonight. Dimmitt looks fresh now on the day Thursday, his mate is much improved, also, probably starting Saturday, according to Coach Warner.

MOSCOW (Idaho) Oct. 17. (AP)—The Idaho Vandals, fresh from their victory session this afternoon before their entrained for Portland, where on Saturday they exceed the Oregon Aggies for the question of football supremacy in the Northwest this season.

Coach Lee Calland, whose adaptation of the Tennessee Hard tactics of Southern California, humbled the powerful University of Montana eleven, 19 to 0, last Saturday, has developed a new series of plays which he planned to reveal in Portland, and the Idaho practice today was all that was necessary to get them polished up.

With the elimination of the University of Washington from serious consideration for Northwest honors, and Idaho's unexpected strength in the three games already played, the Vandals have risen to second place, right behind Oregon. Oregon State and Washington State in the odds betting. A respectable showing against Oregon, rated a top 10 in this division, would enhance Idaho's standing, and it is for this that Calland has been working this week.

Calland expected to carry a full squad of twenty-eight players, including all his regulars, when he entrained tonight.

COUGARS SET FOR HUSKIES

PULLMAN (Wash.) Oct. 17. (AP)—The Washington State College campus already has assumed a big-game atmosphere in preparation for the home-coming contest with the University of Washington Huskies here Saturday.

While Coach Orin Hollingbery and his assistant, Buck Bailey, have been drilling the Cougars on the Huskies' soft spots, as developed in the games with the Montana Grizzlies and the strongs of Southern California, the student body has been mixing color for the game.

A celebration, which included music by the Washington State eighty-piece band and fife and drum corps and the Washington semi-precise band, with formations by 140 girls in colorful dress and a new repertory of rooting medicine was a high light on the program.

Preparations have been made to take care of 20,000 visitors, the largest football crowd in the history of the institution. Seattle and Spokane, Huskies' hometowns, as well as smaller delegations from any other cities, were expected to come.

BIG TEN TEAMS BOOK UP AGAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 17. (AP)—Bob Zuppke and his Illinois eleven passed the test and prepared to hit the next trail which may bring them their third straight Big Ten football championship.

Zuppke's squad regarded as possessing more power and strength than any he has groomed in a decade, pointed toward the Hoosier's best of the conference—Iowa City, home of Burt Ingwersen's dangerous University of Iowa eleven.

The same reserve, a thirty-year-old Illinois rivalry and despites the new $500,000 Iowa stadium. It is the first conference start of the year for the Illini, who fortified their Northwestern victory with a 19 to 0 win over Montana last Saturday.

CAMERAS BARRED AT IRISH CLASH

CHICAGO, Oct. 17. (AP)—Rival scouts will have to do without close-up action pictures of the Wisconsin-Notre Dame football game at Soldier Field Saturday. At the request of Notre Dame, no movie or newspaper photographers will be permitted on the sidelines during the contest. As soon as the game starts, they will be stationed on temporary platforms far away from the playing field.

ROMAN TILT AT WRIGLEY FIELD

Ball Park Selected for Prep Grid Clash

Pick Manual Over Franklin in Feature Game

Minor City League Starts Play Today

BY IRVING ECKHOFF

For those who care about it, the L. A. High-Lincoln football clash will be played at Wrigley Field this afternoon. The definite location was decided on after much discussion yesterday by Roman and Tiger officials. The game was originally scheduled for the Coliseum, but at a late hour, something came up to change the complexion of things and and game was switched to Wrigley Field.

JIM BLEWETT

The feature prep battle of the day, the Manual Arts-Franklin struggle, is slated to start at 3 p.m. on the Tollers' field. The third game of the afternoon will find the Poly Mechanics out at Jefferson.

Coach Jim Blewett's Tollers should beat Franklin according to all the dope but sometimes the best of dope goes wrong. At the least, however, Franklin is sure of bettering the score made against them last year, when the Tollers triumphed 47-0.

One point in Manual's favor is that Blewett has quite a number of capable reserves to call on, while Coach Hess of Franklin, when his regulars tire, is just out of luck for good substitutes, except in a couple of scattered cases.

It was generally conceded yesterday by prep fans that even if Chuck Gabriels fails to start the game, he is sure of seeing service before the end of the battle. Hammy Rhein is filling in for Gabriels at present in the starting line-up.

In the Wrigley Field fracas, Lincoln will take the field as the underdog, while the Romans are counting heavily on reversing last year's score of 6-0. Bresee has brought his eleven along slowly, bringing matters to a head last week with a 40-0 victory over the supposedly strong Belmont eleven.

Coach Vic Kelley's Redskins are picked to wallop Poly, which has already tasted defeat at Manual's hands last week.

With a title contender sure of falling by the wayside in the first round of play, the Minor City League gets under way today. Coach Clark DeGroot's defending champs, the Roosevelt Rough Riders, take on their most determined foe, the Fremont Pathfinders, in the feature game of the day. The other two contests will find Garfield at University and Fairfax at Belmont.

Today's prep schedule:

MAJOR CITY
Poly at Hollywood.
Los Angeles at Lincoln (Wrigley Field.)
Franklin at Manual.

MINOR CITY
Garfield at University.
Fremont at Roosevelt.
Fairfax at Belmont.

FOOTHILL
Monrovia at Fullerton.
South Pasadena at Muir.
Glendora at Whittier.
Burbank, bye.

BAY LEAGUE
Wilson at San Pedro.
Redondo at Compton.
Hawthorne at Park at Venice.
Inglewood at Santa Monica.

MARINE LEAGUE
Jordan at Narbonne.
Banning at Washington.
Chaffey at Gardena.
Hilo at Torrance.

ORANGE COUNTY
Huntington Beach at Brea.
Fullerton at Orange.
Garden Grove at Anaheim.
Tustin, bye.

SAN GABRIEL
Downey at El Monte.
Pomona at Citrus.
Montebello, bye.

SAN FERNANDO
North Hollywood at Owensmouth.
San Fernando at Van Nuys.
Eagle Rock at Beverly Hills.

CITRUS BELT
Riverside at Redlands.
Chaffey at Pomona.
San Bernardino, bye.

OTHER GAMES
Covina vs. Whittier frosh.
Harvard vs. Alhambra.
Cal-Christian frosh at Pacific.

HOLLYWOOD NOSES OUT POLY LIGHTIES, 13-12

Coach Boris Pash's Hollywood lightweights handed Coach Bell's Polytechnic midgets a 13-to-12 defeat yesterday, in a hard-fought game on Dunn Field. It was a fast and furious affair which was featured by the Shieks' staging a last-quarter rally to nose out a victory from the Mechanics. Poly was the first to score, putting the ball across in the second period on a series of line bucks, Grushiman making the tally. Olson missed the kick. The last quarter was a boon for the Movieiads, starting the period with a touchdown, and converting via the end-run method. Near the end of the game Hollywood repeated with another tally as a result of some brilliant playing on the part of the Sheiks. Conversion failed. With twenty seconds to play, Starr, Poly quarterback, threw a 30-yard pass to Marena, which resulted in his running 40 yards to a touchdown. The attempt for the extra point failed on an incomplete pass. The line-ups:

Polytechnic.		Hollywood.
Olson	L.E.R.	Kahn
Hammond	L.T.R.	Terry
Allen	L.G.R.	Leonard
Moore	C.	Spencer
Ouzze	R.G.L.	Davis
Wagner	R.T.L.	Marquis
Cota	R.E.L.	Brundage
Starr	Q.	Montana
Robertson	L.H.R.	Danziger
Kalionses	R.H.L.	Bradley
Grusman	F.	Verduzco

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Polytechnic	0	6	0	6	12
Hollywood	0	0	13	0	13

Touchdowns: Grusman, Verduzco. Danziger, Cota. Extra point: Bradley.

Officials: Haney, referee; Toney, umpire; Freeman, head linesman.

RABBIT PUNCHES

A TOUGH SITUATION

CONSIDER the sad case of Mr. Thomas Kennedy, the man who discovered Ace Hudkins but who has been a pal of Mickey Walker for many years. What will be his emotions when the pair enter the ring to battle for the world's middleweight title the evening of the 29th inst.? Whom will he pull for—Walker to retain his title or Hudkins to capture it?

It was nearly five years ago that Mr. Kennedy, then matchmaker at the Hollywood Legion Stadium, started a skinny, hungry-looking kid named Ace Hudkins on his way to fame and fortune.

Mr. Kennedy saw great possibilities in the newcomer. The skinny kid was a lightweight, and Mr. Kennedy made matches for him as carefully as he would for his own son. The kid had a ne plus ultra fighting heart, and along with it natural boxing instinct. The hungry kid's rise is history.

As the months passed Mr. Kennedy parted relations with the Hollywood Stadium, but he still retained his interest in the hungry kid. Often he was in his corner in local fights. He was the chief second the night the hungry kid, then grown to welterweight size, was to have fought Joe Dundee for the 147-pound crown.

Dundee didn't fight. He failed to show up. But Mr. Kennedy arose in all his manly glory and claimed the championship for Hudkins because Dundee wasn't there and Hudkins was.

"During all these years I've always had a hunch Ace would be a champion," says Mr. Kennedy. "He grew out of the lightweight class too quickly to make the grade there, but I thought sure he had a title in his grasp the night he was to have fought Dundee. But Dundee ducked when his guarantee wasn't in the house, and it looks now as if my hunch will either make or break when Ace and Mickey meet.

"But, gosh, what are you going to do in a case like that—one is my pal, the other I've watched over like a son?"

FIGHT BALLYHOO

JACK DOYLE was talking steam-ups with Jack Kearns the other day, fight ballyhoo if you please.

Mr. Doyle was led into the discussion because he thought the newspapers of this fair city of ours have not been delivering the proper amount of reading material on the Walker-Hudkins fight to the consumer.

All Mr. Doyle wants is the editorial section and the complete sports section filled with stories and pictures having to do with the impending battle.

"Why," said Mr. Doyle to Mr. Kearns, "these darned sports editors in this city don't appreciate what a titanic is being staged at Wrigley Field the 29th inst.

"It is absolutely the biggest fight in the country. Leaving Dempsey's name out of the picture there isn't a heavyweight fight that can be staged anywhere in the country the equal of this for interest and real class. Although only middleweights Walker and Hudkins have nine-tenths of the heavyweights backed off the boards for real class."

And then Mr. Doyle came back to his original point—fight ballyhoo.

"Years ago," he said, "Ad Wolgast was fighting Danny Webster.

"One afternoon Wolgast was sauntering down Spring street, and he ran across Webster.

"'Hey, come on out to my camp this afternoon,' Ad said to Webster. 'You've got nothing to do and I'm out of sparring partners.'

"And the funny part of it," concluded Doyle, "was that Wolgast was perfectly serious about the matter. It was no rib with him.

"It made a great story—and it was all true."

A THREE-TIME WIN?

NOW that little Nibs Price and the Golden Bears have met President Hoover they should get out on that gridiron at Franklin Field tomorrow and kick the daylights out of Pennsylvania.

That will be another big boost for Pacific Coast football and a three-time win for the Bears over Penn.

Andy Smith's last team at California—the 1923 eleven—turned in the first victory over the Quakers January 1, 1925.

Nibs Price's 1927 team repeated.

Now it's up to the 1929 Bears to carry on.

MORE NIGHT STUFF

NIGHT football, which seems to have been firmly established in these parts through the three games Occidental played in the Rose Bowl this fall, is to be given another rendition tonight.

U.C.L.A. and Caltech are the participants, and the game will afford some comparison between the weakest of the Pacific Coast Conference teams and one of the Southern Conference teams.

However, there is some indication that Caltech is subpar this year. The Engineers were beaten by Arizona five touchdowns to none while Occidental succumbed only two touchdowns to one.

COMPARISONS IN ORDER

TOMORROW'S game at Palo Alto between Stanford and Oregon State will be watched with interest by a lot of folks, including Mr. Howard Harding Jones, who goes north tonight to personally scout his old gridiron enemy, Mr. Glenn Scobey Warner.

Unless necessary Mr. Warner undoubtedly will not trot out much for Mr. Jones's edification.

And it is unlikely that it will be necessary.

Mr. Jones's boys only beat Oregon State 21 to 7, but they scored all those points in one quarter—the second—and called it a day.

POMONA PLAYS POET GRIDMEN

Whittier and Sagehens Clash Tomorrow Afternoon

Nixon's Eleven is Favorite to Capture Tilt

Poke Hartman and Putman May Cop Spotlight

POKE HARTMAN

Back in 1921 a mighty Poet team led by the line-smashing Ed Suggett easily bowled over every team in the Southern Conference to establish itself as champions. But that was eight years ago. And eight years ago was the last time that a Poet team defeated a Pomona team, for, although the Whittier boys have been favored several times, they have never been able to break that jinx that has hung over their heads. Last year was an example. The Poets were supposed to have a winning team and went into the Sagehen game much the favorite and came out on the small end of a 14-to-0 score.

This year the same old rivalry exists. Each team is worried. They clash tomorrow at Claremont. The dope has them on a par, with a slight favoritism due to Pomona because of her 69-to-0 victor over LaVerne and her past record against the Poets. But when it comes to putting up the money odds aren't asked.

SLICK OFFENSE

The Sagehens probably have the slickest offense on passing that has ever been displayed in this conference, while the Whittier boys stand out with a mighty weak defense for this line of attack. San Diego scored on the Poets through this attack and the weak California Christian team managed to put over two touchdowns by the same method. If the Poets are weak anywhere, it's in keeping those old passes from completion. But a passer has to have enough time to get his throws off, and the strong forward wall of the Poets may be able to rush Hartman enough to break his accuracy.

The Poets are given the edge so far as the line goes, putting on the field a veteran line that will average better than 173 pounds and all of them veterans of at least one season. The Sagehens present a lighter gang and nearly all green men. Neither San Diego nor California Christian was able to break through the strong Poet line and it is doubted if any team in this conference will make anything trying to smash between the tackles.

In Alfe Putman and Poke Hartman the Sagehens have a pair of backs that are due to be a menace to any team. Hartman was a star two years ago, was an all-Conference man last year, so he will be plenty of trouble in the tripie-threat column. Putman was the star of last year's Sagehen-Poet fray, so he kind of has the boys buffaloed to start with.

Coach Wallace (Chief) Newman with a reputation behind him that is mighty impressive is going to put a team on the field Saturday that will need a lot of good hard football thrown at them if they are going to meet defeat. Newman says that no Pomona team will ever beat him eight years in a row so he's starting out this year to prove it. This week he has been working out a mighty sweet passing offense with big Clif Ograin in the sending role, and if he has to resort to that kind of game is going to give the Sagehens some of their own medicine.

Jobe, signal caller for the Poets has been out most of the week with a bad leg and it is doubtful if he will start Saturday. If not, he will be replaced by Edwards, a husky sophomore who showed that he knew how the old game was played by his performance last Saturday against the California Christian Panthers. Walker and Payne looked so impressive so far this season that it is hard to feature them being held, and it will take a mighty powerful team to do the trick. Both are going to be candidates for all-conference berths this season. They averaged 4 yards at a crack for every time they took the ball in the San Diego game, and nearly doubled that in the California Christian fray, so it is a pretty safe wager to say that they are consistent enough to keep up that average.

STIFF TILT LOOMS

So it comes down to a few bare facts. That Saturday is going to find two fairly even teams fighting it out for the lead in conference standing. That two famous backs are going to match skill with two equally famous backs. That a veteran line is going to meet a light, yet hard-fighting line. And last, whichever team wins is going to have to play some mighty sweet football and will know that they've done something when they get through.

YANKEES' NEW BOSS

Have a look at Bob Shawkey, veteran right-hand hurler, and, during the recently completed season, coach of the Yankee pitchers, who succeeds the late Miller Huggins as manager of the New York Americans. The announcement of Shawkey's appointment as manager by Col. Ruppert created quite a surprise in the ranks of baseball followers. [P. & A. photo]

jetics for 1912 delivery, and optioned to Baltimore for that season and 1913. Recalled from the Orioles in midseason of 1913, Bob fitted into the championship picture so well that he remained under the big top until 1928, when he obtained his unconditional release that he might sign with Montreal.

The Yankees obtained Shawkey from the Athletics in midseason of the first Ruppert-Huston campaign in 1915. Jack Warhop, E. S. Cotirell and a fat check were turned over to Connie Mack for Bob's release.

TROJANS READY FOR OCCIDENTAL

ways be shifted to fullback if necessary, but at the rate Musick and Hill are traveling it hardly seems likely that Don will be needed. Fans who know Don's true worth as a footballer are pulling for him to make good in his new position.

Troy's line will include Wilcox and Arbelbide as ends, Hall and Seitz as tackles, Capt. Barragar and Galloway in the guard berths and Dye at center. Jones has decided to give Frank Anthony, veteran right tackle, a rest over the week-end. Anthony, a three-year regular, is one of the steadiest men on the Trojan team and has earned a layoff.

FROSH DUE

Stanford's frosh team, slated to meet the Trojan babes at 12:30 tomorrow, arrive here this morning. This team has not shown too well this year. In this respect the Stanford yearlings are much like Aubrey Devine's boys, so the game ought to be a pretty even one.

Strangler Lewis, who wrestles Gus Sonnenberg at the Olympic next Wednesday night, was among those present at Bovard Field yesterday, Lewis donned George Dye's uniform, it being the only one that would fit him, and received instructions from Jones and Jess Hibbs as to how to stop Sonnenberg's flying tackle. Big Ed weighs 240 in a football suit and would make a bone-crushing tackle. The Strangler is a high-class fellow and made a big hit with players and spectators at yesterday's workout.

EAST ANXIOUS TO VIEW LOM

east. California always has had the reputation of being a fine defensive team. If Penn had entertained them last season, the strength of this defense would certainly have been tried. It may be tried tomorrow, but, however strong Penn may be, it isn't any stronger through having lost Scull, Shober and a few more of last year's stars. If this Penn team beats California, it will deserve a great deal of credit.

Meanwhile, at Cambridge, Harvard will play the Army and, in spite of Chris Cagle, the chances of the Crimson are highly regarded. Unless outsmarted, Harvard should win tomorrow and go on to a fine season. Still, an Army team coached by Biff Jones never is beaten until the final whistle sounds. This is one of those games which will have a big bearing on the final rating of the elevens involved. It should give the winner a lot of confidence.

Dartmouth, with Marsters and other good backs, fine ends and a powerful line, ordinarily would be an overwhelming favorite over Columbia, but this season Columbia has shown far more promise than at any time in recent years. If the breaks are even, Dartmouth should have quite a battle on its hands, in spite of the fact that the Green looks to be a great eleven.

New York University may have benefited a lot from its defeat by Fordham, but it is tackling a rugged opponent in Penn State. New York's best chance is that it has had a hard contest, while Penn State has not yet met an opponent in its own class.

Holy Cross, meeting Fordham, has that advantage always enjoyed by a team meeting an opponent which has recently played a fine game and is likely to suffer a reaction. But, on the surface of things, Fordham should be the winner.

BROWN VS. YALE

Brown was lucky to beat Princeton, but luck is with the contestant game enough to force it, and Yale cannot afford to hold Brown lightly. Yale doesn't look as strong as Princeton, but it should have too much reserve power for Brown, unless the latter has another of those teams of destiny.

Princeton certainly has more good looking material than Cornell, but must get more out of it than it has to date to beat the Ithaca eleven. The Cornell team may at least be depended upon to give all it has.

The Pittsburgh-Nebraska game should be a hummer. Pitt looks like a great eleven. This game should demonstrate whether it is as good as it looks.

SERVICE GAME ON SUNDAY

West Coast Army Football Squad Tangles With Marine Corps Eleven at Coliseum

BY FRANK ROCHE

Los Angeles among other things of note will have its own annual service football game. The initial contest will be staged Sunday afternoon at the Coliseum when the West Coast Army eleven and the West Coast Marine Corps lock horns. Permission to stage the game was obtained from Maj.-Gen. John Hines, commander of the Ninth Army Corps.

One thousand marines and 500 soldiers from Fort McArthur will parade before the game, service officials in charge of the tilt announced yesterday.

LT. FARWICK

The game will be an annual affair providing the people of Los Angeles want it, the West Coast Army officers in charge stated.

A number of all-American players, who starred at West Point, will strut their stuff before local fans. Lieut. Louis Hammack and Lieut. Farwick, who won football fame while at the Army academy on the Hudson River, are slated to play with the army eleven. Lieut. Farwick besides playing with the Army team does their coaching. He was an all-American center during his football days at West Point.

Johnny Blewett, one of the athletic Blewetts, of Los Angeles, is the coach of the marine squad. He is bringing a crackerjack team from the San Diego base of the leathernecks for the game here, according to the advance dope.

Army and marine officials pointed out yesterday that the Los Angeles game will rank on the top with other service tilts now being staged. They declared that inasmuch as the Army-Navy game was not being held and with the Quantico Marines out of the running the tilt here will be one of the high spots in service circles.

There is one other service game on the Coast at present. That takes place on Armistice Day at San Francisco. The Navy plays the West Coast Army team in that game.

The army and marines will bring their bands here for the game to add color to the affair. The marine band is sixty five in number. A special drill by the marines will be staged between halves.

The line-ups announced:

West Coast Army		Marine Corps
Barnes	L.E.R.	Behemaker
Walsh	L.T.R.	Lambert
Barker	L.G.R.	Somerberg
Eastland	C.	Craig
Hammaek	R.G.R.	Connor

WANERS SIGN EARLY

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17. (AP)—Paul and Lloyd Waner, brother outfielders of the Pittsburgh National League baseball club, have signed contracts for the 1930 season, club officials announced today. The Waners both were holdouts until the spring training season was well under way this year.

STARS LEAD SCORING

Hollywood not only won the Coast League pennant this year, but the team also tallied more times than any other club in the circuit. The Missions and San Francisco exceeded the Stars in safe hits, which only goes to show that Oscar Vitt's boys were more on the alert once they reached the initial sack.

SEVEN TIE GAMES

Coast League ball clubs competed in 914 games during the 1929 season. Of this large number of games played, only seven ended in tied scores.

Take It Back

The phone rang and the busy boss said: "Take the message and give it to me when I come back from lunch, will you Miss Divine?"

When he came in and hung up his hat he was amazed to have the stenographer come up to him and plant a resounding kiss upon his mouth.

Before he could say anything she said, "That was your little daughter on the phone, sir," and she resumed her typing.

Meusel Sold to Cincinnati

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—Bob Meusel, veteran outfielder who has been with the New York Yankees since 1920, has been sold outright to the Cincinnati Reds after all clubs in the American League had waived on his services, it was announced today at the office of the Yankees. Meusel is a Californian.

The oldest member of the Yankees in point of service, he is the second American League veteran to be sent to Cincinnati in as many days. Harry Heilmann, Detroit heavy hitter, was released to the Reds Tuesday as the first move in Dan Howley's program of reorganization at Cincinnati.

Although a good hitter, Meusel was benched late this season in favor of young Sam Byrd. His passing as a member of the Yanks occasioned little surprise, but it had been expected that if he was to go he would be used in a trade calculated to strengthen the former champions for the next campaign.

GERMAN SPRINTER CLAIMS NEW MARK

SEOUL (Korea) Oct. 17. (AP)—Eldracher, German sprinter, won the 100-meter dash in an international track-and-field meet between Germany and Japan here today in 10 3-10s., claiming a new world's record.

A second world's record was claimed by Miss Kinuye Hitomi of Japan, who won the women's 100 meters in 12s. flat.

The present recognized world's record for 100 meters is 10.4s., set by Charlie Paddock, the American speedster, in 1921. The women's mark now on the books is 12.2s. jointly held by Miss Hitomi and Miss Elizabeth Robinson of Chicago.

SQUASH FINALS TO BE STAGED TODAY

Finals in the junior national A. A. U. doubles squash-handball tournament will be played at the Los Angeles Athletic Club at 5 o'clock this afternoon between Willard Mullin and Bob Ackley of the L. A. A. C. and Aubrey Jones and Wilson Jones of the University Club.

Ackley and Mullin won their way into the finals by eliminating McWilliams and Hopper of Hollywood A. C., while Jones and Jones trimmed Hal Vanco and DeForrest Horne of the Mercury Club. The junior doubles tourney is the first of a series of national squash meets for local clubs this fall. The series will wind up with the feature senior singles at the L.A.A.C., November 11-15.

Do you Want Punch— or Paunch?

Take your choice. If you want punch take care of your body, because it sustains the brain, gives it good or impure blood depending on your physical condition. Poor blood means poor thinking.

SAN PEDRO POUNDS WILSON BABES, 14-6

LONG BEACH, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—Holly Adams's powerful Class B eleven of San Pedro High, with an attack resembling that of U.S.C. to minute detail, today crushed the Wilson High middleweights under a 14-6 score. Chavez scored from the 3-yard line on a plunge in the first quarter and Wallace duplicated in the third. A 30-yard pass followed by a 30-yard run for a touchdown, gave Wilson its lone score in the second canto, the pass going from Deeble to Bruce. Koda and Grille literally tore the Wilson line to shreds with their power plays off tackle. The line-ups:

Wilson (6)		San Pedro (14)
Perry	L.E.R.	Beamont
Wells	L.T.R.	Ludwig
Parker	L.G.R.	Green

RICHFIELD WINS IN EXTRA FRAME

Buster Smith gave the Richfield Oilers a 6-to-5 victory over the All-Stars at the Palais de Glace last night, when he skated the full length of the ice to net the puck in an overtime contest. The All-Stars rallied in the third period to score three goals, and tie the the count at 5-all, but Smith skated through the entire team for the needed point. Smith and Dewar featured for the winners.

FREMONT BABES BEAT ROOSEVELT BEES, 12-0

Coach Irvin Tanner's powerful Fremont lightweight football team beat Tony Galindo's Roosevelt Class B eleven, 12-0, yesterday in the first league game of the season played on the Pathfinders' gridiron. MILITIA CHIEFS PLAN DEFENSE

National Guard Association Opens Session Here

Increase in Strength and Training Problems

Ball Entertainment Feature of Tonight's Program

The stars of major and brigadier generals, the eagles of colonels and the insignia of lieutenant colonels, majors and captains mingled fraternally yesterday when the annual convention of the National Guard Association of the United States opened at the Ambassador, with approximately 300 delegates from practically every State in the union present. Military decorations, many of them won in the trenches of France, glittered from the breasts of scores of the ranking officers who responded to the roll call by States when Brig.-Gen. Ellard A. Walsh, of Minnesota, called the opening session to order.

MAJ.-GEN. DAVID P. BARROWS

The visiting State militia officers, many of whom hold high State or municipal office in their respective commonwealths, were welcomed to California and Los Angeles by Lieut.-Gov. Carnahan. Responding addresses were made by Brig.-Gen. Robert J. Travis of Georgia, for the association, and Brig.-Gen. Richard K. Mitchell, adjutant general of California, who spoke on behalf of the California National Guard.

SESSION ORGANIZES

The morning session was devoted to organization work, appointment of committees and announcements by the secretary, Lieut.-Col. Fred M. Waterbury of New York.

The address at the afternoon session by Maj.-Gen. David P. Barrows of Berkeley, commanding general, Fortieth Division, and former president of the University of California, was the outstanding feature of the day. The importance of the National Guard of the United States as a means of front-line defense was stressed by the speaker, who pointed out that, as a result of reductions in the regular army under peace-time conditions, there are only three divisions of this arm of national defense existing. It is, therefore, necessary that the forty divisions of the National Guard in the United States shall be trained intensively and kept up to a rigid standard, not only for national defense but for the handling of local disorders and for service in time of disaster, Gen. Barrows said.

TRAINING NEEDED

The speaker declared that one of the serious problems confronting the militia, and one which the convention may solve profitably is that of intensive training for the rank and file of the National Guard under existing conditions, which permit of only one meeting a week for guard units and two weeks out of the year for instruction in camp.

Letters and telegrams were read yesterday from Maj.-Gen. J. L. Hines, commander of the Ninth Corps Area, United States Army; Assistant Secretary of War Hurley and Walter C. Cole of Detroit, president of the National Reserve Officers' Association, expressing regrets that they cannot attend the convention.

INCREASE URGED

An important problem to come before the convention is that of increasing the present National Guard force from 177,000, its present figure, to 210,000 men. Other features of the National Defense Act also will be taken up and it was indicated yesterday that a number of resolutions growing out of discussion of these problems in committee will be submitted before the convention closes tomorrow.

The business sessions are being held in the Ambassador Theater auditorium, which has been given a military headquarters aspect with sentries on duty at the doors and in the corridors; with orderlies at "attention" near the speaker's stage and with the regimental colors of the One Hundred and Sixtieth California Regiment; "Los Angeles' own," prominently displayed.

ADDRESSES SCHEDULED

A feature of today's sessions will be an address by Maj.-Gen. Briant H. Wells, deputy chief of staff, United States Army, who will speak on "The War Department and the National Guard." Other speakers will be Maj.-Gen. William C. Everson, chief of the militia bureau, War Department, on "The Development of the National Guard," and Col. Alexander J. MacNabb, United States Army, who will speak on "The American Rifleman."

A special committee, headed by Maj.-Gen. Benson W. Hough of Ohio, is expected to report at the morning session on the National Guard as a component part of the United States Army.

Social features of the convention include a gathering at the Breakfast Club at 7:30 a.m. today, where the delegates will be the guests of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. Music will be furnished by the Hundred and Sixtieth Regiment band. A sports tea for ladies is scheduled at the Ambassador at 4 p.m. and tonight the military ball will be held in the Ambassador ballroom. The band of the Hundred and Sixtieth Regiment, under direction of Lieut. Harold W. Roberts, will provide music. Entertainment features supplied by West Coast Theaters are on the program.

TROJAN ATHLETES CHASE AND TAKE THEFT SUSPECT

Burglar chasing early yesterday made several University of Southern California athletes extend themselves before capturing a youth they accuse of ransacking the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity house at 904 West Twenty-eighth street. Their sprint rival gave his name as Wilfred Caron, 17 years of age, of 616 West Adams street, lately arrived from El Paso. He had burglarized frat houses all the way from Texas to the Trojan campus, police report he confessed. After questioning him detectives arrested his room-mate, Wallace T. Cleeters, 23. Both were booked on charges of suspicion of burglary.

John W. Baker, substitute left guard of the Thundering Herd, was awakened by sounds of an intruder in the house. He pounced on a youth, who eluded him in the dark and ran away. Baker aroused John Ward, substitute varsity right tackle; Lyman Beardsley and Joe Ward, captain-elect of the Trojan baseball team. This miniature Thundering Herd thundered in pursuit of the shadowy fugitive. At Severance and West Adams streets they tackled a runner who proved to be Caron.

Detective Lieutenants Gillian and Robinson of the University division searched Caron, finding five watches, five pocket combs and a quantity of fountain pens and cigarette lighters, and $83 cash. All of these articles were identified as having been taken from the fraternity house. Detectives say Caron admitted he had specialized in robbing fraternity houses. Cleeter refused to admit anything.

CITY WILL STOP FREE PARKING

Fee to be Charged For Use of Lot on South Broadway

The Council yesterday authorized the right of way and land agent to erect a $50 for lease sign on the city's lot at 1019 South Broadway, and to place a man there to collect from people who use it as an auto park.

It Won't Rain Today, Weather Bureau Thinks

Appearances to the contrary, Los Angeles and vicinity will not have rain today if the forecast of the United States Weather Bureau is to be borne out. Generally fair with normal temperature is the weather ticket prescribed by the government bureau for today and tomorrow.

Reaching a low figure of 60 deg. early yesterday morning, the temperature of the day varied upward until it reached 66, according to weather bureau records. So far this month traces of rain have been recorded on three occasions as compared to .29 inches of rain for October of last year, all of which had fallen before the 18th of the month.

Junior Chamber Hears Ray Knox

"A municipal government is not an end in itself but a means whereby the citizens, who create and maintain it, may best be served in all things conducive to social welfare," said Roy A. Knox, director of the Los Angeles City Bureau of Efficiency, in an address given yesterday before 300 members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Biltmore.

The next meeting of the junior chamber will be at noon, at the Biltmore, on the 31st inst., and will be devoted to a discussion of aviation.

DAMAGE CLAIM PRESENTED

The Southern California Telephone Company yesterday presented to Council a claim for $324 damages to its plant at West Fifth street and New Hampshire avenue, asserted to have been caused when the walls of an excavation in connection with the Sacatella storm drain gave way. The claim was referred to the City Attorney.

AIRPLANE NEWS EXCHANGE

(Not all the interesting and out-of-the-ordinary news of the day finds a place on crowded wires or wires. Every evening The Times conducts a news exchange by airplane. By Western Air Express, T.A.T. and Standard lines papers of current and yester date from pivotal cities are received. Washington, D. C., contributes the Star only two days from the press, Indianapolis and Chicago, thirty-six hours, Kansas City, Salt Lake and Phoenix are just halfway 'round the clock. Today's gleanings range in subject from an account of how they are burning up money in Washington, D. C., to the important announcement of a Salt Lake City man who studied barbering that he is returning to his old trade

MONEY BURNS

Washington (D. C.) Star, Oct. 15.

The business of destroying the old large size paper money as it comes in to be replaced by the new small size currency has thrown a big load on the machinery for destruction at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

The money is usually accounted for, cut into pieces and then destroyed in the macerator. The load now, however, has proved so heavy for the macerator that the incinerator at the bureau has been resorted to.

At one time the load threatened to be so heavy that consideration was given to the use of incinerators in other branches of the government here.

CHISELS

Salt Lake Tribune, Oct. 17.

That fingers make the gifted barber was demonstrated by Mike Buhack, former stone mason in the East and later coal miner of this district. After a hard day's work Mike often sat in a barber chair and mused over the soft snap the tonsorial artists had compared with his difficult tasks. The work appealed to Mike and he went to Denver to matriculate in a barber's college. Mike was enthused but when he was about to start into the higher algebra of haircutting he faltered; Mike's right thumb was abnormally developed. After a vain search it was learned there were no scissors in Denver to fit the coal miner's monstrous and unfashionable thumb. With no alternative, Mike gave up, and leaves for his old home in the East tonight.

JACKRABBITS

Arizona Republican, Oct. 17.

Plans for pushing the campaign against the jackrabbit on the basis of financial returns to the hunters are now being fostered by D. A. Gilchrist, rodent control leader for Arizona. He has just returned from the Graham County Fair at Safford, where he had a special exhibit in relation to the State's jackrabbit problem.

The local rodent control leader believes that many hunters will take up killing of jackrabbits as a serious pursuit since the market for the skins has become so attractive. He says that the ultimate destination of the pelts is varied, as they are made over into other furs. The principal use, however, is for making hat felt.

OH, BOY!

Kansas City Times, Oct. 17.

This is the season when pawpaws are ripe. This fruit grows to perfection along the creek and river bottoms in the Ozarks and many people are very fond of them. They are often called the "Missouri banana," and are a delicacy for those who delight in feasting on the luscious fruit. One must cultivate a taste for them, but after eating a few one becomes accustomed to the flavor and does not dread the large black seed. To those who have never tasted pawpaws, they don't know what they're missing.

CHOKES CANARY

Chicago Tribune, Oct. 14.

A "canary murder case" was before Judge Philip J. Finnegan in Town Hall court yesterday. Mrs. Nellie Lyons charged that her boarder, James Riley, became incensed at the early-morning warbles of her canary, Dickie, wrung its bird's neck and tossed it and its cage out the window. On Riley's promise to buy Mrs. Lyons another canary and control his temper, Judge Finnegan discharged him.

SHEEP

Albuquerque Journal, Oct. 17.

George Herd, partner in the Montoya Sheep Company at Datil and one of the large sheep operators of New Mexico, died at Denver, according to a report received at the company ranch.

His brother, Charles Herd, the other partner in the sheep company since the two came to New Mexico from Billings, Mont., about forty years ago, left immediately for Denver.

TEXAS GUINAN'S SUIT DROPPED

Plea for $100,000 Damages on Auto Crash Charge Dismissed

When attorneys for the Los Angeles Railway Company proved in Superior Judge Gates's court yesterday that the truck that collided with the automobile of Texas Guinan, night club hostess, was not being operated on company business Judge Gates threw out of court Miss Guinan's $100,000 suit against the company.

Miss Guinan, through a deposition introduced by her attorney, Milton Golden, asserted that she was injured September 4, 1928, at Ninth and San Pedro streets. She said she was laid up for a week and was forced to abandon a $5000-a-week stage contract.

TARIFF "AID" CONCEALED

Bingham 'Helper' Balks at Quiz

Senator Won't Reveal What 'Far Reaching' Results He Got Manufacturers

Association's Letters Shown to Have Praised Work in Fixing Duty Matters

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. (AP)—Inquiring into the relations between the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association and their agent while he was assisting Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, in writing the tariff bill, the Senate Lobby committee today found letters from officers of the organization expressing satisfaction over the "far reaching" results.

Charles L. Eyanson, the assistant to the president of the association, who was "loaned" to Bingham, informed throughout a day of severe examination that he was not responsible to the association while he was with the Senator although he continued to draw pay from that organization.

The witness declined to interpret phrases in a letter he received from the president of the association while he was with Bingham, which said "the results which you have accomplished are far reaching and will bear fruit for some time to come."

CHECK GOES IN RECORD

The committee closely examined items about a $1000 check he received from Senator Bingham after concluding his two months' work. Saturday Eyanson said he intended to return it to Bingham. Today he said he is not sure what he will do with it. The check was turned over for copying in the record.

After recessing the hearing until Monday, the committee went into executive session to discuss employment of counsel and investigators. Chairman Caraway announced afterward he has no intention of seeking prosecution for any violation of law which may be involved in the Bingham-Eyanson transaction. He said he wants to show the facts and any prosecution is for others, if it is deemed necessary.

QUESTION OF VIOLATION

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, however, said there is a question of violation of the law at issue as a private organization paid a man doing government work. He intimated he may ask the committee to consider this point later, though he is reserving judgment now.

E. Kent Hubbard, president, and Albert U. Rusell, secretary and treasurer of the association, were called to appear Monday.

Under questioning by Senator Walsh, Eyanson disclosed that Joseph R. Grundy, representative in Congress of the American Tariff League, had called him to Washington after he had concluded his work with Senator Bingham late in August and urged him to return to work for the Connecticut Senator.

Eyanson went over the cor-
